WERE SQUEEZED TO DEATH.

Two Grand Trunk Yardmen Met Instant Death.

Barrie, Sept. 27.—James Chippington and W. J. Early, two Grand Trunk yardmen, were squeezed to death close to the door of Superintendent Lynch's divisional office this morning. They were chaining a draw-head of a freight train when a grain train backed into them, killing both on the spot. Other train men say they didn't know the unfortunate men were there as they hadn't put out the usual signs to protect themselves. Both victims were married and leave families. Chippington was bandmaster of the Allandale band.

A train drawn by electricity, generated by a portable storage battery, ran, on Thursday, at Long Branch, Long Island.

Premier Fisher Says Australia Must Develop Her Own Defence Unit—Opposed to Imperial Defence Council.

London, Sept. 27.—A special despatch to the Daily Mail from Melbourne states that Premier Borden's speech delivered at Toronto, together with reports that Canada intends to make an offer of three super-dreadnoughts as an emergency contribution to the imperial navy, have aroused much attention in Australia, and Australians are now realizing that they must no longer lean on Great Britain, but must stand on an equal footing, shoulder to shoulder with the Mother Country and other dominions in defence of the whole empire. There is a genuine dread of the growth of Japanese influence in the Pacific, and though little is said on the subject, feeling is undoubtedly strong that Australia should show her readiness to play her part alongside with New Zealand and the United States of America, in solving the Pacific. Australians are in fact willing to bear taxation for these purposes. The smouldering embers of that patriotism which led Australians to flock to the Anglo-Boer war have again recently been fanned into a fierce flame. Premier Fisher when interviewed on the subject, said opinion was unfavourably consolidating on the question of national defence for which a common imperial scheme is essential.

"Australia," he said, "must be left to develop her own defence unit cannot see the advantages of the existence of an imperial defence council of dominion representatives who would sooner or later get out of touch with the thought of the people represented, and become only dead channels through which the policy of their governments would be imperfectly represented. I believe a better plan would be to hold biennial personal consultations with British military and naval authorities in the same manner as was done last year. That would keep some life in the common scheme of imperial defence. New Zealand's interests are irrevocably bound up with those of Australia. I believe it is now recognized by the best thinkers that New Zealand will eventually join in one Australasian unit of defence. I think it marvellous that the cadet scheme for military training of all boys has been established with so little friction, but the people now regard it as a national necessity and as an individual responsibility which each must shoulder."

Changed His Order. Chas. Clark, speaker of the United States House of Representatives, hurriedly went into a restaurant, after sitting in the committee rooms all morning, and hastily picked up the bill of fare and scanned it. He did not notice the pretty blonde waitress that sidled up to his table to take his order, but glancing at the side, he saw that a white apron was at his side, and without looking up he asked: "How is the chicken today?" "Oh, I am all right! How are you?"

Upon perceiving a prim-looking individual frowning at him from a rear by table, the master of the "Hour Dawg" changed his order to good old beef, thereby avoiding possible complications.

"Buy whisks" at Gibson's. Frank Curbey, of Pittsburg, who was before Magistrate George Hunter a week ago, and was found guilty of having a heifer in his possession belonging to another farmer, has made no settlement as yet. The magistrate has given him eight days more to make good or else go to jail.

Other Complaints About Youngsters Having Firearms and Making Use of Them—Parents Should Keep Closer Tap on Their Children or Accidents Will Occur.

How is it that little boys are able to secure revolvers and fire them off for their own amusement?

This is a question some citizens are asking, and if their story is true, there is certainly need of an investigation into the circumstances.

A resident of the west end of the city—informing a Whig representative, on Friday morning, that, on Thursday night, close on to midnight, two or three boys were at the breakwater, firing off a revolver. The resident stated that he was startled by the shots and was at first of the opinion that there had been an accident.

But this is not the only case which has been reported. During this week, a woman complained to the police about a little boy carrying a revolver, but the lad could not be located. The woman said that two of her boys, one aged about eight and the other ten, had been enticed by another lad a few years older, who had a revolver, and that the boys' stayed out of school all one day, evidently spending their time out in the 'bush, shooting.

If the boys are using revolvers in this way, there will certainly be an accident one of these days. It will be remembered that just a few weeks ago a boy using a rifle in his own back yard, sent a bullet through a neighbor's window, and came within an ace of striking a lady.

PITH OF WORLD NEWS

From Telegraphic Despatches and Newspaper Exchanges.

Rev. George B. Kenny, Catholic, died in Guelph, on Thursday. He was born in Halifax.

G. H. Gardner, Neepawa, Man., suicided by stabbing himself in the throat. He was a bartender. Kingsley Warren, Dresden, aged nine, was drowned in the river. His brother was drowned in the same place six years ago.

Former Inspector W. R. Davis, who resigned from the Toronto police force last January, is likely to be the new chief at Lethbridge.

At Hamilton, an eighteen-year-old girl, from Dunnville, was forced into a house of ill-fame and, finally securing the attention of the police, she was rescued, and Mrs. Maggie Smith, the owner, was sentenced to six months in jail. The woman tried to suicide after the sentence.

Must Not Block the Road.

The cab drivers and chauffeurs cannot "stall" their carriages and automobiles on Princess street, on the Opera House block. It has apparently got to be the custom of these public conveyances to be left standing on the street when waiting for the finish of evening performances, often from ten o'clock on in the evening. Police Constable S. Arndt warned a number of these men on Friday morning. It is considered an obstruction to the street.

Fearful For His Property.

When the late Jonas Lundin was in Sweden on a visit he evidently became worried over his property in this city for he went to the British consul where he was stopping and had him write the local authorities to see if his property was all right. He thought it might be sold while he was away.

Many a girl has caught the man she wanted by pretending to try to catch one she did not want. The absent one was always to blame. They may have had sense enough to remain away.

THREE HATS FROM PARIS. These are styles that are quite prominent on the streets of the French capital. They display a variety of fashions, but all conform to the idea of the close fitting bonnet type that looks to become popular this fall and winter.
