DIED IN CAMDEN.

The Passing of Caleb Rose Raymond.

Napanee Beaver.

This neighborhood has a sad gloom cast over it on June 3 by the death of Caleb Rose Raymond, he having been seized with an attack of apoplexy on May 30th. The subject of this obituary was born on the farm on which he died on June 20th, 1841, and lived there all his life except eight years, living four years at Roblin and four years at Enterprise.

He was trustee and secretary-treasurer of the public school in enterprise for several years. In church work he was superintendent of the Methodist sabbath school for about fifteen years and held the office of recording steward for years and other active work, always anxious for the furtherance of the cause of God. In latter years he declined leaving the work for younger ones to do. In politics he was a staunch conservative. In disposition he was mild and loving, a kind friend to the poor at all times, a kind and loving husband and father to his family, leaving behind him to mourn his loss a wife and two daughters.

Mrs. J. W. Cummings and Mrs. P. H. Sager, of the township of North Frederickburgh, and one son, Elmar now living on the homestead; also four grandchildren. The service at the house was conducted by the Rev. R. W. Rowland, pastor of the Methodist church at Enterprise. The remains were placed in the Centreville vault to await interment in the Centreville cemetery.

What might have been quite a serious accident happened to Samuel Jemison last Monday. He and B. J. Fair were motoring east of the village, one of the wheels struck a stone, and Mr. Jemison stood up. Just then the opposite wheel struck another, throwing Mr. Jemison out on his head and cutting it. After the wound was dressed, he felt no bad effects. Isaac Lake has had quite a bad attack of heart failure, but his many friends will be pleased to hear that he is getting better. The village is quite lively this week as children from the surrounding schools are trying entrance examinations. Between children and American tourists there are about seventy-five strangers here. Unload Your Freight Right On The Top Floor

WHEN the ground floor or basement is used as a receiving room, store room and shipping room combined, it is impossible to avoid confusion and consequent delay in filling orders.

The logical place for the receiving room, in a factory or warehouse, is the top floor. Here bulky cases may be unpacked and their contents rushed to the store room, or direct to the proper department, leaving the packing cases on the top floor and reserving the ground floor and basement for showing goods and shipping orders.

An Otis-Fensom Freight Elevator makes all floors as readily accessible as the ground floor. It saves money by reducing the time and labor required in handling raw materials and manufactured goods. It makes possible the use of your regular line shaft power, or if line shaft power is not available a "single belt" type of elevator may be had with an independent motor. The prevailing low rates for electric power make this type of elevator most attractive and economical.

OTIS FENSOM FREIGHT ELEVATORS

For those who do not require, or cannot use, a belted elevator we recommend our latest improved Hand Power Freight Elevator, equipped with our Improved Steel Roller Bearings, which run with the least possible friction and without oiling.

Our booklets, "Freight Elevators and Their Uses," will tell you all about an elevator designed to meet your individual needs.

Write for it to-day. Don't put it off until another time. Just sit right down and fill out this coupon NOW, while the thought is fresh in your mind.
