THE SPORT REVIEW

WILL BE SUNDAY SCHOOL BASEBALL THIS SEASON.

A Meeting Held Last Evening to Organize the Teams—The Local Lacrosse Situation—Kingston Runners for Belleville.

At a meeting of the executive of the Sunday school A.A.A., held on Tuesday evening, in the Y.M.C.A. building, it was decided to have baseball in connection with the association. Nearly every team was represented. The teams represented were: St. George's, Bethel, St. John's, St. James', Queen, Sydenham, St. Luke's.

On account of the three vacancies on the executive, others were appointed to take the several positions. Rev. A. P. Mershon, was elected a first vice-president, to take the place of Frank R. Beckwith. George Holland was elected as secretary, in place of Robert Treener; Frederick Pense was elected as treasurer, in place of John Stagg; and Harold Treener was elected as assistant treasurer.

From the interest shown at the meeting, everything looks favorable for the best baseball season in the history of the association. Some of the teams that won in the league last season were not represented, but they will, no doubt, join in at the next meeting. Two more schools at least will join the association, namely, St. John's and St. Luke's. Both these schools have been in the association before, but not in baseball.

Some discussion took place regarding city league players and a notice of motion was given that no senior city league player be allowed to figure on any of the teams, and this motion will be voted on at the next meeting.

The Mercantile League at its last meeting made this same rule and it looked upon as being the best thing for the teams at large. It will mean that the ball will be not as fast, but those who were unable to play before will be in the game if the proposed rule goes through as it is most likely to do.

It is expected that if city leaguers are barred from playing, other schools will enter. The rule last season was that no city league players could form the battery, but it did not prove very successful.

A committee was appointed to make inquiries as to the best place to play the games.

Another meeting has been called for Saturday evening at 7.30 o'clock, and it should be ready to enter at this meeting.

THE GENESIS OF EMPIRE DAY.

Reference to Mrs. Clementine Fessenden, the Founder.

In 1896, the Westworth Historical Society passed a resolution of condolence with Mrs. Fessenden on the loss of her husband, the late rector of Ancaster. In her few words of reply, Mrs. Fessenden was accompanied by her six-year-old granddaughter, said that she hoped that the patriotic spirit of the grandfathers would descend to the children. Little Kathleen Trenholm Fessenden was then made an honorary member of the society. Afterwards Mrs. Fessenden was so deeply impressed with the patriotic aspirations of the child that she said to herself, "Why should not all children be stimulated in this way?"

And then she set about to seek the realization of her vision. She first got the newspapers interested, and then the minister of education, Hon. G. W. Ross. The Hamilton board of education took up the matter and asked that one afternoon on the year be set apart for the purpose of inculcating patriotic sentiment. A resolution to this effect was sent on to Hon. Mr. Ross, and proceedings were carried out, with the result that Empire day was founded in 1899 and incorporated into our school system.

Life of the Country Editor.

As a class, country editors are the most versatile people on earth. They have to cover a wide range of human activities, and so so. That is why they, as a rule, are not great financial successes, and, on the other hand, get the most fun out of life.

The job of the country editor is in a class by itself. There is no more similarity between the work of a country editor and that of a city newspaper worker than there is between peeling potatoes and playing a tuba. The editor is a specialist. He writes paragraphs or attends police court or operates a linotype—just one thing and nothing more.

Out in the country town his composite brother is the whole works, jumping lightly from the ink leg to the subscription book, sorting rules or collecting bills, washing rollers or writing paragraphs. He cannot be master of all trades, but he can be master of one which will bring him the necessary ghost penmanship. His position gives him an opportunity of having a lot of fun out of life, if he looks at things with a healthy viewpoint. And so he goes on, the average successful country editor, "toiling, rejoicing, sorrowing," jack at all trades and master of one—from a paper read by Elmer Peterson, editor of the Cimarron Jacksonian, at a recent meeting of Kansas editors.

COULD NOT READ WRITING.

Dead Author's Manuscript Had to be Abandoned.

It was stated at the time of Col. Burnaby's death that he had left behind him the manuscript of a novel, for which there was considerable competition among the publishers.

This is quite true. The manuscript, a bulky parcel, was handed to me with discretionary powers either to publish it myself or use it in connection with the proposed biography.

Here a singular and as it finally proved, a fatal obstacle presented itself. Familiar for many years with Burnaby's handwriting, I could not after diligent endeavor make out more than a sentence here and there on the crowded pages of manuscript.

Burnaby's writing was possibly, with the exception of Dean Stanley's, the worst I ever saw. It looked as if before sitting down to write a letter he had pulled a twig out of the hedge, mixed a little blacking and then gone ahead.

He wrote the whole of his "Ride to Khiva" and his "Ride on Horseback Through Asia Minor" with his own hand. But before they reached the printer they were fairly written out by a copyist.

The hapless man used to make out as much as he could, then leave blanks, for filling up, for which he had to seek assistance of the author.

Sometimes there were more blanks in a page than words.

Despairing of making anything of the manuscript of the novel it was submitted to a publisher, who turned upon it his most skillful decipherers. Neither head nor tail could be made of the manuscripts, and the intention of publishing the novel was abandoned.

—Sir R. W. Lacey in Cornhill Magazine.

HOW THEY MAKE TEA.

Scarcely Two Nations Prepare it in the Same Way.

In England, France and Germany tea is made in much the same piebald way, but in other countries the method of enjoying the cup which cheers is a more picturesque ceremony.

In China, for example, a large, artistic cup is set in a brass or silver holder, and in this cup the tea is placed and covered with boiling water. A little saucer which just fits it is placed inside the cup to keep in the steam and flavor of the tea. When it is drawn it is poured from the big cup into dainty little ones no bigger than an eggshell. The method followed in Japan is almost similar.

Tea making in Russia is a simple process, involving merely the use of a samovar and a slice of lemon or of lime.

In Japan tea is served in broad, flat cups and flavored with Betavia, arak, and in Formosa it is steeped with tea flowers and one or two orange flowers.

For their tea drinking the Uruguayans employ silver tubes, each of which has at the end a ball-like strainer, known as a bomba or bombilla.

In Martinique an aromatic tea is used, and a peculiar liquor made by the monks and by the old French housewives is added.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

AN UNBREAKABLE WILL AT LAST!

Here's a Will That Cannot be Disputed.

When a piece of machinery is so strong and simple that it cannot go wrong, it is often called "loolproof."

The same thing might be said of the Bax Will Form but for the fact that a fool never makes a will, and he is the only man who does not.

Every man or woman of intelligence realize the importance of making a will, even when the amount to be left is small. Some people, however, delay the matter because they do not wish to incur the expense of lawyers' fees or wish to avoid publicity. It is to these people that the Bax Will Form appeals. It costs only 35c, and there is no necessity for letting any person else know the contents of the will. With each form there is a specimen will made out correctly, with full instructions for your guidance.

The will made on the Bax Will Form is positively legal and indisputable. See that the name "Bax" appears on the form.

For sale by all druggists and stationers at 35c, or send receipt of price by the Bax Will Form Company, Toronto.

For sale by College Book Store, 350 Princess street.
