

ONE SINGLE PILL GAVE GREAT RELIEF FOUR BOXES CURED HIM

PLESSISVILLE, QUE.
I suffered from Kidney Trouble for several years, and tried numerous remedies and doctors' prescriptions, without permanent relief, my case being chronic. After seeing about Gin Pills, and as it was a well known fact that Janipes without alcohol is excellent for the Kidneys, I decided to try Gin Pills. One single pill gave me great relief. I have taken almost four boxes of Gin Pills and find myself completely cured. No more bad humor increase in weight—clear eyes—fresh color—more strength and vigor. This is what Gin Pills have done for me.

THE BILINGUAL SCHOOL

MR. ROWELL DETAILS HIS POLICY REGARDING THEM.

Teachers Must be Provided And Inspectors Who Will See That the Regulations Are Enforced—The Springer Township Scandal Revived.

The proposals made by the prime-minister in the dying hours of the session of the legislature were in themselves a confession of the failure of the government to administer the law in the past. All that was promised was that in some important respects the law would be carried out in the future. No explanation had so far been given by the government as to why the law had not been carried out in the past and a venture to suggest," said Mr.
Rowell, "that no satisfactory answer can be given by the minister of education."

But the proposals of the prime minister were entirely inadequate. In his statement he had mentioned no provision for securing an additional body of teachers. The teachers for these schools should be trained in the schools of Ontario, and the schools should not be compelled as they have in the past to go to Quebec to secure teachers.

"It is not fair to blame our French Canadian fellow-citizens for the conditions in which we find these schools to-day. I venture to think that a number of the schools in the English-speaking section would, if inspected, be found inefficient because the trustees have been unable to secure properly trained teachers. The difficulty appears to be to get the minister of education to realize that the great problem in all of our schools to-day is the problem of teachers, and to devise comprehensive plans to meet the present critical situation.

"The government's policy is further inadequate in that it fails to recognize the absolute necessity of having resident inspectors, not only qualified, but in hearty sympathy with the carrying out of the law and the regulations of the department. No number of supervisors can take the place of efficient resident inspectors.

Unless the inspectors are hopelessly inefficient or the minister of education and his officials have paid no heed to their reports, the department of education must have been aware for years of the increasing inefficiency of these schools. The government has had not only its own officials to report to it, but some, if not all, of the matters pointed out in Dr. Mc-Cormack's report have been repeated, drawn to the attention of the government during the past two or three years, and yet, in the administration of the affairs of the department, apparently no change has been made.
The conditions complained of have evidently been permitted to continue if not to grow worse. The whole course of the government in dealing with this matter shows not only a lack of appreciation of the seriousness of the situation, but also a lack of courage and sincerity in dealing with it.

"They have adopted a purely time-saving policy, on the one hand giving pledges to a certain section of their supporters as to the radical reforms they would introduce; on the other hand either letting matters drift, or in answer to local appeals or the recommendation of the inspectors actually violating the law, to the great prejudice of the schools of the province.

The people of North-West Canada are alive and progressive. They wait on the lookout, and take advantage whenever the opportunity presents itself to develop both the agricultural and manufacturing interests of the country. The latest move is simply in keeping with the spirit which this new country has been showing.

However, the Canadian grain town east of Winnipeg will continue as it has in the past, to find its way to the seaport through New York State. The Great Lakes and the large canal will furnish a waterway over a thousand miles shorter to Europe than will that by way of the Panama Canal, so the people of the east have nothing to fear from the change announced.

There was absolutely no justification for writing this letter, said Mr. Rowell.
The trustees were acting within their legal rights, and the threat to hold them personally liable was an effort to coerce the trustees into carrying out the will of the Minister of Education contrary to their own views and conviction, and contrary to the views of the majority of the ratepayers. All the efforts of the opposition to probe into the circumstances surrounding this action in the public accounts committee of the legislature had been completely blocked by a majority of the committee.

Further evidence of the lack of courage and sincerity on the part of the government was supplied in the act that while Dr. Merchant had completed his report as originally contemplated in the summer of 1911, the report was not presented until after the election had taken place. Dr.
Merchant had found the situation so serious that in September he had an interview with the minister, and it was decided that the investigation should be continued, so as to cover more schools.

"If there was ever any doubt in the minds of the electors why the provincial elections were hurried on before the time, this statement given by Dr. Merchant before the public accounts committee should remove it.

The government was afraid to have its record in this respect brought before the public, or to take any definite stand on this important matter.

"The public, however, were not satisfied with this attitude on the part of the government, and plagues were descended from the conservative candidates throughout the country on this question." Mr. Rowell then quoted the conflicting statements made before the elections by several members of the government. The members of the government made one statement in one part of the province to suit one class of the electors, and another statement in another part of the province to suit another class.

The government have in recent years been trying to ride two horses which run in opposite directions, while the real needs and interests of the schools and children attending them have been grievously and shamefully neglected. What confidence can the public have in either their courage or sincerity in dealing with the question in future? Their shifty policy has been found out, and henceforth their professions will count for nothing.

"The public will judge by results, and the test of their sincerity will not be their professions, but the results which they actually produce in the schools of the province. They have the responsibility for the next four years of administering the educational system of this province. They have the opportunity and responsibility of atoning in some measure for their past neglects and misfeasances.
Will they do it? We must wait and see."

"But of one thing they and we all rest assured. The public opinion in the province will hold them to strict account. They must deal fairly with the children of our French-Canadian fellow-citizens. They must provide adequate means whereby these children may obtain a good English education in the public and separate schools of the province.

"Such a policy, if patiently, faithfully, and persistently carried out, should change the whole character of our English-French schools from inefficiency to efficiency; should insure that every child leaving our public school would have a good knowledge of English, and should tend to draw closely together and bind into one united people the different races and creeds that now go to make up the population of this province of Ontario."

THE NOTE OF SALVATION.

Montreal Witness. A pitiful thing, if true, is that two ships, the "Mesaba" and the "Parisian" are reported to have been at distances that are variously stated in different newspapers at fifty, ninety or one hundred and fifty miles from the sinking ship. Both their operators had unfortunately retired for the night before the call for help was sent out. Such ships as these have but occasional use for their single operator, who is quite sufficient even in emergency, as they can call him to work when needed. This disaster, however, raises the question if it is not necessary for every shop to keep all the time on watch an operator with at least enough skill to read the letters of the code call for aid. There are large possibilities awaiting the one among the thousands of amateur wireless workers who will discover an automata signal that will sound a note of warning on every ship within reach when the code letters are finished. Legislation is being precipitately introduced into the United States Congress and well considered administrative measures, and if necessary, new laws are certain to follow in calmer quarters.
