CASE OF TELLER ARTHUR.

What Inspector T. E. Merrett Says of Young Man. Montreal Herald. What prompted Harold G. Arthur, the young teller in the branch of the Merchants' Bank at Kingston, to disappear so suddenly and completely is as much of a mystery to-day as ever.

Detectives of the guarantee company that had Mr. Arthur under bond to the Merchants' bank, have not been able to discover him yet. Certain irregularities in the bank cannot be satisfactorily cleared without the presence of the missing clerk. Inspector Patterson, who found the teller's cash to balance satisfactorily, has, nevertheless, ascertained that the funds of the bank are short about $2,000.

IN THE POLICE COURT

TWO YOUNG MEN BEFORE MAGISTRATE FOR FIGHTING.

Case of One Dismissed—Other Fined $5 and Costs, as it Was Claimed He was Aggressor.

John Vaughan and Frank W. Campbell had a little "spat" at the corner of Queen and Wellington streets, last Tuesday afternoon, which reached the police court, on Friday morning. Both were charged with fighting on the street.

Vaughan said "not guilty," to the charge, and added that he had just acted in self-defense. Campbell also claimed that he was not guilty of the charge made against him.

Constable James Craig, told what he knew of the matter. He was near the scene of the trouble, and noticed the two men exchanging blows, but he could not say which one of the men had been the cause of the trouble.

D. A. Givens appeared on behalf of Vaughan, and the latter, questioned about the affair, stated that Campbell had been the aggressor in the matter. He said that while he was walking along the street, Campbell jumped on a rig, and coming up to him, said, "You are the man I am looking for," afterwards striking him; Vaughan admitted that he had struck his fist then to defend himself, and to get away from his assailant, as soon as he broke away, he ran away from the scene, to save further trouble.

Campbell claimed that Vaughan had started the trouble. "He whistled for me when I got passing," he said, "and when I got all the rig and came up to him, he struck me." Campbell then pointed to his left eye, which was in mourning.

"Can you get a witness to substantiate your story," asked the magistrate of Campbell.

"I do not know as I can," replied Campbell. "I did not know anyone who happened to be near at the time."

The magistrate disposed of the case by dismissing the charge against Vaughan, and imposing a fine of $5 and costs upon Campbell.

Peter Connors, well up in years, took an overdose of whiskey, on Thursday, and early in the evening was put out of business. He picked out the hay left in the barn at the Hotel Dieu for sleeping quarters, but was given a call by Constables Mullinger and Downey, and the remainder of his sleep was taken at the police station.

Connors wanted to be put on the "prohibited list," but he was far more eager for his liberty, so he worked the first proposition.

"Put me on the list, and give me a chance," he said.

"Do you mean that?" asked the magistrate.

"Yes, I mean it, all right."

Connors thought he had worked a "pass," all right, but he was mistaken.

"I'll remand you for a day," said the court.

James Devine, another tippler, also wanted to go on the list. He will have a chance to put his name on the roll if he so desires, but his duty to the court is to cover a fine of $3 and costs, or twenty days.

Frederick Johnson, the youth who ran away from the general hospital while a jail prisoner, on remand, was further remanded for a week.

A young man who created a disturbance at a home on Barriefield street, was bound over to keep the peace.

AT BARRIEFIELD CAMP.

Friday Was a Grand Day for Work of the Men.

Friday was a grand day in Barriefield camp. In the morning the regiment marched down the road, and drilled for some time, and then returned to dinner, which was served at 12.30 o'clock. The grounds are gradually drying up and now present a very good appearance.

The camp this season is not as largely attended by some of the regiments as was expected.

The Signalling Corps was busy on the hills in the morning. The regiment did some manoeuvring.

The water supply is in first class condition, and every person seems well pleased with the service.

DR. EDWARDS ANNOYED

BECAUSE THE CITY CONTINUES TO COLLECT TOLL.

On the Cataragui Bridge—He Tells Mayor Hoag What He Thinks of the City Council's Action.

Dr. J. W. Edwards, M.P., who only a short time ago received notice from the minister of public works at Ottawa that he had ordered the tolls to be removed from Cataragui bridge, is annoyed at the civic finance committee because the tolls have not been taken off. The matter stands as follows:

The city and government have arranged for the transfer of the bridge, and the city council is awaiting the completion of formalities such as the signing and forwarding to the city of the deeds of transfer. The intention of the government to remove the tolls upon taking over the bridge has been made quite clear. The civic finance committee, however, has the right to collect tolls until these formalities have been completed, and at a recent meeting it gave instructions to do so.

Dr. Edwards has fought so long to bring about the transfer of the bridge to the government and the removal of the tolls, was somewhat annoyed by this action on the part of the city. He communicated, on Friday morning, with Mayor Hoag, and gave in no uncertain terms his opinion of the finance committee's action.

"Has the city any doubt," said Dr. Edwards, "as to the good faith of the government in taking over the bridge? Do they doubt the authenticity of Mr. Monk's letter to me which appeared in the newspapers a short time ago? If they do not, why, for the sake of the last few coppers they can collect, do they issue such instructions?"

"In my estimation," he continued, "it is a mighty mean piece of business."

The mayor has promised to call the committee together at the earliest possible date and lay the matter before them.

THE LATE MRS. BROPHY.

An Aged Wellington Street Resident Passes Away.

One of the oldest and best known residents of Kingston passed away at ten o'clock, on Friday morning, when Mrs. William Brophy, aged eighty years, died at her home on Wellington street. Mrs. Brophy died of old age. She had been ailing for three years past, although up until last summer she was able to be out and was a regular visitor at the market square on Saturday. She retained her youth well, and was noted for her bright face and pleasant word to everyone.

The deceased leaves two daughters, Margaret and Helena, and two sons, Joseph and Charles, also one sister, Mrs. Tobin, of Boonin, New Jersey.

Mrs. Brophy was born in Montreal, and lived in Sorel, Que., until 1856, when she was married to the late Ald. William Brophy and moved to Kingston. She had lived here ever since. Her husband died thirty-seven years ago. She was a Roman Catholic in religion and had been a faithful member of St. Mary's cathedral. The funeral will be held on Monday morning, at nine o'clock.

The Y.M.C.A. Camp.

Major W. H. Macnee and William Carroll have "responded to the call" of the Y.M.C.A. for tents for the boys' camp, which is to be held at Grindstone island, forty miles down the St. Lawrence, in July. All who can help in this way should communicate with the general or boys' secretaries. The outing promises to be a big success.

The bathing house past Lake Ontario Park is being renovated and improved, for the boys of the Y.M.C.A. during the summer months.

E. P. Trimble, the late secretary, is expected in the city for Saturday, Sunday and Monday, to be on hand on the Y.M.C.A. tent at the Barriefield camp.

Death of Dorris Hughes.
