SUING FOR A DIVORCE.

Miss Adele Blood, in "Everywoman," Married Former Clergyman.

Miss Blood made the announcement in Toronto where she has been playing a week. There is no ill feeling whatever between the two, but as they could not get along together, they agreed to separate. She is suing on the ground of abandonment, which she believes is the easiest way out of the difficulty.

WON THE GOOD LADY

THE MOTHER ACCEPTED WHAT DAUGHTER REJECTED.

As a Sequel to an Old Romance, St. Louis Man Marries the Maternal Parent of His Former Fiancee.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—The broken engagement of Robert Isham Randolph and Miss Dorothy Maclean had a romantic sequel when Mr. Randolph married Mrs. George A. Maclean, the mother of his former fiancee.

The service was read by Rev. Oscar DeWolf Randolph, pastor of the Memorial church, at Lexington, Va., a brother of the bridegroom, assisted by Dean Walter T. Sumner. Members of the family and a few close friends attended.

Three years ago Mr. Randolph, who is a son of Isham Randolph, the civil engineer, was engaged to marry Miss Dorothy Maclean, whom he had met at a dance given at her home in Riverside.

During the summer of 1909 Miss Maclean, with her mother, father and brother, took an automobile trip through the eastern states. While touring in New Jersey the party met with an accident, in which Mr. Maclean and his son were killed.

Upon her return to Chicago, late in August, Miss Maclean announced that her engagement to Mr. Randolph had been broken, saying that she had found "she did not care for him any more."

Mrs. Maclean and her daughter then took a trip to Europe, and shortly after their return Miss Maclean's engagement to Harold Hellyer, a schoolboy sweetheart, was announced. The wedding occurred late in the autumn of 1909.

After Miss Maclean became Mrs. Harold Hellyer, the Randolphs, who had lived in Riverside, moved to No. 5225 East End avenue, Chicago.

Friends noticed that Mrs. Randolph continues to visit the Maclean home, but thought that he and Mrs. Maclean were merely friends, as the bridegroom is just turning the thirties, while his bride is 45 years old.

Mrs. Hellyer is now living in Japan and was not present at the wedding ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Randolph went for a trip through Virginia and other southern states.

Mr. Randolph is secretary of the Illinois River and Lake Commission with offices in the First National Bank building.

THE FRASER VALLEY

Described as Beautiful and Intensely Interesting.

G. L. McDonnell, a prospector of western reputation, has returned to Edmonton from British Columbia, where he was sent by an English syndicate to report upon the mining possibilities of the new country opened up by the progress of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway. He walked from Mile 110 to Mile 53, over the grade of the main line, and reported that silver and lead are plentiful, also that copper showed strong outcroppings and that gold had been heard of. He further stated that between 4,000 and 5,000 men were working in the Fraser valley on the new line.

"The Fraser valley," Mr. McDonnell observed, "is the most beautiful and interesting of the two routes through the Canadian Rockies. It is wider and more expansive than the panorama in the Kicking Horse Pass. On the southern side of the river the mountains are some distance off, their snow-capped peaks silhouetting the sky-line and shutting out the Cariboo country beyond. On the other side of the stream, here and there threatened by the tumbling river of many rapids which suddenly divers its bending course for twenty or thirty miles to the northward, are expanses of timber all following, surging up from the 50 by 50 mile plains until they reach the railway grade, jump it, and climb the mountains in their course until they descend into the barrenness beyond the timber line."
