

Cheap Tea is Dear Tea

So declared the mother of a small family not long ago.

—And proved the statement true by simply relating her tea experience.

"I used a 30c. Tea for years," she said. "One day the Grocer asked me to try a 40c. package of Red Rose—he told me it was better Tea. I found it better Tea, and—before I had quite finished the first package I thought it made more Tea. The second pound I used with care——And found out that less Tea in the Pot made a richer, finer-flavored Tea, if you know what I mean."

We know exactly what this lady meant——40c. Red Rose Tea is a richer, stronger Tea, more delicately flavored.

The 30c. variety makes about 150 cups—

—Whereas the 40c. Red Rose Tea makes about 200 cups.

So—You might as well have better tea for the same cost in the long run.

There are several grades of Red Rose Tea selling at different prices, but the 40c. grade seems to please best. It is not only fine Quality but goes farther.

BEE'S CURE RHEUMATISM.
One Time Sufferer Makes Living by Marketing Honey.

The bee-cure for rheumatism has been thoroughly examined by medical colleges, says Farm and Fireside, and endorsed by them as scientific. The essence of the cure lies in the formic acid which bees inject into the blood.

The sting will not cure your rheumatism, neither will two or three, but if you let one bee sting you every day your rheumatism will soon disappear. That's what physicians who are watching an interesting experiment in Cincinnati, Ohio, say.

John Remmer of Cincinnati, long a sufferer from rheumatism, is taking the bee-sting cure. At the time this was written he had already taken two weeks of the treatment, about seven teen stings, and he likes it. At first hardly able to hobble about with the aid of a cane, Remmer can now walk almost as sprightly as any person. It is estimated by physicians that the poison injected into his system by the stinging bees has made the marked change in his chronic condition.

Only a few cases are on record where bees were used to cure rheumatism. Frederick W. Muth became interested in bee culture through having rheumatism. Now he has bees and no rheumatism.

Physicians who are watching this interesting experiment say that the formic acid which makes the sting of the bee so sharp and painful for the moment is the agent which nullifies the dreadful rheumatic pains. Sharp and painful as the stings are, it is a pain of relief compared to the dull and incessant pain of the rheumatism.

In the treatment the patient visits the apairy twice each week, taking from three to five stings at each visit. How to successfully conduct business.

It was a weird picture as gangs of men struggled over the snowy ground with three long boxes, and across the temporary bridge where the torrent had torn out and broken a large concrete pier. There was no sound but the murmur of the wind among the tangle of evergreens which bounded the background in a desolate scene.

DREAMS OF THE BLIND.

If Sight Lost After Seven They Distinguish Objects in Dreams.

Curious data have been gathered abroad with reference to the dreams of the blind. It appears that all dreams of normal persons are sight dreams and that a dream is spoken of as a vision. If the blind have no been born so, it is said, they may remember enough of what they have seen to enable them to imagine how things look, and when the imagination has free play in sleep, to picture themselves as in full possession of the sense of sight.

Physiologists would explain this re-maks a writer in Harper's Weekly by saying that during the years in which the subjects possessed the sense of sight a certain part of the brain had become educated to receive and interpret all these messages which the eye sends, and that when this part of the brain acts spontaneously in sleep the person dreams of seeing.

Of some two hundred blind persons of both sexes who were questioned, i was found that those who became blind before their fifth year never dreamed of seeing. Of those whose sight was lost between the fifth and seventh years some did and some did not see in their dreams, while although eye sight was lost after the seventh year had quite as vivid dream visions as normally endowed persons.

The fifth to the seventh year is thiperiod corresponds with the age at which authorities assign as the limit at which a child becoming deaf will also become dumb, and also with the age of one's earliest continuous memory of oneself.

It is interesting to note that blind persons dream quite as frequently as normal people, and that, with those who do not see in their dreams, hearing plays the principal part. When dreaming of home, for instance, the will hear the voices of relatives, perhaps will feel the familiar object in the household.
