A BRAND NEW SCHEME.
We believe the permanent policy which has the best prospect of carrying the electorate is the construction in Canada of warships and their presentation to the admiralty for operation. Thus, while developing our country and strengthening the empire's naval forces, we would be putting ourselves in the position where, should international relations still look ominous, we could readily create a fleet of our own. But we had better pay up arrears before we even talk of "hiring."—Orange Sentinel. (Con.)

FIRST-CLASS FIGHTING MAN
Men of British blood love a man who puts up a game fight. Hence N. W. Rowell commands the admiration of a lot of people who don't agree with him on every political issue. The man who in December, 1911, took the leadership of a forlorn hope, showed his "mettle in big things." The man who the other night drove seventeen miles or so through a blinding snowstorm to keep faith with an audience showed that he possessed the same quality in regard to lesser things.—Chatham News, Con.

OWE THEM AN APOLOGY.
Sir Rodolph Forget said two things in a recent speech in the commons that have been challenged. He declared (1) that the editor of Le Soleil was a deserter from the French army. The publication of an honourable discharge puts an end to that story. He declared (2) that Hon. Mr. Parent visited him in the Chateau Frontenac and promised that if he (Forget) did not run in Montmorency he would get the license for the Banque Internationale, then withheld. Mr. Parent denies this, and adds that Forget was a candidate in Montmorency before the meeting occurred, and one at which the license was not discussed. What respect can one have for a member of parliament, even though he is titled, when, apparently, he does not care what he says. Sir Rodolph owes it to Mr. D'Hellencourt and Mr. Parent to make an apology to them. Will he do it?

EXAMINE THE MILK SUPPLY.
In London, Eng., and among the medical men, the question of whether or not the milk should be boiled is occupying large attention. Dr. Eric Pritchard, in the Bedford for January, discusses the subject at length, declaring that while pasteurization kills the disease-producing germs, and the milk-souring bacilli, it does not kill the resistant spore-forming proteolytic varieties which decompose milk and lead to certain intestinal troubles. The question in Kingston is the purity or impurity of the milk, and the Board of Health must, at an early date, give the matter attention. One of the members of this board has, the Whig believes, given the matter his consideration, and he may produce a sensation or a shock when he makes public what he knows. It will be recalled that when the milk under one company, was pasteurized some years ago it was not only cleared of the bacilli but of the dirt or sediment which was found in it. The pasteurization was discontinued, because it was expensive, and because the milk, under this treatment, had a taste and a smell which some people did not like. The cleaning of the milk has been continued by some of the dairymen. A couple of them deliver milk in glass bottles, with sanitary stoppers, and this milk is pure, absolutely so. It may cost something to install the plant which guarantees the consumers milk relieved of all impurities, but it is for the Board of Health to determine, by tests and analyses, whether it is in the interest of the public health to deliver it in any other condition. The question of butterfat—which is about all the city has interested itself in heretofore—is a matter of secondary importance compared with the question of cleanliness, and the evidence of it which is supplied with the milk itself.

CANNOT BE CHRISTIANS
A clergyman in Toronto, Rev. Mr. Magwood, declared recently that "in the midst of the present day civilization it is impossible to be an honest man, and a Christian." The two great hindrances to a religious and honest life were the inequitable assessment and the liquor traffic. Supposing that these two things were regulated and corrected would the way be open then for an all round Christian life? The reverend critic called attention to the unearned increment of certain vacant land in Toronto. This increment was given to the property by the people and they were despoiled of their dues. The unearned value must be restored," said Mr. Magwood. "Means must be devised by which those who created the wealth shall enjoy it." Sir James Whitney may concede this by legislation, and if so the grievance is removed. The liquor traffic is a more serious issue. The number of licenses issued in the province grows smaller year by year, but the consumption of alcoholic drinks does not seem to diminish materially. Periodically

MEN AND RELIGION.
Great disappointment is felt because the Men and Religion Movement has failed to produce the results which were expected from it. In 1911 the gain in church membership figures are supplied by Dr. Carroll in 1912 it was only 579,552. These figures are supplied by Dr. Carroll in the New York Church Advocate, and are approximately correct. Dr. Carroll was for a time the statistician for the national government in 1890, and since then he has made an independent enquiry into the facts and published them for the information of all who are concerned therein. The point of greatest interest, in the study of the statistics, is the apparent failure of the Men and Religion Movement. Great things were expected from it. The leaders were among the brightest and best men in America, leaders of personal magnetism, of abiding faith and ability of recognized devotion to the cause which they espoused. The purpose was to inspire the business men of the continent to make sacrifices for religion, to make it a part of their plan of life, and to contribute hand-was expected of it in too short a time. Granted that many were exalted in consequence of it, that many were pressed into the service of the church who had not hitherto been identified with it, the thought remained that society could not be transformed in a year. Business men have too many engagements, too many distractions, too many diversions. They have not much time for the church. Some of them give it more than they really can spare, and their example is educative. They constitute the nucleus around which others will rally, and eventually the movement will be a great success. It is having its trials meanwhile and will survive them.

EDITORIAL NOTES.
If the price of gasoline continues to soar and the raise has been eighty per cent. in six months—the expensive part of an automobile will be the oil that runs it.
The new assessment bill will not be allowed to pass without a challenge. The demand for tax reform in the province calls for some recognition from the house.

The apple growers of Prince Edward county demand an inspection of the fruit at the point of shipment. A sensible suggestion. It must surely impress the minister of agriculture and cause him to think.
Has Sir James Whitney dropped his anti-treating proposals? There is no reference to them in the speech from the throne. He was not humbugging the people, surely, when he promised legislation upon this subject.

"Tubercular cows do not die," said the chairman of a dairymen's meeting in New York; "they become bolognas." It is a knowledge of this fact, or a boast of it, that puts the stamp of suspicion upon the sausage. The meat inspector is the more in demand.
The London suffragettes have only contempt for the mere men whose existence they have to tolerate. But they are ready to accept of the service of those who are soft enough to pay their fines. It is possible that the mere men will tire of this thing eventually.

The chairman of the Hamilton school board reminds the premier of Ontario that he has not redeemed his promise, while in opposition, to improve the school system so far as the ninety-five per cent. are concerned—the pupils of the public schools. The poor man's child has been forgotten since some men have got into power.
Bishop Farthing, of Montreal, explains that he believes in fasting, but it is of no avail spiritually unless it brings the body under subjection to the spirit and into the discipline which is very much needed. A conventional or fashionable observance of Lent he condemns. Fasting without prayer is not helpful to the soul of man.

Government by commission is a failure so far as the University of Toronto is concerned. And it is a failure largely because this commission, though acting for the people, persists in doing its business in private. One of the features of civic government by commission is publicity. Why should it be excluded in college management?
A Neglected Youngster.
A lad, about four years of age, has been giving the police considerable trouble within the past few weeks. The youngster persists in walking the streets and asking citizens for copper. On Friday afternoon the urchin was seated in the Kingston and Pembroke station, and was very much surprised when Police Constable Naylor ordered him to go home.
