VICE-PRESIDENT DEAD

JAMES S. SHERMAN SUCCEMBED AT UTICA, N.Y.

Uremic Poisoning the Cause of Death—Was Elected Vice-President Four Years Ago—His Death Involves Political Complications.

Utica, N.Y., Oct. 31.—The death occurred last night of James Schoolcraft Sherman, vice-president of the United States. He suffered from uremic poisoning.

The late Mr. Sherman was born at

VICE-PRESIDENT J. S. SHERMAN

Utica, N.Y., October 24th, 1850; was admitted to the bar in 1880, was mayor 1887-91, 1893-9; president of the National Republican Convention of 1884-5; was a member of several state conventions, and was elected to the vice-presidency four years ago.

His death comes at a time when peculiar complications may be caused politically. Only a brief time remains in which to name a successor on the republican ticket for next Tuesday's presidential election. The republican convention at Chicago, vested in the national committee authority to nominate candidates in the event of the death or disability of Taft or Sherman. Although these names have already been duly certified to in the various states for the printing of ballots, a supplemental petition, substituting a name for that of Mr. Sherman, will be accepted in those States where the ballots have not been printed. The procedure where ballots have already been printed is uncertain, however.

To Choose Substitute. New York, Oct. 31.—Secretary Hilles, of the national republican convention, has issued a call for a meeting of the committee, Saturday to choose a substitute for the late Vice President Sherman, as running mate for Taft. No name is prominently put forward yet.

Time Wasted. Solemnly stated, Mr. Snipes was a little old man who lived in the suburbs, and the pride of his life was a wonderful chiming clock that occupied the post of honor on the mantelpiece of the sitting-room.

For over thirty-five years Mr. Snipes had wound that clock precisely at 10.30 o'clock each evening. "I couldn't sleep without doing it," he once remarked. "I'd as soon miss my supper as miss my clock."

One evening a new acquaintance dropped in to spend a few hours with Snipes and family, and the gentleman happened to be a maker of watches and clocks.

Punctually at 10.30 o'clock the aged suburbanite rose and proceeded faithfully to wind his pet timepiece. "That's a rather a nice clock," remarked the watchmaker, examining it intently.

"Yes," replied Snipes; "and man and boy for thirty-five years have I wound up that clock at 10.30 each evening. It's got to be my habit."

"Well," replied the jeweller, "all I can say is, you've wasted a lot of time. That's an eight-day clock."

While in social matters the lines are strictly drawn, the negro is less handicapped in business in the south than any other part of the country, writes Booker T. Washington, in the November Century. He is sought after as a depositor in banks. If he wishes to borrow money he gets it from the local bank just as quickly as the white man with the same business standing.

There are few cases where a black man cannot buy and own a farm in the South. It is as a farmer in the Southern States that the masses of his race have economically and industrially the largest opportunity.

No one stops to ask before purchasing a bale of cotton or a bushel of corn if it had been produced by a white hand or a black hand.

The negro now owns, as near as I can estimate, 15,000 grocery and dry-goods stores, 300 drug stores and 63 banks. Negroes pay taxes on between $300,000,000 and $700,000,000 of property of various kinds in the United States. Unless he had a reasonably fair chance in the South, the negro could not have gained this large amount of property, and would not have been able to enter in the commerce of this country to the extent that he has.

She Knew. "Naturally, they were married, for she ordered him about in a most imperious way. The longest lane has its turning, however, and one day, after a particularly violent outbreak on the part of the lady, the husband attempted to reduce the woman's rights in his own household.

"Do you think you rule the universe?" he inquired sarcastically, when the moment came for him to edge in a word.

"No," came the prompt reply. "I do not. But I rule the first letter of it."

And once again the mere man realized that he was indeed the underdog.

Fillial Japan. In view of the fact that the authorities intend to devote part of the Emperor's gift of money to the aged, investigations have been made as to the number of old people above the age of 70. It is stated that the number of these and of those who will attain their seventieth year by November 1st reaches a large figure and that in Tokyo city alone the number of eligibles exceeds 70,000. Investigation is now on foot with a view to classifying these people into two groups, those supported by their families and those without the help of relatives, so as to ascertain the number of aged folk who need assistance.—The Japan Advertiser.

HALLOWE'EN IS HERE

WILL BE CELEBRATED WITH USUAL FESTIVITIES.

It is Always a Jolly Event for the "Kiddies"—Great Deal of Expense Attached to the Halloween Observance.

Halloween will be celebrated tonight by the "kiddies," and a great many of the older folk as well, with the usual festivities. It is always a jolly night for the children. They look forward to it just the same as they do to Christmas and Santa Claus.

There is perhaps no day in the year which popular imagination has stamped with a more peculiar character than hallowe'en. To-night the boy with the pale face, peashooter and "tick tack" will be much in evidence. The little folk will "dress-up" and serenade the neighborhood, and it will indeed be a grand sight to see them enjoy themselves. Years ago, hallowe'en was often celebrated by young men and boys, peashooter and "tick tack" properly, tearing down fences, pulling up sidewalks, and doing other "damnable" things, but all this sort of thing has now been done away with, at least during recent years, there has been no trouble and it is to be hoped that the old way of celebrating will be revived.

Home parties will be held and "nut-cracking" contests indulged in. A glance in some of the stores (the past few days was sufficient to inform one of the approach of hallowe'en, for the windows there has been a display which has attracted the eye of every youngster. If you happen to see a small boy with a pale face, you will know that he has been to a store and decked out for the occasion.

Apart from the fun indulged in, on Hallowe'en, a great deal of romance also attaches to the event, and the observances. In the olden days many curious methods were resorted to, in order to discover one's future wife, or husband, and even these were regarded in a superstitious and serious light. "Nut-cracking" and "bobbing" for apples were among the common customs. Hickory nuts, which are in great demand for Hallowe'en, but this year the local dealers say that they are rather scarce. The supply of walnuts is also limited.

It is stated that in the north of England, Hallowe'en is still known as "Nut-cracking night." Nuts are placed in the glowing embers of the fire, and named for different persons. The nut which cracks or jumps signifies unfaithfulness on the part of the lover named. If a nut burns, the one for whom it is named has a tender regard for the person making the test.

If two nuts named after a girl and boy burn together, it signifies that the couple will be married soon. Apples were also named, in a like manner, and placed in a tub of water. The trick was to remove them from the water safely with one's teeth.

A Friend of Vice-President. Michael Grady, Earl street, told a Whig representative, on Thursday afternoon, that he knew the late Vice-President Sherman, of the United States, well. Mr. Grady was born in the same city as the deceased (Utica, N.Y.), knew him as a school boy, and when he was practicing his profession. He has not seen the late Mr. Sherman for some years.

WOMAN SHOOTS MAN.

Walks to Police Station With Gun on Shoulder.

St. Louis, Oct. 31.—When Albert Virol, a contractor, stepped out of his front door to pick up a newspaper, he saw Mrs. Elizabeth M. Billingham, his neighbor, standing at his door with a shotgun.

"Are you going to compel your children to quit abusing my child?" the woman demanded. "Shut up and go in the house," said Virol, as he stooped to pick up the paper. Mrs. Billingham took aim and fired at Virol's head. Sixteen shots lodged in the side of his head. His wound may be fatal.

After the shooting Mrs. Billingham telephoned to a police station that she had shot a man and wished to surrender. No police appearing, the woman, still carrying the gun, walked to the station and gave herself up.

SIR WILFRID NOT TIED UP. Oath as Privy Councillor Doesn't Seal His Lips.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—There is nothing in his oath as an imperial privy councillor that would, as has been reported, prevent Sir Wilfrid Laurier from opposing the Borden naval policy if he so desires. The oath that is taken swears fidelity to the crown, but in no way does it bind a minister to sink his personal views. Otherwise it would be an intimidation of the basic principle of British institutions. Should his majesty command his privy councillors to take a certain stand, doubtless they would do so, but precedents of that character, if they exist at all, are rare.

Moreover, in the naval question, the British government is not appealing to Canada for help. It has presented certain facts as a justifying action in the direction of a naval contribution.

WANTS WORKMEN To Carry Flowers to Shops With Them.

New York, Oct. 31.—Rev. Dr. Mark A. Matthews, moderator of the general assembly, said at the meeting of the social union in the Hotel Savoy last night: "I wish I might banish all flowers from funeral services. What is the use of blossoms in a coffin. Christianity ought to educate this custom out of the ideas and ideals of Americans. Take the roses and place them not in the coffin, but in the lapel of the coat of the laboring man on his way to work. Send the lilies into the workshop, into the sweatshop, to brighten lives."

Some thirty carloads of tub maple sugar, each car containing on the average of 30,000 pounds of the delicious sweet, will be shipped out of this section next spring. It will be used by the American Tobacco company to sweeten the plug tobacco which they manufacture.

A telegram has been received from the minister of justice at Ottawa announcing that Elbertz's sentence has been commuted to life imprisonment.

Five Thousand Americans in Philippines Are Anxious to Return Home.

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 31.—In the Philippine islands are 5,000 young men making about $2,000 a year, who want to return home. One of them has written to Dr. W. E. Fisher, state food dairy commissioner, of Missouri, asking him if he can be of any assistance in acquainting Missouri girls with the opportunity open to them.

There are at least 5,000 young men over here employed by the government in the customs and internal revenue service and other branches, and all of us are getting salaries of not less than $2,000 a year. Now, the trouble is, most American women over here are married. I don't want my name published, but you may give it to any of the young women who desire to correspond with a view to matrimony.

"I enclose you a few views of the country and you can send them to whom you choose, so that they can see for themselves what kind of a place it is."

DON'T PULL OUT THE GRAY HAIRS

A Few Applications of a Simple Remedy Will Bring Back the Natural Color.

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place," is an old saying, which is, to a great extent, true, if no steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is Nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good, reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," a preparation of domestic sage and sulphur, scientifically compounded with later discovered hair tonics, and stimulates the whole mixture being carefully balanced and tested by experts.

Weyth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It refreshes dry, parched hair, removes dandruff and gradually restores faded or gray hair to its natural color.

Don't delay another minute. Start using Weyth's Sage and Sulphur at once and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in your hair.

This preparation is offered to the public at 50c a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Agent, G. W. Mahood.

Get what you can honestly and without injury to others is a good policy. Sale! Girls' boots, sizes 11 to 2, $1. Dutton's.
