"YOU'LL SUFFER ALL YOUR LIFE"

That's what the Doctor told him

"Fruit-a-tives Cured Him"

CHESTERVILLE, ONT., Jan. 25th 1911. For over twenty years, I have been troubled with Kidney Disease, and the doctors told me they could do me no good, and that I would be a sufferer for the rest of my life. I doctored with different medical men and tried many advertised remedies, but none of them suited my case. Nearly a year ago, I tried "Fruit-a-tives". I have been using this fruit medicine nearly all the time since, and am glad to say that I am cured. I give "Fruit-a-tives" the credit of doing what the doctors said was impossible. I am now seventy-six years old, and in first class health.

GEO. W. BARKLEY. In all the world, there is no other remedy that has cured so many cases of so-called "incurable" kidney disease, as "Fruit-a-tives". This famous fruit medicine acts directly on the kidneys—beating and strengthening them—and ridding the system of the waste matter that poisons the blood. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Toronto Man Cured of Intolerable Itch

By Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment

"I just want to say a good word for Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Four or five years ago I was in Port Arthur, and I had an attack of the Itch. It certainly was an intolerable nuisance. The itching was particularly at nights before I went to bed. The Itch was especially affected. I went to two doctors about it, and tried more than one remedy. I was beginning to think the complaint was incurable, when I was told by my barber, and he was right, to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and they completely cured me of that intolerable nuisance. After one warm bath with Cuticura Soap and use of the Cuticura Ointment I was never troubled with the Itch again. Nothing in this medicinal world would be prepared to swear to in a court of law." (Signed) J. E. Hooper, 228 Parliament Street, Toronto, Jan. 10, 1911.

WORK OF THE BRUSH

SOME MEN HAVE RECEIVED HIGH PRICES FOR WORK

While Others Have Been Glad to Take Small Amount for Pictures—George Morland Parted With Many a Masterpiece for a Small Sum.

In art, as in most other professions, the "plums" fall into the hands of the few. A Sargent or a Herkomer may make his $25,000 in twelve months by his brushes. Mr. "Dauber," who started his career with equal promise, may barely earn the check that pays his frame maker's bill. Jean Francis Millet lived and died a peasant, though he could wear the ribbon of the Legion of Honor. It was the proudest day of his life when he received $300 for the "Angelus," which a generation later was sold for $116,130 at the Secorlan sale. John Crome was glad to pocket a dollar apiece for pictures, any one of which would be snapped up to-day for hundreds of dollars. George Morland parted with many a masterpiece for the price of an evening's carouse, and Rembrandt's canvases are valued to-day at $20,000,000, yet he left nothing to his heirs beyond his clothes and his paint brushes.

And who will say that these magicians of the palette were less skillful than the Orchardsons and Alma-Tademas of later years, whose canvases, with the paint scarcely dry on them, were exchanged for $10,000 or $15,000 each; than Frank Holl, who painted $100,000 worth of portraits in a single year; or Landseer, whose estate was sworn at $800,000?

To-day the painting of pictures for nineteen artists out of twenty is a costly hobby, which leaves little margin for even such a modest luxury as a marble table. For every score of canvases that are fit to adorn the walls of Burlington House there is barely one purchaser, and he has a keen eye to a bargain.

Take two typical cases known to the writer. Both men are highly talented artists, whose academy pictures are seldom "branded" with the fatal "R." One of these men confessed that he had barely $500 to show as the net result of 2,000 hours of industry last year. The other who had a canvas "on the line" before he saw his twenty-first birthday, was glad to sell his last picture, the result of six months' work, for less than its frame cost.

Marriage Bargains.

Mr. Geo. A. Birmingham, the well-known English writer, says there is no country in the world where marriage, at least in the peasant class, is more a matter of bargaining, and yet shows a higher average of stability and content, than Ireland. Sometimes the man has never seen the woman before they are brought together, the precise number of pounds, cows, or pigs to be handed over having been fixed at that time settled.

This is illustrated in personal recollections just published by an Irish lady. She was visiting in the neighborhood, and admired a fine mahogany chest of drawers.

"'Twas for that I was married," said the mistress of the cottage. A young farmer had also seen and admired. A bargain was struck. There was no money, but the bride was to have a couple of sheep, a yearling bullock, and the chest. The prudent young man measured it, and then turned and asked:

"'An' which o' thim little girls is it?" She as the eldest unmarried—"Nixt the door," as the phrase was, "'An' so I wint," she said, "and was happy ever afterwards."

Mr. Lloyd-George's Head.

Mr. Lloyd-George's head, according to an expert in phrenology, has increased in size from 23 inches to over 23 1/4 inches during the last eight or nine years. The circumference of Mr. Paderewski's head is 23 1/4 inches; that of Kubell is 23 1/4 inches; Mark Hambour, 23 1/2 inches; George Robey, 23 1/2 inches; Harry Lauder, 23 5/8 inches; Robert Blatchford, 23 1/4 inches; and Sir Robertson Nicol, 23 1/4 inches.

Sir George Alexander and Sir Hiram Maxim each claim 24 inches; Sir Ernest Smeckleton, 23 3/4 inches; Dr. Russell Wakefield, Bishop of Birmingham, 23 1/2 inches; Dr. John Clifford, 23 1/4 inches; Sir Henrick Heaton, 24 1/2 inches; Ranjitsinhji, 22 inches; C. B. Fry and the Rev. B. J. Campbell, 22 1/2 inches.

Many of the best literary types of head vary from a little under 23 to 23 1/2 inches, and beyond this measurement, and up to 24 3/4 inches are found men of powerful intellects.

Docks Rich in Gold.

An important discovery was reported at Cape Town by Mr. C. H. Tearman, of Morley, who handed in at the Civil Commissioner's office, Cape Town, in accordance with the Precious Minerals Act, a declaration stating that he had found rich gold at Cape Town Docks. It transpires that on a recent visit to a quarry at the docks, where stone is being crushed for certain work, he inspected some of the stone from the crusher, and formed the conclusion that it was gold quartz.

An examination of the face of the coarse granite at the quarry itself convinced him that there was a rich reef there, apparently about 30 feet wide and 1,000 feet long. The quarry, which come under the administration of the Minister of Railways and Harbors, is situated at the back of the docks location, and the reef, as far as Mr. Tearman has been able to ascertain, runs back beneath private property in the neighborhood. What rights may fall to the discoverer is at present a matter for conjecture.

Friends Even in Death.

Two lifelong friends, Frank Washington and James Farrell, both of Hove, England, have just been buried side by side in Hove cemetery. Born in the same year, 1865, they were educated at the same school and remained close friends ever after. Both were taken on the same day to the Sussex County Hospital for operations, and both operations took place on the same day. Both died on the same day, and both were buried on the same day in the same plot of ground.

COSMO HAMILTON, English playwright, who appears with "The Blindness of Virtue," at the Grand on Wednesday, Oct. 9th.

A Queer Club.

"The Little Club" of London was a distinctly original institution. It was intended for those not five feet high. Invitations to be present at the inaugural meeting did not meet with a very hearty response. The scheme had to be modified owing to the occasional awkward situations created through the use of ordinary sized furniture; as when a member, imagining the president to be absent, gave vent to some contemptuous criticisms of him, only to find that his fagg had been temporarily eclipsed by a flash of wine that stood before him on the table. After this the premises were furnished in proportion to the size of the club members, the door was made high enough to admit a man of five feet, and no more, and to "brush your fore-top" on entering was to be disqualified for membership.

A Generous Foe.

A very unusual kind of sportsmanship was shown by the Maori chief who was taken prisoner by the British after a hot engagement. His captors were talking to the man, and one of them asked him why he had not captured the British provision and ammunition trains a few days before, when he had a chance.

The chief gave a loud, scornful laugh. "You fool!" he cried. "If we had stolen your food and powder how could you have fought us?"

Darkest London.

Speaking at Church House, London, the Archbishop of Canterbury said central south London, comprised within the bend of the Thames, formed the largest area of practically unbroken poverty in the British Isles.

Australia's Forests.

Australia has huge areas of forest land, estimated at 40,000,000 acres, as yet unexplored and unreserved. Timber merchants have so far secured less than 4,000,000 acres, chiefly because of lack of railways.

Snake Medicine.

Snake poison is being used more and more for medicinal and other purposes. In Australia the collecting of it has become a profitable industry.

Two-thirds of the inhabitants of New South Wales belong to the Church of England.
