Tips For the Farmer
BY UNCLE JOSE.

Cut Worms and Army-Worms.
Two species of caterpillar, the cut worm and the army worm, have been considered by the officials of the experimental farms to be of sufficient interest to the crop growers in Canada to warrant the preparation of a bulletin upon them for public distribution. These two common enemies of crops are credited with causing every year damage amounting to a large sum of money, reaching in some seasons hundreds of thousands of dollars. They are both night feeders and are most destructive early in the season. A Guide to Agriculture.
By direction of the Hon. Martin Burrell, minister of agriculture, a timely bulletin on bee-keeping has been issued by the federal department of agriculture. According to a statement of the author, Dr. C. Gordon Hewitt, domestic entomologist, this work has been prepared to meet a very persistent demand for information by persons who wish to learn how to begin and to continue the industry of agriculture. It was the further object of the author to increase the number of bee-keepers in Canada by indicating the advantages of bee-keeping. It is pointed out that beekeeping returns the direct profit of a honey crop and the indirect one of improvement to yields of clover seed and fruit. It is observed that a bullock after being fed and cared for during an entire winter will not realize much more than the produce of a colony of bees in a single season. Beginners are recommended to start on a small scale with one or two hives, increasing the number annually as experience is gained. This treatise of forty-five pages, which is helpfully illustrated, covers, in plain language, the whole field of agriculture, including equipment, management, the production of honey and wax, diseases, legislation of the various provinces against bee diseases, etc. It is designated "The Honey Bee" bulletin, No. 2, division of entomology, and No. 69, experimental farms. Copies may be had free by applying to the publications branch, department of agriculture, Ottawa.

Feeding Stock.
Prof. H. Barton, of Macdonald College, in addressing the farmers of Quebec, laid great stress upon the importance upon selecting the proper type of steer when buying to feed for the market. The animal, he said, should be low set, thick and deep. The narrow, shallow, coarse steers with a poor spring of rib, he declared, is a losing proposition for any man. He advised starting feeding on the cheapest ration possible. Rape in the fall, then silage, roots, clover hay, straw and chaff, with but very little meal for a month. Gradually decrease the roughage and increase meals of a heavier character, such as corn and cottonseed, as the finishing period arrives. To finish on grass it is advisable to winter as cheaply as possible with very little grain. The steer should be marketed about two years of age. Prof. Barton emphasized the importance of clean, comfortable quarters for the cow coming into milk, as insanitary conditions often cause udder troubles. The cow should be fed carefully for the first ten days. He advised the following ration for a cow giving forty pounds of milk per day: Thirty pounds corn silage, fifteen pounds roots, seven pounds meal mixed (two bran, two oats, one barley, one cottonseed or gluten) and one and a half pounds of oil cake. This ration, he said, costs about twenty cents a day. In the summer the farmer should depend upon pasture alone for only two months. Then green feed—oats or peas—should be supplied. Corn and alfalfa are valuable at the time of short pasture. One acre of barren pasture under corn, he said, will feed twenty cows for one month.

Big Returns From Swamp.
Near Fredericton Junction, in New Brunswick, is an area of 346 acres of condemned swamp, which was taken over for farming purposes last week.

by the Canadian Pacific railway as an addition to its demonstration farms established there in April. The land lies in the centre of a section where farming as a means of living is looked upon as an impossibility owing to the wet state of the greater part of the soil. The company intended to prove the adaptability of the district for practical agriculture, and has engaged the services of William Ilfingworth, a successful New Brunswick farmer, who will start in immediately to reclaim the marshy land. When a newspaper representative visited the farm the other day he learned that the C.P.R. had procured the swamp for about $2 per acre. An authority was despatched from the head office to estimate the value of the timber covering the area, and he reported a quantity sufficient to make 25,000 railway ties, which at 40¢ apiece means a value of $10,000. After the land has been cleared and underdrained it should be worth at least $100 an acre. For the C.P.R., which has capital enough to dig for such things, it will be like finding a real treasure.

Moving an Ostrich Farm.
An experiment recently carried on in New South Wales proves, according to the Standard of Empire, that ostriches can be driven from place to place successfully as sheep, cattle, or horses. The experiment was made by T. J. Herbert, a local ostrich farmer, who desired to transfer his fine flock of seventy ostriches from his farm at Temora to an irrigation area he had secured under the state at Yanco—a distance of eighty-five miles. The birds had to be driven a considerable portion of the distance to be trucked by train for the remainder of the journey. The result of the experiment, which was conducted by careful, experienced drivers, showed that the ostriches proved easier to handle, if anything, than sheep, the method adopted being to push them from behind. Many people imagine that an ostrich will kick if interfered with, and that consequently it is dangerous to get behind one, but though they do kick, they kick forward like a cow. They can be pushed from behind with perfect safety. The birds were considerably alarmed at barking dogs en route, and horses were equally frightened of them, but there was no mishap.

Russia's Czar.
The Emperor of Russia has just celebrated his birthday. His has not been an easy or a comfortable life, and few would like to succeed to such a throne. On more than one occasion attempts have been made on his life, and he is condemned to exist in an atmosphere of suspicion and intrigue. His majesty is not the weakling he has been represented in some quarters, though the trials and troubles through which he has had to pass have undoubtedly affected in a serious manner his nervous system. He is a very well-read man, and finds relaxation in poetry and music. Like the late King Edward, he is very fond of what, and it is said that in the course of a year he and his friends have used as many as twelve hundred packs of cards, costing $5,500.

MOTORIST FADS AND FANCIES.

Tonneau Pillows, Lunch Baskets and Touring Wraps.
Quite a new and pretty idea is the new automobile pillow. It comes in green suede, also in black automobile leather. It has two loop handles and is lined with moire silk with two little inner pockets and a larger one to carry veils and a duster.
The rop front tea basket is quite the handiest of its kind, though not absolutely dust proof. It is better for short runs. It is entirely fitted for six with rose china and nickel fittings. It looks most attractive when opened.
Butterfly marguerette with broche flowers or butterflies over the surface makes very attractive scarfs for automobile use. It is finished with silk fringe or lace. This dainty trifle can be made at home and can be chosen in the wearer's favorite color.
Fascinating poke bonnets are made of old rose silk, with tiny ruches of black and white marine facing trim. A tiny bunch of silk roses in front of each ear with long silk ties and the crown trimmed with folds and buttons to match, complete the headgear.
One of the new dust coats is made of shepherds' plaid linen, quite a new fad this season. It is in the new double drop sleeve model, the sleeve giving the effect of a cape at the back. The deep reverse collar in front buttons across with three large buttons in greater protection is needed.
Heavy natural linen dusters with colored linen collars and cuffs are quite popular this season. The heavy brown canvas coats trimmed with linen galoon braid, one inch wide, formed in ornaments across the double breasted fronts, tops of the cuffs and on the sailor collar, are also quite swaggar.
One of the popular automobile parasols is of black velvet lined with white silk. The little green parasol of the same shape have tiny pinked ruffles running around the top. The jointed handle is green, to match the silk.
A new emergency case has made its appearance. It is about eight inches square, has one small tray and has loop straps in the cover which hold all "first aid" articles for the injured.
Among the odd coats offered is one of double faced Ottoman silk of black on one side, with shaded cerise on the other, with a deep reverse collar and silk buttons and cords to match. Another coat is of heavy gray silk, covered with black and gold chiffon cloth. It is the looped robe model with black satin scarf ties finished with gold and black tassels.
If one has room and is catering for a large party en route the large vacuum pitchers make welcome additions to the luncheon outfit. They may be filled and packed in the trunk foot rest and be perfectly secure.
Black and white Bedford cord robes, with plaid on one side, are very much used for out of town trips.
Rubberized silk and satin hat bags come in colors to match the linings of the cars.

Appropriate Hymns.
Vancouver Province.
The members of a church choir visited the Central prison, Sunday afternoon, and expressed a willingness to sing any hymn requested by the inmates. "Gates Ajar" was the unanimous choice, but, by special request of the warden, the programme concluded with "Abide With Me."

It is a fortunate thing for the average man that his actions are less than one-half as heroic as his thoughts. French self-taught is usually confined to French self-understood.
