A MEMORIAL SERVICE

HELD IN THE SALVATION ARMY CITADEL -

For the Late General William Booth —Tributes Paid to the Dead Founder of the Army.

With the seating capacity of the citadel filled, a memorial service of deep solemnity, for the late General William Booth, was conducted by the Salvation Army, on Wednesday evening. Tributes were paid to the deceased chief's life and work by representative ministers and citizens.

Adjutant Allen, the officer in charge of the corps, presided, and the band, under the direction of Bandmaster William Christmas, played suitable selections and hymns. The interior and exterior of the building were draped, and the general's picture centred the front of the platform. A few hours previous a memorial service took place in the Olympic hall, London, Eng.

With the singing of the hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," the service commenced, followed with prayer by Rev. W. K. Shortt.

On the platform with the adjutant and Mrs. C. Snell, were Rev. Dr. Ryckman, Prof. W. G. Jordan, W. F. Nickle, K.C., M.P., Rev. W. F. FitzGerald, Rev. W. K. Shortt, Rev. William Craig, and Dr. A. E. Ross, M.P.P.

A clergyman of the Church of England, in which the late general was confirmed, Rev. W. F. FitzGerald, read the scripture lesson. The male choir (members of the band) sang "Christians, Good Night," and the band played effectively, "Welcome, Sweet Day," one of the general's favorite hymns.

Adjutant Allen, here, owing to the non-arrival, through miscarriage, of the message of Commissioner Rees, the general Canadian lieutenant, read some items of interest from the memorial War Cry.

Mrs. Charles Snell, wife of the local sergeant-major, and Bandmaster William Christmas gave eulogies of the general, representing the women and men soldiery of the army. Both had known the general personally in England. Bandmaster Christmas was also, for years, an officer. They told of the impressions the deceased had made on their lives, and referred to instances of his labor in their corps. Because the Christ-spirit inplanted in their hearts the soldiery is carrying and will carry out the general's command, "Go on!"

The band, at this time, with the congregation standing, rendered "The Dead March in Saul."

W. F. Nickle continued the eulogies, speaking on behalf of the general public. Though not acquainted with the army's late chief, Mr. Nickle extended the sympathy of the public at his passing beyond the veil, and spoke of his impressions from a study of the deceased life and the work of the army as typified in Kingston. The ruling passion of his life, Mr. Nickle said, he believed, was his desire and acts of practical Christianity—one that was not restricted by creeds. Because a man was down, he was not necessarily down-and-out. Reviewing the spirit of the age in which he commenced his life work, his surrender of business ambitions, the speaker summed up the character of the man and the work of his officers and soldiery. Mr. Nickle also referred to the progress of the army in this city, founded by Capt. Abbie and Lieut. Ryerson.

Prof. W. G. Jordan, in an able and broad-minded manner, signified his appreciation of the late General Booth and his work—marvellous in one short life time. The reverend scholar represented the churches in the eulogies.

In part, he said, religion is but the service of humanity, the love of God manifested to mankind. Passing down the centuries God has raised up men imbued with the prophetic spirit, and the late leader was surely one of these. His life was given to the problem of the poor. The professor said an English statesman had recently said religion was formerly for saving souls and now it is to save society. You can't separate the two. The general's aim was to save men's souls, and it should always be the aim of the army, its many agencies of ork being a means to the supreme end. "The churches are prepared to say the general was a great man, and is now enrolled among the saints," were the professor's concluding words.

In the absence of the mayor, Dr. A. E. Ross, M.P.P., expressed, on behalf of the civic authorities, a quota of sympathy to the Salvationists in the demise of their chief. The doctor pointed out that the municipality might appreciate the work and achievements of men in other spheres of activity—science, art, etc. But he believed the municipality appreciates to the highest degree the work among the poor, anfortunate, and afflicted, instituted by the late general.

Dr Ross made reference to the firing of the guns when he was in South Africa, in the recent war, at the death of Queen Victoria. Here, again, a leader has fallen. But, as in the case of the queen's successor, we look forward to continued conflicts under the new general.

Adjutant Allen spoke at some length on the loss the army had sustained, and the forthcoming world-wide response to "Go on" as the general had commanded.

After the singing of "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross" Rev. Dr. Ryckman closed with prayer.

Leo Ryan Remembered by Staff at Bell Telephone Company.

Leo Ryan, a well-known Kingstonian, who has, for seven or eight years, been a member of the staff of the Bell Telephone company, in this city, is leaving for Sudbury, having been appointed wire chief for that district. He is leaving to-day for Sudbury.

A most pleasant affair took place on Wednesday evening when members of the staff gathered and presented Mr. Ryan with a signet ring as a parting gift, an address accompanying the ring, which expressed the best wishes of all the staff for his future success.

ALMOST A COLLISION.

Kingstonian on Train Which Was Stopped Just in Time.

Smith Elliott received a letter from his wife, who left, a few days ago on a trip to the west, in her letter she states that she was delayed getting into Winnipeg, as the result of a mishap. The train she was riding on almost figured in a collision. The fact that the engineer of the train noticed the danger and had time to stop, saved a terrible accident. When the train was brought to a standstill, it was but a few feet away from another train.

MILLION IS IN SIGHT.

Splendid Growth of Attendance at Canadian National Exhibition.

The attendance at the Canadian National exhibition keeps jumping at the rate of nearly a hundred thousand a year. In 1909 it was 750,000; in 1910, 837,000 in 1911, 926,000. This year's bill of attractions is easily the best ever presented by a fair on this continent, and it goes without saying that the much-longed for million mark will be reached at last.

FOR A BATHING HOUSE

MOVEMENT ON FOOT TO ERECT ONE IN CITY

Now That Scheme for Water Front Appears to Have Been Abandoned —Prominent Citizen Will Start Subscription List With $500.

A prominent citizen, who is interested in a movement to secure a public bathing house for the city, stated to a Whig representative that it was likely that steps would be taken in a very short time towards securing funds from citizens who would care to donate for the erection of a public bathing house in the city.

The new movement is to erect a bathing house in a central part of the city and fit it up with a big tank if suitable property can be secured. The proposition to erect one on the lake front was regarded as the best but as there is a great deal of difficulty apparently in having it at the lake it is felt that the next best thing would be to erect one in some part of the city.

It is pointed out that one benefit to be derived from having the bathing house erected in the city, and not at the lakeside, would be that it could be used both summer and winter.

The citizen who is interested in the matter also informed the Whig that a prominent citizen had promised to donate $500 towards the scheme and he felt that citizens would take hold of the matter and give liberally to the scheme.

The matter of securing a bathing house has been discussed from time to time by committees of the council, and when the question was last taken up it was stated that the plan to have a bathing house erected near Macdonald Park would have to be abandoned owing to the fact that the sewer emptied into the lake near that point. Since that no action has been taken.

"I do not think we would have any trouble whatever in raising money for the scheme," said the citizen, to the Whig. "When we once get started we will be able to make it go all right."

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Miss Agnes Winona, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Edmund Johnson, of Vineland, N.J., to Henry Wilcox, United Seates consul at Port Marie, Jamaica. The bride-to-be, who is now visiting an aunt in Germany, is a sister of Felix S. S. Johnson, United States consul of this city.

CHICAGO PRINTERS HERE.

A Party Visited Kingston on Wednesday Afternoon.

The city was visited on Wednesday afternoon and part of the evening by about sixty newspaper men, all members of the Chicago Typographical Union, No. 11, who are on their way home after attending a convention held in Boston last week. They arrived in the city on the steamer Kingstonf The party were in Ottawa on Tuesday, and came by way of Brockville, and took the steamer there for this city, leaving over the Kingston and Pembroke railway, by special train, at eight o'clock. The visitors were in Boston last week, and on Monday arrived in Montreal, but while there they did not have as fine a time as they expected, on account of it raining so hard.

The American printers were very taken with their stay in Ottawa, and state that they could not have been given a better time than was accorded them in that city.

The party as a whole were very much taken with the Thousand Islands, saying "they were certainly a sight worth seeing." The party had a baseball team and seemed very sorry that they could not have arranged a game in the city during their stay.

SAT UP IN COFFIN.

Short Reprieve for Woman Who Was Certified to be Dead.

A Tonbridge (Kent) woman had the grim experience of coming back to life and living for two days after being certified dead.

Her name was King, and she apparently died of consumption. She was placed in a coffin, and the funeral was arranged to take place on Wednesday.

On Monday, however, her brother was in the next room with his mother when he heard a noise in the adjoining apartment, and on entering was startled to find his sister sitting up right in her coffin.

She died on Wednesday, having survived the terrible experience for two days.

When Larry and Harry and Molly and May
Jumped out of their beds at the peep of the day,
They invaded the kitchen and held up the cook.
And from that poor lady her Toasties all took;
And then the wee bandits—of course it's no wonder—
Sat down and ate up every speck of their plunder.
