GAN, OF QUEEN'S,

Church on Sunday Evening-"1 Know That My Redeemer Liveth" Was the Subject.

In spite of the wretched weather on Sunday evening a large congrega tion was present at the service of St. Andrew's society in St. Andrew's church. Rev. William Morgan, D D., of Queen's university preached to the society, he being its chaplain. Dr. Morgan showed how the mine of a man, though beset with doubts and reasonings, emerged by faith the conclusion embodied in his text which he took from Job, "I know that my Redeamer liveth." eaker recited the way in which Carlyle, in his Sartor Resartus, had come out of the darkness and doub' which beset his early training. The trees and telegraph wires were weighed down with the snow. On the corner of Barrack and Ridean streets, where the electric light wires entered a store, through a window sash, the weight of the snow on the wires pulled the sash out. The telephone wires in many parts of the city were disconnected and the west trunk line, connecting Kingston with Toronto, was rendered usuless for about three hours, many of the poles being broken with the weight of the enow on the wires.
