THE CURIOSITY SHOWN

IN HEARING CASES IN THE POLICE COURT.

Court Room is Crowded Every Day With Men Who Show a Great Eagerness to See the Poor Unfortunates and to Watch the Proceedings—Room is Filled to Overflowing.

It is very strange the curiosity shown around court rooms, when prisoners are brought up for sentence. At the court house on Thursday, when two young men were sentenced for holding up a man and robbing him, the court house was visited by a large crowd of young men who were very anxious to hear the evidence and the sentence passed by the court.

"These men are Kingston's unemployed," one citizen was heard to remark.

They crowded into Judge Price's chambers, and as soon as the cases were disposed of, filed out in quick order. When some poor unfortunate gets into trouble, there is always an eager crowd around to watch him, and thus humiliate him by their presence.

And it is the same way in the city police court, nearly every day the police court room is filled with spectators. And they are pretty near the same people who attend these sessions every day.

It is indeed wonderful how they find the time to attend the police court every day. The majority of them must be out of employment, for if they were working, they would not be able to be a "regular" at the police court proceedings.

Some days the police court room will not hold the crowd that gathers to hear some particular case, and at times, the magistrate has to clear the court if there is a particularly lengthy session, as one would almost suffocate in the room with such a crowd.

The curiosity of some people leads them to wait around the police court door for hours at a time, waiting for it to open so that they can get on the inside and hear all the proceedings.

But this curiosity is not only in Kingston. It is to be found in every place, but in these busy days, when there is such a great demand for workmen, and when such high wages are paid, it does seem strange that so many people can afford to "kill" time in witnessing cases at the police court.

PROPERTIES IN OTTAWA.

Which Are Owned by the Holiness Movement Church.

Regarding the erection of a college in Ottawa, for the Holiness Movement church, which was decided upon here, at the recent convention, the Ottawa Journal, has the following:

"The properties which are owned by the Ottawa branch of the Holiness Movement include the old MacLean homestead at the corner of Centre and Bank streets, the Book and Publishing house at the corner of Flora and Bank streets and two churches, one on Fifth avenue and the other on Bronson avenue. A third church which is not in the city limits is situated at Billing's bridge, this is owned by the Ottawa Holiness Movement. The first two properties mentioned are very valuable.

The MacLean property, after the death of Mr. MacLean, was purchased by Ex-Mayor Mowell, it is understood, for $7,000. He sold it to the Holiness Movement for $15,000, and since that time the valuation has each year been placed at a considerably higher figure.

NOT MANY HAVE FAILED

In the Matriculation Examinations. It is Reported.

Registrar Anglin, of the Department of Education, Toronto, has the following statement to make regarding the matriculation examinations results, which will be announced on Saturday:

"There is no great cause of delay. The work has been pushed as hard as possible. We refused to sacrifice the interests of the candidates in order to get the results out a few days earlier. We are taking particular care that every student receives justice."

Mr. Anglin declared the report that an unusually large number of candidates had fallen beneath the standards, was quite unfounded.

CIRCUS IN KINGSTON

THE SELLS-FIOTO SHOW ARRIVED FRIDAY MORNING.

Many People Came to Town—The Street Parade Was Good—A Fine Performance at the Fair Grounds.

After having been participants in an excellent parade this morning, the horses of the Sells-Floto circus were the major actors in a performance at the fair grounds Friday afternoon that ranks first with anything of the kind ever before attempted here.

Sells-Floto are offering a horse circus before anything else—horseless forms the paramount part, and is the main centre of interest. Of course there are plenty of feature acts outside the horses and they are all first class.

After the grand entry, in which most of the circus actors took part, the three rings were first occupied by horses, the costumes of the riders in the centre ring being white and in the two side rings red and white with white trimmings. Flo Robinson, on "Mazappa, the marble horse," and Irene Montgomery on "May Day," a horse going under the same caption, occupied the two end rings next while about forty clowns disported about the centre stage.

One of the features of the circus came next. Miss Margaret Rice introduced her troupe of African lions and Bengal tigers, advertised as the first time these two species have been brought together in the same cage. The lions and tigers were compelled to go through tricks which mark them as gentle, under the eye of their mistress, as so many pet lambs.

Nineteen-year-old Emily Stickney, sister Emma, and Estella Hobs occupy the three rings in equestrian acts of the first water. All three of them seemingly vie with each other in an effort to become the "prima donna" in the eyes of the audience.

In the acts performed by the trained elephants under the direction of Lucia Zora, the woman trainer billed as a hypnotizer of the pachyderms, everything heretofore seen by these performers in a circus was undoubtedly surpassed. One elephant, called "Freda," showed almost human intelligence, and whether or not she was moved by the hypnotist, or her act was great. Among other acts she walked around the ring on her fore legs with Zora firmly perched on her hind quarters.

Plenty of novelties were introduced by the acrobats of the circus. Notably among these was a slack wire act with one sister performing on the wire and the other holding one end of it in her teeth. The Australian Bushman and his wife, gave marvellous exhibitions with whips, the shortest being 25 feet in length and the longest 75 feet. Thin paper was cut in small pieces by the cracks of the snappers of these whips at long range, many the lighted and put out and many other tricks executed.

Tex McLeod, winner of the international championship for both fancy and trick-roping of the world, held at Calgary last year, and also winner of the gold belt offered at Salt Lake City in July of this year; Mike Brown, for six years the principal cowboy of Buffalo Bill's Wild West, and Bill Thompson, bucking horse rider of national repute, furnished the wild west fun for the show which vied with the hippodrome races in interest, these last finishing an excellent performance.

Notable among the manoeuvres of the parade was the performance of the Devil Zouaves of Jackson, Mich. These young lads are remarkably well versed in military movements of the Zouave type, and accordingly execute them well with machine-like precision.

The parade through the business streets this morning was an admirable one, and ranked with that of the big circus which was here in June.

American Rates and Railways.

Local railway officials will secure a crumb of comfort and encouragement when the head of the European railways says as compared with railways of this continent. There may be some question as to the superior efficiency of our railways, but most readers must know by this time that the rates on the whole are higher in Europe than in the United States and Canada. In making his comparisons Commissioner Haslam, who is chairman of the commission to investigate agricultural credits, also European wheat markets, does not take into account the fact of the higher cost of production, the higher rate of wages paid to trainmen, engine-men, and all who help to move the world's freight. If this were done the showing of American railways would be even better than appears from this short statement.

In a column article cabled from Europe to the Hearst newspapers of the United States, Mr. Haslam, over his signature, said: "European railway systems are not as highly efficient as ours and charge much higher rates both for freight and passengers."

At Lake Ontario Park.

Lake Ontario Park pavilion last evening was well filled. A very fine new programme was presented and was appreciated. Grant, in the costume of a knight of the old French court, did some startling feats on roller skates. His dog, which he claims is the best trained and most intelligent in the world, "Buster," did some pretty acts, while the whiff with the dog on the wheel was a fine piece of work. Shipley and Admanson, musical novelties and expert players on various instruments, held the interest of the audience. Shipley in the character of the music master, played a fine selection on the violincello, while Miss Admanson sang, "When you and I were young, Maggie," and being encored sang two other pretty songs, the whole concluding with the "Bear Car." The same programme will be presented for the balance of the week.

Time is money, but it is easier to make up lost time than lost money.

IN BASEBALL CIRCLES

VICTORIAS AND ATHLETICS MEET ON SATURDAY.

Bethel Has Some Outside Challenges—Cooke's Still Leads Sunday School League—Big League Scores on Thursday.

The baseball game to be played in the senior series of the city league on Saturday will be between the Victorias and Athletics. The latter will be out stronger than ever for this game and the battery will in all probability be either Little or Derry in the box and Evans as catcher. The rest of the team will be the same as went up against Garnocks, of Gananoque, on August 2nd.

Spencer, the first baseman, is not likely to try to steal home when the pitcher is throwing the ball to the batter. At last Saturday's game he was caught twice in doing so. On one occasion he made a fine three-base hit, but being over-anxious to score he lost all by his attempted steal home when there was not the slightest chance of making it.

The Victorias will be strong and will have either McCammon or Gillespie pitching. Both teams have been doing considerable practising and a close game is likely to be the result.

Baseball on Thursday.

International league—Montreal 2, Jersey City 0; Newark 3, Buffalo 2; Rochester 9, Providence 4, Baltimore 3-1, Toronto 0-2.

American league—New York 5, Detroit 1; Philadelphia 7, Cleveland 3; Boston 9, St. Louis 8; Chicago 11, Washington 4.

National league—Chicago 5, Philadelphia 2; New York 5, Cincinnati 2; St. Louis 3, Brooklyn 2; Pittsburg 4, Boston 3.

Challenge Bethel.

Bethel baseball team has received a number of requests from out of town teams for games. One of the most recent challenges comes from Grindstone Island. It will be remembered that a basket-ball team representing this island visited Kingston and made a good showing, so big things are expected in the baseball line.

Cooke's Lead League.

Although defeated last Tuesday evening Cooke's baseball team still leads the Sunday school baseball league. It has only lost one game, whereas St. George's has lost two. Sydenham stands third with three defeats.

On Tuesday evening Sydenham will play Cooke's, so a defeat for the Presbyterians will tie up matters.
