High Death Rate in th Spring

At the very time of year when all nature is awakening to new life human beings are overcome by lassitude and distaste for physical activity, and the death rate mounts higher than at any other time during the year.

What can be the cause? It seems to be due to the mode of life during the cold winter months. By living cooped up in overheated, ill-ventilated rooms, the lungs are deprived of the life-giving oxygen, the blood becomes loaded with impurities which are not eliminated from the system as they should be by the liver and kidneys.

These filtering organs are torpid, sluggish and inactive, and need Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to restore them to health and activity. There is no way by which the blood can be purified except by the eliminating process carried on by the liver and kidneys. Hence the effectiveness of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a means of purifying the blood.

THE MAJORITY OF PORTSMOUTH PEOPLE SATISFIED

With Early Closing of Public School—A Protest Against the Erection of Unsightly Signs on Vacant Lots.

Portsmouth, June 28.—(To the Editor.) With regard to the item in your paper regarding the closing of Portsmouth public school I notice you say that some party or parties objected to such closing. I think there is a misapprehension regarding this, as the writer, who is intimately connected with school matters in the village, knows that the large majority of the school board was in favor of closing the school at the same time as the city schools closed, it having been the custom for the last eight or ten years to make the opening and closing of the Portsmouth school agree with that of the Kingston schools. The writer is of the opinion that most if not all of the Portsmouth parents were of this way of thinking, too, and concurred in the early closing action. Yours, truly, ONE INTERESTED.

Those Unsightly Signs.

Kingston, June 28.—(To the Editor.) Recognizing the fact that Kingston's rapid advancement to a 50,000 population mark is an assured reality the sign boards come on us like the descent of an aeroplane, and by holding up ten-dollar bills won the hearts of many of our leading citizens and our residential and business centres look like waste lands near Toronto, Odessa and other prosperous cities. The writing company will likely take action in the matter.

Two leading citizens, former active members of the city council, are getting on their wits. Union street can get along nicely without these wind-breakers. Nature has bestowed Kingston more than any other city I know of, and why our best merchants look for fame by painting our fences and granite rocks with their names and wares I cannot understand. The only proper channel to advertise is through the daily papers. You say it is expensive. Did you think how many tips you get for nothing from the daily papers, sometimes warning you against losses and giving you pointers putting thousands in your pockets. Oh, you narrow-minded generation. It is the likes of you that block progress and keep us from being in line with the cities that are getting on. Did these sign men get permits same as other citizens have to get? Mayor Hoag, get your armor on and call a meeting of your warriors. Make Kingston beautiful and don't forget the waterfront.—CRITIC.

Would Like Whole Day.

Kingston, June 28.—(To the Editor.) Regarding the proclaimed public holidays, don't you think the clerks and employees are entitled to the whole day, as has been the custom? Work behind the counter is hard and wearing on the constitution and people should be generous enough to order enough the day before to last over a holiday. If a couple of clerks would go around with a petition I feel sure ninety per cent. of the merchants would sign it and the other ten per cent. would have to fall into line or get a bad repute.—CLERK.

INSPECTING TERMINALS.

Grand Trunk Officials Visiting Toronto and Elsewhere.

Toronto, June 29.—E. J. Chamberlin, president of the Grand Trunk railway system, has paid his first official visit to Toronto this week and was accompanied by J. E. Dalrymple, vice-president; H. G. Kelley, vice-president; W. G. Brownlee, general transportation manager, and Superintendent U. E. Gillen. These, with a number of local officials, inspected the terminal site and the progress of work upon the grade. Mr. Kelley stated that he could not say when ground would be broken for the station building as they had not received official notice from the railway commission yet to start and at least six months would be required to work out the plans and details of the building. These plans, he added, no truth in the statement that the Toronto station would be left until that at Montreal had been completed. The party has proceeded west for Buffalo and Chicago by a special train, and will inspect all the western terminals before returning to Montreal.

INTO THE WAY OF PEACE.

Men Have Not Yet Learned to Live at Peace.

[To guide our feet into the way of peace.—St. Luke 1:79.]

It seems almost a hollow mockery in days like these, to say anything about Jesus' having come into this world "to guide our feet into the way of peace"—for there does not appear to be much peace around, despite centuries of Christian teaching.

As between nations, there is peace enough, such as it is. With bristling battleships and well-filled magazines, the world's big families manage to avoid open hostilities.

But when we come to consider the individual, we find only a few persons who live in peace with themselves and others. We find a large number of persons who are constantly at war with self and with outside persons or conditions. As a matter of fact, we discover a militant attitude on the part of the mass which is going all in keeping with the lessons taught by the man of Galilee who came to bring peace, we are told.

Setting aside such conditions, social and economic, as warrant a warlike attitude on the part of the majority, why is it there should be such a prevalence of unrest and uncertainty and such a host of troubled faces?

And, likewise, setting aside the answers that might come from leaders of class or mass movements, we reach at least a partial answer to the great question in the general desire of people to always be getting "out a little more."

The life of Jesus, if carefully studied, presents a perfect picture of simplicity. He stood for the extreme of everything that is simple. In habits, home, garments and desires. He was more simple than even a normal child.

The only glories or splendors that stand out in all the story of His life are the glories of the hills and the sea. There are no palaces, no high feasts, no pageants, no splendid robes, no triumphs in which music and flags play a part.

It is all the simplest part of everyday doing and being, and whenever He spoke it was in simple words. He urged His followers to keep simple. "Except ye become as little children," was one of His prime injunctions.

And almost as if the world which professes to follow Jesus had determined to practise the very opposite of what He taught, simplicity is being set aside more and more. With each new day we are confronted by new and more ornate and complex styles and conditions. Simple wants and needs are being buried deep under mountains of imagined needs and exaggerated wants.

Thus we are steering ourselves out of the way of peace.

For the prime requisite of a peaceful life is simplicity. In an ornate, superficial, false mode of living, is no hope for anything but strife, vexation and conflict. Where luxury and excess dwell, there dwells also a thirst for something that will satisfy the soul.

And the way Jesus sought to guide our feet into the way of peace was not the way many of us to-day are taking. Not the way of pretence, display, and affectation.

In the quiet effort to be honest and pure and to do the best we can with what we have, always, of course, reaching out to add to our responsibilities in every just and fair way, we will find a degree of contentment that cannot be got through any other method.

The best way to find the path which leads into this way of peace is to study the life of Jesus, and having done this, to try to apply to our daily course the principles set forth by His matchless life.—Philadelphia North America.

The Man On Watch.

The Montreal health board, of Montreal, the Lampan notices, has ordered that grocers and others must not display food, fruits, etc., on the sidewalks. This is a good move, and should be copied by Kingston, for reasons that need not be enumerated.

Bakers are required to exercise care in the handling of bread, and cleanliness of late years has been urged upon farmers with regard to the handling of butter. Why, then, should other foodstuffs be left to the mercy of the street? The Lampan is sure that the housewives would appreciate the enforcement of the Montreal regulation in Kingston.

Among the various town ordinances that are not enforced is the waterworks by-law which says that water shall be used on lawns and by stores for sidewalk cleaning only from 5 to 9 a.m. and from 4 to 8 p.m. If the town authorities wish to collect a few fines, it would be a wiser matter to summon a dozen prominent townspeople before the police magistrate for allowing hose to run on their lawns within prohibited hours.

The Lampan has seen hose in operation between 10 and 11 p.m. These same people who break this town ordinance would be the first to criticize the hotelman for not closing his bar at 11 p.m. If the by-law is not to be enforced, it would be only fair to allow the law-abiders to have the advantage of a little more water on their lawns. Let Policeman Timmerman get busy.

Again the Lampan hears murmurs of disapproval of some of the grammar school entrance examination papers, particularly that on arithmetic. He has not seen any of them himself this year, but has read over many in former years. For secondary matter to be the first to criticize the hotelman for not closing his bar at 11 p.m. If the by-law is not to be enforced, it would be only fair to allow the law-abiders to have the advantage of a little more water on their lawns. Let Policeman Timmerman get busy.

How about it boys—don't you want a nice, cool, sleeveless jersey? Well we have them in Navy, White and Red—all sizes—for 25c.
