TEACHERS' INSTITUTE GOT DRINK ON SUNDAY

THE KINGSTON TEACHERS WERE IN SESSION FRIDAY

Dr. Coleman Talked Learnedly On the New Geography—Teachers Told Of Their Travels During the Recent Vacation.

In convocation hall, at nine o'clock on Friday morning, the day's proceedings of the Kingston Teachers' Institute opened. J. E. McDonald, the president, was in the chair. The schools of the city were closed to allow the staffs to attend, and most of the teachers were present.

Dr. H. T. J. Coleman, dean of the Faculty of Education at Queen's, was the first speaker, taking as his subject "The New Geography." He described the changes in the present school curriculum, from that of some years ago, the great value of which he said would be realized in the years to come. The dean compared the treatment of geography. In the past too much emphasis has been laid on the mechanical part of map drawing, and an unwholesome stress placed upon the memorizing of names, which only too often meant little to the child, and added nothing to his or her fund of useful information.

The tendency of the present age is to proceed from the mere to the remote, and better use is made of the map, with more meaning to the child. There is a realization of the human element in the teaching of such facts taught in relation to man. The dean contributed much to the instructiveness of the morning's programme.

Two of the members of the staff of the public schools gave resumes of their travels during the past summer. Miss L. G. Bureau spoke on her impressions of England and Scotland while Mrs. L. Mapee told of her visit to Guernsey, one of the Channel islands.

One hour before adjournment was profitably spent when the institute listened to a lecture by Prof. McNeil, on "The Theatres of the Plays of Shakespeare." The lecture, which was excellent, was given in the physics room of the Ontario buildings, and was made more interesting with the use of lantern slides.

Friday afternoon session of the institute was held in Macdonald school, commencing at two o'clock. Talks were given on "Arithmetic" by Miss I. G. Lovick, and Messrs. J. E. McDonald, Russell Stewart and Inman.

A pleasing diversion was allowed at three o'clock, when Miss Eileen Wright gave a piano solo, and Mrs. H. T. J. Coleman sang. Business and the election of officers followed.

The Chalmers at Home.
This event, last evening was most pleasant and successful. The guests were received by Mrs. Macgillivray, Mrs. Dyde, Mrs. Richmond and Mrs. Henderson. The attendance was large, filling the whole available space. The students of the university and college were out in goodly numbers, and their eyes were quick to note the decorations in college colors. And the general congregation was well represented. A word of welcome, brief but cordial, was spoken by the pastor, after which followed a choice musical programme, Mrs. Dobbs presiding at the piano, and Mrs. J. F. Macdonald, Miss Massie, Messrs. Couper and Bankier giving vocal solos, and Miss Wright an instrumental solo. All were called upon to do it over again. The college songs and choruses, Miss Wright at the piano, were much enjoyed. After refreshments of tea, coffee, cake and ice cream had been served Auld Lang Sine and the national anthem were sung, and a very happy social gathering was brought to a close. The hospitality of the Ladies' Aid left nothing to be desired.

Stranger Identified.
The aged man found wandering around the streets by the police, a week ago, and who was removed to Rockwood hospital, being of unsound mind, has been identified. His name is Patrick O'Grady and his home is at Lombardy. His son was in the city today, and returned home with the father's horse and rig. O'Grady suffered a stroke of paralysis some time ago, and ever since his mind has been unbalanced. He drove from his home to Kingston.

Fell From Street Car.
On Thursday evening Patrick Scannlin met with an accident and had to be taken to the Hotel Dieu. Mr. Scannlin, it appears, was riding on a street car, and when it was going around the corner of Brock and Ontario streets, he lost his balance and fell, alighting on his head. He was picked up in a semi-unconscious state, and rushed to the hospital, where his injury was dressed. It required three stitches to close the gash over his right eye. On Friday he was resting easily.

Forgot To Put On Ball.
The new flag pole purchased for the Kingston Collegiate Institute is almost completed. The pole is made of steel and stands seventy-five feet high. On Thursday afternoon, after the pole had been erected, it was noticed that the men had forgotten to place the large ball on top. As the pole had been placed in concrete it was found necessary for one of the men to climb up and place the ball in position.

AND IT LED TO TROUBLE IN THE POLICE COURT

Mary Phillips Was Charged With An Infraction of the Liquor Act But the Case Was Dismissed—Admitted Giving Liquor, But Denied Taking Money For It—Fifty Cents Paid For Board Bill.

The charge against Mary Phillips, in the police court, on Friday morning, was that of selling liquor, without a license, at her home on Princess street. She pleaded "not guilty."

"I did not sell it, I gave it to him," she explained to the court.

William Gray told C. R. Webster, who prosecuted for License Inspector C. W. Wright, that last Sunday he was at the home of the accused, and had secured some whiskey, and in return gave her fifty cents. He had secured whiskey at the place some time ago.

The accused stated that she conducted a boarding-house and that the money Gray had given her was on a bill of $3.50 which he owed her since last July, for board and lodging.

She stated further, that she only sold soft drinks. The liquor she gave Gray she secured from the room of one of her boarders. The boarder had been drinking, and she considered that he had had enough. Gray asked her if she had anything to drink. She at first stated "no," and then remembered about the whiskey in the boarder's room and went there and got it.

Gray was placed in the box and admitted to the court that he owed the woman the money she claimed he did.

Under the circumstances, the magistrate stated that he could not return a conviction, and dismissed the case. Gray is a member of the "prohibited list" and the charge against him for being drunk while on the list was enlarged until Tuesday.

For being drunk and disorderly, Reginald Hawkins was fined $3 and costs. Hawkins said he was very sorry, but his sorrow did not help to pay his fine.

William Dogherty, on remand a week, for drunkenness, was given a chance to brace up. He told the magistrate that he would never drink again.

Still Another Charge.
Mary Phillips, accused of selling liquor without a license, and whose case was dismissed, was served with another summons after the police court session. William Gray, the man who she declared she gave some liquor to, is a member of the "prohibited list. This is the charge.

WILL LET HIM PLAY

Can Put Gage On the Varsity Playing Line.

"Charlie" Gage, of Varsity, will figure on the Varsity line, against McGill, in Montreal, on Saturday afternoon. Capt. George Laing, McGill, stated, on Thursday afternoon, that "if Varsity wanted to play him on Saturday, they can as far as we are concerned." McGill has decided not to protest on the grounds that at the present time the Toronto outfit is crippled on account of Maynard and Carr being out of the game. If Gage does not do any more effective work in Montreal than he did against the cadets of the Royal Military College, in Kingston, McGill need not fear of any trouble from him.

The Queen's Line-Up.

Queen's senior rugby team, which meets the cadets of the Royal Military College, on Saturday afternoon, in the second match of the Intercollegiate Rugby Union, will be practically the same as that which met McGill in Montreal, a week ago. P. Macdonnell will replace Lewis. The other players will be: McCartney, Hill, Hazlett, Quigley, McQuay, McLeod, Kennedy, Ellis, Robins, McIlquham, McLaughlin, Borden and P. Kennedy.

Men's Association.

The first regular meeting of the Men's Association of St. James' church, for the season 1913-14, was held on Thursday evening in the Sunday school hall. The meeting was addressed by Prof. William Nicol, who gave a most interesting lecture on the ruby. R. J. Rodger, jeweller, spoke in connection with the same. After the lecture business was gone into and preparations were made for the holding of a rock trial in December. It was also proposed to have Rev. A. P. Shaford, M.A., Montreal, come to the city and address the association in January.
