"YOU'LL SUFFER ALL YOUR LIFE"

That's what the Doctor told him

"Fruit-a-tives Cured Him"

CHESTERVILLE, ONT., Jan. 25th 1911. For over twenty years, I have been troubled with Kidney Disease, and the doctors told me they could do me no good, and that I would be a sufferer for the rest of my life.

I doctored with different medical men and tried many advertised remedies, but none of them suited my case. Nearly a year ago, I tried "Fruit-a-tives". I have been using this fruit medicine nearly all the time since, and am glad to say that I am cured.

I am now seventy-six years old, and in first class health. In all the world, there is no other remedy that has cured so many cases of so-called "incurable" kidney disease, as "Fruit-a-tives".

GIVEN BIG ALIMONY

MRS. HEINZE AWARDED $12,000 A YEAR.

Wife of Former Copper King Granted Decree of Divorce—Given Custody of Child, Father to Pay for His Education.

Newburg, N.Y., Dec. 18.—What is regarded as the second highest alimony ever granted in New York State was allowed to Mrs. Bernice G. Heinze when Justice Arthur S. Tompkins in supreme court granted her a decree of divorce from her husband, Augustus Heinze, the former copper king.

The court directed the defendant to give his wife $1,000 a month alimony and also to pay the rent of her New York apartment, amounting to $223 a month, until the lease expires, which will be in about two or three years. Mrs. Heinze was also granted the custody of her only child, a boy, and the father is to pay for the education of the boy after he reaches the age of five years.

Only one witness, a colored porter on a Los Angeles division of the Union Pacific, was called. He identified a photograph of Mr. Heinze and an unidentified woman. He testified that the man and woman travelled together from Ogden to Los Angeles on September 26th last.

Benjamin F. Spellman on behalf of Mrs. Heinze presented affidavits showing default on the part of Mr. Heinze and stated that an agreement had been reached relative to alimony and custody of the child. The terms of the agreement were made known, and there was no contest on the part of the defendant, the court promptly signed the decree.

SEPARATE SCHOOLS.

Vicar-General Curran Gives Advice at Cornwall. Cornwall, Dec. 16.—The following letter appeared in the Standard of the 13th inst., relative to the feeling of dissatisfaction reported as existing in some quarters about the recent inspection of the Separate schools of the town by Inspector Ingall, the special representative of the provincial government, appointed to observe whether the regulations of the department were being observed:

The Editor "Standard." Dear Sir—I am informed that a visit to our Catholic schools by Mr. Ingall, whom I have never met, has caused uneasiness and discontent. This displeasure might be warranted if ours were private schools, but while our Separate schools are Catholic, they are all government schools, and, as such, an envoy of the government is quite within his right in visiting them.

The guardians of our Separate schools are our bishops, and on them devolves the duty of protecting them when necessity arises. (Reprove—entreat—rebuke! Tim.) The interests involved are too important and delicate to be left to the deliberative and judgment, often not too wise, of the multitudes. The Apostle of the Gentiles enjoined obedience to the laws and respect for the public officers entrusted with their enforcement, and when the inspired apostle felt it to be his duty to so object—this respect in an age of paganism, how much more necessary and binding is this duty in this Christian age.

On the occasion of the centennial of the high school in Cornwall, the prime minister, Sir James Whitney, the Honorable Dr. Pyke, minister of education, and Mr. Colquhoun, his deputy, were present to enhance the importance of the event. These same gentlemen also honored us, by visiting, at no little inconvenience, each branch of our separate school, the east, west and north schools.

Both by word and manner they encouraged and delighted the trustees, teachers and pupils. When afforded such proofs of their respectful attention and good will, we in Cornwall might well look upon their envoy with respect and confidence, and extend him a warm and courteous welcome.

The existence of Catholic schools in Ontario dates back to the years of Right Rev. Alexander Macdonell, first Bishop of Upper Canada. True, their organization was somewhat crude and incomplete, when the need of improvement was felt, the members of the hierarchy were not wanting in solicitude. They rose to the occasion.

Soon after my ordination, Vicar General Angus Macdonell showed me a document, bearing the signatures of the members of the Catholic Episcopate of Upper and Lower Canada. In this document he was authorized to look after all Catholic interests connected with the government. By this act the bishops selected, in the person of Vicar Angus Macdonell, a churchman endowed with rare intelligence and fortitude and enjoying widespread influence. To him might be applied the words of holy writ applied to his illustrious uncle, the first bishop of Upper Canada, "I spoke of Thy testimonies before kings, and I was not ashamed."

When difficulties arose in the working of the separate school system, Vicar Macdonell invested with the written sanction of the bishops, girded himself to secure their removal. He approached the government of the day, led by Samuel Macdonald (having as one of his colleagues the Hon. R. W. Scott), the Hon. (later Sir) John A. Macdonald, leader of the opposition. Aided by Vicar General Casneau, of Quebec, he followed week after week the deliberations of parliament, and the result of these deliberations has been transmitted to us in the history of education in Ontario.

This phase of the working of our separate school system reveals to us the unity of action and watchful solicitude of the members of the Catholic Episcopate. At this remote date it looms up before us as a masterpiece of wisdom and foresight on their part.

Reverting to the incident of the inspector's visit, it would appear that in view of the monetary contribution by government towards the upkeep of separate schools, and the undoubted right of the government to discontinue or withhold such grants if the regulations are not scrupulously adhered to, it would be neither judicious or courteous to place obstacles in the way of an inspection of our schools by a duly appointed and qualified agent of the government, to ascertain whether such regulations are obeyed or ignored.

I trust that no obstacles will at any time be placed in the inspector's way in this town, but that every facility will be afforded him to perform his appointed duties. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the privilege of using your valuable columns, I am,

Yours, etc., GEO. CORBET, Pastor of St. Columban's, Cornwall, Dec. 12th, 1912.

In his remarks to his parishioners, Sunday, Vicar General Corbet emphasized the necessity of their abstaining by word and act, from any ill-considered discussion or infringement upon the province of the hierarchy. Such action could not fail to bring humiliation upon the Catholic body, and possible injury to the best interests of Catholic education in this province, which, in the hands of the Episcopate, were in safe keeping.

He deprecated such action very strongly, and hoped there would be no occasion to refer again to the subject.

MAN DROWNS IN WHISKEY.

Was Overcome as He Drinks From Barrel. Lacrosse, Wis., Dec. 18.—Drowned in distilled drink was the verdict of the coroner's inquest on the death of Carl Rauch, who was found dead in a whiskey barrel. The man was found under the dripping spout of a whiskey barrel, which he had set to give him a few drops of liquor, and apparently, the coroner says, he indulged in his craving for liquor until he was too much under the influence to move, and literally was drowned in whiskey, which flooded his mouth and lungs.
