JOHN McKAY

DR. J. G. EVANS ASKS GIVEN THREE MONTHS

THAT HIS FELLOW-CITIZENS DEFER JUDGMENT

Concerning His Case Till the Evidence is Heard—He Asserts His Innocence of the Charge.

Dr. J. G. Evans, who has been for nine weeks in prison in Toronto, awaiting trial in connection with the Revell case, is out on bail of $2,000, and arrived in Kingston on Sunday morning. When interviewed on Monday, Dr. Evans made the following statement:—

"I am not inclined to discuss my case at this stage of the proceedings, but in view of the publicity and considerable manner in which you have treated the matter in your news columns, I could not think of refusing at least an expression of my personal appreciation. Since the unfortunate matter which is so well known by this time, developed, Kingston papers have published everything with a due regard to the fact that my home and family were here, with out depriving readers of such information as were interesting to them from the purely news standpoint, and the instincts of the press are sufficiently strong in me not to object to this.

"I arrived home yesterday morning and I was glad to be again in the city where I have lived for the last fourteen years. My welcome home compensated me some for what I have suffered in the past nine weeks and the hearty handshake and congratulations I have received from some of the best business men and citizens of Kingston are as a balm to a heart sore from suffering. Many friends have called at my home and extended sympathy as well as help if I needed it.

"I was admitted to bail on Friday morning, one of the best men in Toronto becoming my surety. There was no concrete reason why bail should not have been granted long ago, and if the most guilty person against which the worst crime has been charged, can be held isolated from everybody, for nine weeks without trial or the privilege of bail, then it is time we had a new Magna Charta.

"In my own conscience I never had any doubt as to what would be the finding of the coroner's jury in my case. The analyst submitted his exhibit to the most searching analysis for the volatile as well as the more permanent poisons and his report was of the most sweeping and convincing character. There was positively no evidence of traces of foul or unfair play. The report was supplemented by the report of Dr. Silverthorn and Dr. Archibald who performed the post-mortem and these two capable surgeons declared death to be due to 'natural causes.' This lifted a load from my heart, and a shadow from my life. I can assure you, and my friends here are glad of the result.

"Since my arrest, I have steadfastly refused to talk or even give evidence before the coroner's jury and I took this position because I felt it my duty to reserve my ammunition for the proper trial and place. This is the first word I have spoken for use or publication since I have insisted on trial by judge and jury so that it will not be settled in police court. I would like all to know that since the inquest terminated in our favour, the crown has been very friendly and considerate. This I appreciate even though it comes late in the case.

"A few of the so-called big dailies in Toronto have been a little 'yellow' in my case, whilst others have been generous and have shown the spirit of the genuine purveyor of news. I knew my own city would show up well and never worried. I only ask that my friends and fellow-citizens wait until they know the real facts before they form an opinion in this matter, and that even those who may not feel inclined to be generous will remember that I am a Kingstonian, who has always been loyal to the old limestone city and its best interests, and that I am entitled to be considered innocent until proven guilty by a jury of my peers. I feel it all very keenly and profoundly and the blow comes hard in life to one of my years. When I am ready to discuss the whole case, my own city papers will get the first word from my mouth, I assure you. Until then, please bear with me and remember that the heart and brain are too sore just now, to undertake a task even if it was an advisable one."

FOR THEFT COMMITTED TWO YEARS AGO.

William Bates Tried for Stealing Suit Case in Police Court Monday Morning—Constable Bateson Located the Missing Case.

For the theft of a suit case, nearly two years ago, William Bates, a young man, who was arrested in connection with theft of brass from the railways, a few days ago, was in Monday morning, sentenced to three months in jail, by Magistrate Farrell.

On August 20th, 1910, W. G. Gowen sent a suit of clothes, in a suit case, from Rockwood hospital, to a store in the Golden Lion block. The suit case went astray, and the police were notified. Constable James Bateson was given the case, and the night after the theft, he located the missing suit case at the home of a relative of the accused. The suit of clothes, valued at $25 was missing, also William Bates, who had taken the suit case to the house.

Constable Bateson took charge of the suit case, and it was later identified by Mr. Gowen. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Bates, but he did not come back to the city until recently. As he was gathered in with two other men in connection with the theft of brass, which charge he was acquitted, he was held to answer this other charge.

The prisoner told the magistrate that he had purchased the suit case from a man on the street, who told him a hard luck story. He wanted a dollar for it, but he made a bargain at seventy-five cents.

The magistrate said that he did not believe the story put forth by the accused, and that it would have been better for him had he admitted his guilt.

"There is no doubt, in my mind, is to your guilt," remarked the court. "The explanation you have given will not hold water. If you had purchased the suit case, you would have taken it with you when travelling."

ACQUIRED COMPANY.

A Statement That Finds Currency in Ogdenburg, N.Y.

A despatch from Ogdenburg, N.Y., in the station of assistant general manager, J. V. O'Donoghue, says that the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation company has acquired control of the Thousand Island Steamboat company and that the transfer will take effect on June 1st. President of the company, K. Crawford, of this city, was not aware of negotiations and did not believe that the Richelieu & Ontario company has secured control. A large amount of the capital stock is held by Toronto people. The Thousand Island Steamboat company is largely local in character and it would seem unlikely that a through line would desire to have it.

YOUNG MAN WAS FINED

FOR KILLING SQUIRREL IN CITY PARK.

Youth Admitted Throwing at Squirrel and Causing its Death—Magistrate Will Deal Severely With Future Offenders.

A young man, who fired a stone, in city park and caused the death of a squirrel, was given a severe reprimand, by Magistrate Farrell, in police court, Monday morning, and also fined $1 and costs. The complaint was lodged by W. H. Phillips, superintendent of parks.

The young man told the magistrate that he only fired a piece of mud, but he admitted that the poor squirrel had died.

Mr. Phillips pointed out to the magistrate, that he did not wish severe punishment meted out in this case, but he did want boys and young men to understand that the practice of throwing at the squirrels must be stopped.

"We want to keep the squirrels there," he added. Men who should know better, had been guilty of the offence.

Mr. Phillips also stated that there were a great many complaints about boys using catapults in the park. Magistrate Farrell said that it was too bad, that there should be trouble of this kind in our natural parks. People should know enough to leave the squirrels alone. He pointed out that, in Boston, wild ducks were allowed on the river, in the heart of the city. And they were not interfered with, as people knew that if they did touch them, they would come in for the condemnation of the citizens in general.

SUNDAY WORK ON BOAT

Was Stopped at Instance of Lord's Day Alliance.

Rev. John Webster, preaching in Brook Street Methodist church, Sunday morning, when touching upon the question of Sabbath rest and observance took occasion to refer to the work that has been going on at the new government tug Bellocchase, which is being rushed at the yards of the Kingston Shipbuilding company for launching. He said he had telephoned one of the directors of the company, who said he knew some men were working. Mr. Webster understood the work had been stopped by him.

One of the company's representatives, said, Monday morning, that the company was opposed to Sunday labor, but owing to conditions over which it had no control, it was forced to put the men to work on Sunday, to rush the vessel.

The Lord's Day Alliance could not intervene in the case of repair work on vessels in service, but in this case they have the power to demand the stopping of work.

Out Again, in Again.

James McGrath, a young Irish whiskey, made two visits to the police court within three days.

"What have you to say?" asked Magistrate Farrell of him when he appeared in police court on Monday morning.

"Sure, and I don't know what to say," was the reply.

"But you are coming here too often," remarked the court. "I will fine you $5 and costs, or one month in jail. I gave you a chance just a few days ago."

LAD REPORTED MISSING.

Thomas Smart, Aged Fourteen, of Cushehdall, Cannot be Located.

Where is Thomas Smart, aged fourteen, of Cushehdall?

This is the question. Thomas, who is fourteen years of age, is a home boy, sent out from Brockville, and for the past year has been making his home with Edward Hunter, a well-known resident of that place. The lad was working around the farm as usual, all day, Saturday, and just at dusk he made off and since that time no trace has been found of him. Mr. Hunter was in the city, Monday, and reported the matter to the Wing. The lad is rather stout, and when he went away was attired in his working clothes.

Thomas Branscombe, of Pieton, had his foot badly crushed at Trenton, on Friday, by a shunting engine of the C. O. railway.

Had a Narrow Escape.

Three Queen's students who had been attending the university last fall almost met death last week by being thrown into the lake at Belmont, near Trenton. These students had been up near Trenton on a survey, and were paddling along in a canoe. All at once they came to rest of a rapid, and in less time that it takes to tell the tale, the three were thrown into the water. Two of them could swim, and they got hold of their companion and brought him safely to shore.
