DARE-DEVIL MARINERS IN MARINE CIRCLES

WHO VENTURE ON LAKES WHEN WARNED OF STORM

Owners of Vessels Prefer These Kind To the Careful Ones Who Remain In Port When Danger Threatens.

The recent gale and wrecks on the Great Lakes has given rise to lots of talk among the local mariners, many of whom have sailed for years on these inland waters, and have themselves weathered bad storms.

Speaking to a Whig man on Wednesday afternoon, one, a master of years' experience, attributed to the large part, the great loss of life during Monday's gale to "dare-devilness" on the part of captains. At all points on the lakes and river, marine men had been given warning that the storm was due, two or three days before it came, but still they ventured out on the waters, which became so turbulent that some of the best navigators could not bring their vessels safely through the gale. What is the use of the government paying men to furnish forecasts of the weather, this mariner asks.

"There are too many dare-devils on the lakes now-a-days," said the captain, "men who are willing to take great risks even at this time of the year, to make time." He said that a careful master, who in his judgment, is acting in the interests of the owners by remaining in shelter, is only too often liable to be replaced by one of these venturesome mariners, whom the owners appear to think are the most profitable men.

CAUGHT IN HEN COOP

Police Removed Joseph Smith To the Police Cells.

While in his cups, Joseph Smith picked up a hen coop, on the premises of the Revere Hotel, for a night's lodging on Tuesday night. About 1 a.m. some of the people in the hotel heard a noise in the hen coop, and had visions of a chicken robbery, and sent a call to the police station Constables Bateson and Nicholson responded and upon arrival at the hen coop, found Smith, in slumberland. Smith declared that he had endeavored to get a night's lodging. The magistrate gave the accused a chance on the charge of drunkenness, and no other charge was lodged against him.

NO TRACE YET

Of Body of Thomas Munroe, Drowned Off Steamer Compton.

No trace has yet been found of the body of Thomas Munroe, of South Lancaster, who was drowned off the steamer Compton, near the Mar'n Ducks, on the morning of November 1st. The parents of the young man are at home, anxiously awaiting news of the recovery of the body, and have made a request that mariners keep a special lookout, while in this district.

The weather has been so rough that it has been impossible to make a thorough search.

Tea Room To Be Opened.

The opening of a tea room in the city, which will be welcome news to many people, is only another indication of the steady advancement of the city. The rooms, on the second floor at 338 King street, two doors north of the Bank of Toronto, are now being fitted out for this purpose, and will be ready for opening about November 15th. Mrs. Kavanagh, of 254 King street, is the proprietor, and this assures Kingstonians of an unexcelled service.

The late J. S. Cartwright.

J. S. Cartwright, master in chambers at Osgoode Hall since 1903, died at his home in Toronto on Wednesday morning.

Mr. Cartwright was a brother of the Deputy-Attorney General, John R. Cartwright, K.C., and was a cousin of the late Sir Richard Cartwright.

He was born in Kingston and was educated at Rugby, England. He was called to the bar in 1868 and became a king's counsel in 1902. He was appointed registrar of the Queen's bench division of the high court in 1883, from which post he was promoted to his late position.

They Are Dissatisfied.

There appears to be some dissatisfaction on the part of the merchants due to the change of the electric current to be supplied. As soon as the wires are placed in the conduits it will be changed to an alternating current which means considerable expense. One merchant who recently purchased a new motor for his elevator was surprised when he was informed that by spring he would be compelled to change his motor and also the wiring, which means much expense.

Here is the Secret of Long Life

While looking forward to health and long life it is possible you are unaware of the conditions necessary to attain healthful old age. Careful eating, and consequent preservation of the health and vitality of the digestive and excretory organs is of the greatest importance.

Overeating is the usual cause of torpid, sluggish liver action, and when the liver fails additional work is thrown on the kidneys and they break down. Kidney disorders are the great source of suffering in old age. Rheumatism, bodily pains, aching arms and legs, backache and lumbago are the result.

By the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to regulate the liver, kidneys and bowels, as occasion requires, you not only overcome the suffering, inconvenience and unpleasantness of attacks of biliousness, indigestion and constipation, but you actually prolong life by keeping these organs in good, healthful condition. This medicine is a wonderful source of comfort for people in old age.

Had Good Luck.

John Theobald has returned home from a hunting trip to Mile Lake. He was accompanied by Dr. John Black, of Gananoque; George Smith of Harrow; William Stanford, of Kingston; William Black, of Parham; Charles Godfrey, of Godfrey Station; Richard Hamilton, of Godfrey Station; and Samuel A. B. Verona. All the members of the party had great success and succeeded in landing the allotted number of deer.

Were Well Pleased.

The Brockville Recorder, speaking of the Press Association meeting in Kingston, on Tuesday, said it was most successful, that much courtesy was shown by the Kingston pressmen and that the dinner at the Frontenac was a great credit to Proprietor Walsh and his manager, E. R. Ashley. The Brockville Times says the meeting was a marked success and augurs well for the future of the thriving organization.
