Dr. Creelman spoke on the question of city vs. country life, and also dwelt on some of the problems the farmers are facing, and the work the college was doing. Reference was made to the rapid strides being made in the draining. Men engaged in this work were hard at work but could not keep up with the applica tions being received for the work. Taking up the question of potatoes

Dr. Creelman stated that Ontario was not raising as many as needed for her own consumption. Toronto alone required from three to four thousand bags per day and they secured their supply chiefly from New Brunswick. The chief reason for the scarcity was blight, and mixed varieties.

The cheese trade was also referred to. Canada furnished seventy per cent. of the cheese for Great Britain and it was necessary to keep trade. Cheese was regarded as the standard dairy product.

Dr. Creelman spoke of the men going about giving the farmers instructions as "doctors of agriculture," and stated that their work was bearing fruit. Every attention was - being

The speaker put forth a strong appeal for the teaching of agriculture in the township schools. Everything possible must be done to keep the boys and girls on the farm. The rising generation should be taught the common things, which would lead them to think." All this would go
