THE COOK BOOK

By Helen Carroll Clarke.

Former Instructor of Cookery, Pratt Institute, Brooklyn. A COLLECTION OF 400 RELIABLE RECIPES FOR THE PRAC-TICAL HOUSEKE ... ER.

In the average small family where there are no servants, or perhaps one servant, setting atable with the very least ampleness means that there will inevitably be some left over food, and the housekeeper has to face the problem of how to make the most of It, It is for such women that this valuable book has been written. The arrangement of the contents is practical all through.

Many of the finest dishes - dishes on which French chef. have made international reputation—are nothing more than "left overs" attractively cooked. In every housekeeper's own kitchen there are the same foods and the same possibilities.
