W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the O.H.A., in Kingston at the funeral of the late E. S. Elliott, and had nothing but the warmest praise for the deceased athlete, stated that he had never seen such a testimony of regard paid to any young man as that which was evidenced at Mr. Elliott's funeral, in the floral gifts and letters of sympathy.

Incidents of the Day

To-night "Eileen Oge."
To-night will be a real Irish night at the Grand opera house where the united Irish societies will present a beautiful old Irish drama in four acts, entitled, "Eileen Oge." This play was produced in New York city in 1870 and made a big hit touring America. It was revived lately and proves to be very popular, and no doubt will delight the hearts of all who attend the Grand to-night, and see pretty little Nora O'Donnell with other Irish colleens and Irish boys in one of the best of old Irish plays interspersed with good songs and dances.
Author of "Spanish Gold."
It may not be generally known that "G. A. Bermingham," author, among other works, of "Spanish Gold," is an Irish clergyman. His real name is Rev. James Owen Hannay, of Westport, County Mayo, Ireland, and canon of St. Patrick's, Dublin. Canon Hannay has recently sent a copy of his Spanish Gold and a letter to one of the Kingston clergy, who was a contemporary of his in Trinity college, Dublin.
While viewing the American rapids from the head of Goat Island, Sunday afternoon, Miss Josephine Kivitsch, twenty-five years old, of 23 Titus street, Buffalo, slipped on the ice and fell into the water. Her body was swept over the Luna Fall.
The steam sealer Lloydson, Captain Barber, while endeavoring to force through the ice at Port Au Force, struck a sunken rock which seriously damaged the steamer that the voyage had to be abandoned.
Definite agreement has been reached by which wood pulp for print paper manufacture in all its forms will be put on the United States free list.

Pranks of Czarevitch

Now that he is ill, people talk about the lively pranks of the czarevitch, the heir to the Russian throne. Only the day before his accident he ordered the chef, M. Gada, once owner of the St. Petersburg restaurant that bears the name, to meet him at the top of the stairs with five live crab fish. Cuda arrived with the crabs and handed them over with the query:
"Say I ask what your imperial highness wants with them?"
"You going to put them in my sister's bed," the lad answered.
And he did, with the result that the house was in an uproar shortly after bedtime that night.

the room where his father was holding a privy council with ministers, shouting:
"Papa, papa! My sisters have been whacking me!"
His father explained that he ought not to disturb them like that, and he went out. A quarter of an hour later he arrived in his uniform of general of the guards, saluted his father and the ministers in turn, then solemnly said:
"I have the honor to announce to your imperial majesty that the grand duchesses have chastised me."
Then he saluted and strutted out.
