A TOUCH OF SADNESS

MARKED MARINE INVESTIGATION HELD IN KINGSTON.

Crew of Turret Chief Lost Warm Friends in Terrible Disaster on Upper Lakes—Will Never Forget Battle They Had in Awful Storm.

The marine investigation which was held in Kingston, on Friday afternoon, had a touch of sadness, although the entire crew of the steamer Turret Chief, under investigation, escaped in the terrible gale which caused such an awful toll of death, every officer lost one or more friends, and as they gave their evidence before the commission, they could not keep from thinking about the good men who went down with their ships, and at the same time, wonder how they had managed to escape a similar fate. It was plain to be seen that each witness appeared to be carrying a heavy load, and although the evidence was given promptly and very openly, it gave one the impression that the recalling of the disaster gave pain to the strong, able-bodied men who had, scores of times, made the trip up and down the great lakes, without mishap.

And all the while these seamen were modest. Although the storm was regarded by everyone as one of the worst ever experienced, not one witness called, showed any desire to comment on the character of the storm. When pressed for an answer, they admitted it was the worst gale they had ever experienced, but were not inclined towards publishing this fact in glaring headlines, as it were. They gave the impression that they were true sailors, both in quiet and troublesome times—that storms must be encountered, and on such occasions, they must be ready for them. One witness, while admitting that the storm was one of the worst he had ever encountered, stated that he had been out in the lake in even a worse gale, and those who listened to his evidence, found it hard to conceive of anything, which could have been regarded as more serious.

The story of the stranding of the steamer Turret Chief has been told, to the public in general and will, perhaps, be forgotten by the readers of the story in the course of a few short time, but the members of the crew will remember it to the day of their death.

Man To Man, Sir!

LET US UNDERSTAND EACH OTHER

We must make it plain to you that our tailoring is so pre-eminently just in its appeal to men of taste that you cannot go elsewhere for your clothes.

And as this season's suits and overcoats passed through our hands and into our cases we realized deeply that we had marshalled into line the strongest array of men's ready for service garments ever presented for your inspection.

Strongest not from the standpoint of quantity, because there are larger stocks in existence, but strongest from the standpoint of the discrimination used in selecting the fabrics, models and styles—and the care used in their tailoring.

Beked Ulsters and Ulster-lines are the most popular shapes. Blue and grey Chinchillas and English Kersays are the taking materials. $18, $26 and $25 are the Popular prices.

THE HALLS OF QUEEN'S

KINGSTON CATERER FAVORED BY MEDICAL STUDENTS.

Registrar Chown After the Cabmen For Breaking Trees—Aeschylean Society's Social Event on Friday Evening.

The medicals are still anxious for a students' theatre night and every effort is being made to arrange with the management of the Grand Opera House to allow them to hold it on December 11th at the comic opera, "Marriette." It is rather dubious whether such arrangements can be made, but the local manager is endeavoring to secure the head-manager's consent and also that of the advance agent of the company.

The refreshment committee for the medical dinner had considered getting tenders for catering to the dinner from outside caterers as well as local. It seems that science which have given their consent to Cole's, of Toronto, wished medicine to join them and give this caterer their, but Mr. Reid, of Kingston, provided such an excellent menu at a comparatively much lower cost than that of the Toronto man, the refreshment committee decided to give its contract to Mr. Reid, who has provided the fare for the last couple of years with satisfaction. The R.C.H.A. band has been engaged to provide the music.

Some members of the final year in medicine have not yet digested the idea that their year does not alone possess the privilege of nominating the medical candidate for the office of president of the Alma Mater Society, and at the meeting of the Aesculapian society, Friday afternoon, an attempt was made to reconstruct the constitution so that the final year in the future should have this monopoly, but so many spoke against the proposition that a motion to that effect was lost.

The medical dance proved a success financially, and a final report of the committee shows a balance of $13, the expenses amounting to $348. The Varsity representative, who was present at the dance, said words of his excellent entertainment and the Varsity Medical society announces its dance to be on December 17th, at which Queen's will be represented.

G. Y. Chown is after the scalps of the cabmen who did so much damage to trees, fences and shrubbery beside the lawns, at the medical dance, so has intimated to the committee that it shall pay the damage thus occurred which amount to $10.

Medicine '15 is the winner of the Dean Connell trophy for rugby football in medicine. It was closely run by Medicine '17 for first place, but came out best by a few points. The dean will present the trophy to the winners at the next meeting of the Aesculapian Society and the athletic committee will have a shield engraved with the year on it attached to the trophy.

The Medical athletic committee will meet some time before Monday with the athletic committees of the other faculties to arrange with them for the inter-faculty rugby games, in which Medicine was so successful last year, and a schedule will be drawn up. Mr. Davidson, of the first year, has been added to the committee.

The medical students, although lacking the fair essentials for dancing in their building, have decided to ask the house committee to remove the first seats in lecture room No. 1, so that stag dances may be held between classes. From the appearance of these dances they do not come under the sanction of the A.M.S. J. B. McLeod, business manager of the Journal, addressed the medical students concerning subscriptions for the Journal. It is expected a ready response will meet the appeal.

Business transacted by the Aesculapian society at their regular meeting Friday afternoon consisted in receiving the auditors' report in favor of last year's accounts, in addition to the penalties decided on, referring to previous publication, he added to the list that is being published, and in appointing a committee to revise the constitution, consisting of Messrs. Bell, Fraser, Wilson, Carmichael, Findlayson and Pilkie. A programme was rendered by Messrs. Grove, Preston and Wright, a mandolin and guitar selection, and a vocal solo by H. B. Whytock.

The Aeschylean society held its annual social evening in the new arts building, Friday evening. At five o'clock Dean Coleman gave the opening address. Dancing and a programme followed. Vocal numbers were given by Mrs. Coleman, Misses Nesbitt, McLeland, Halliday, Messrs. A. B. Whytock, P. M. McDougal, a piano duet by Misses Sinclair and Lawrence, and a violin solo by C. B. Waite. Refreshments were served in the basement during the evening. The patronesses present were Misses Coleman, McPherson, Sliter. The society is to be congratulated on the success of the evening.

A ROYAL COMMISSION.

May Be Appointed to Further Investigate Marine Disaster.

That a royal commission will be appointed to investigate the marine disasters, is the belief of those who are in close touch with affairs.

"This investigation which has just been opened does not cover everything," said one man, well posted on the matter.

"It does not cover the companies, but merely the crews of the vessels, and more evidence is desired pertaining to the real management." The general feeling is said to be towards the appointment of a royal commission, which would have far more power in securing more important evidence regarding the management of vessels.

Danced Objectionable Dances.

There seems to have been some friction at a Napanee event, for a lady, the head of an organization, publishes a card commending a lady who had charge of the dancing "for the courage she displayed in dealing alone with the disagreeableness she encountered from some of the guests who endeavored to enforce the rules posted in many parts of the room by the committee in charge." They regretted "that any of the guests would not only have disregarded, but defied, the request courteously made, and persisted in dancing objectionable dances."

NAVAGO COULD NOT REACH THE BARGE CEYLON.

Made Another Attempt on Friday Afternoon to Get Close to the Wrecked Barge Near Long Point—Movements of Vessels.

The steambarge Navajo made another attempt to get to the barge Ceylon, which was wrecked near Long Point, about four weeks ago. The vessel made a trip to the scene on Friday, but there was such a heavy sea, that the boat was unable to get close to the barge. When within a couple of miles of the barge, the vessel had to turn back. The Navajo stayed in McDougal's cove, on Friday night, and came out to Kingston Saturday morning.

The steamers Hamiltonian and Glen Fire passed down on Friday night. The schooner Belleville, for Deseronto, to be laid up for the winter. M. T. Co's elevator.—Tug Emerson, from Montreal, four light barges: steamers Keyport and Key V. from Port Colborne, grain-laden.

Their Final Sailings. The final sailings of a number of the river vessels have been announced. The steamer Bickerdike, which was taken out of the drydock on Thursday morning, has been laid up at the old Grand Trunk freight sheds wharf.

The steamer Belleville, which passed up on Friday afternoon, after being released from the grounding near Gananoque, is due down again on Tuesday or Wednesday, and will go into winter quarters at Sorel, Que.

The steamer Dundurn has cleared from Montreal for the last time this season, and is due up on Sunday to pass on to Toronto, where she will lay up. The steamer City of Ottawa will spend the winter at Sorel. She is due eastbound from here the first of the week.

The schooner City of Hamilton, which was due up on Saturday, is slated to pass down on December 1st, on her final trip.

The steamer America on Saturday concludes her daily trips to and from Picton and Bay of Quinte points. The steamer Glen Ella was dug at Swift's on Saturday to load canned goods for the west.

The steamer Sowards was docked at the shipyard for a short repair job, on Friday. The steamer Cornwall and the Frontenac returned to Garden Island on Friday, from the scene of the grounding of the steamer Hecla, about two miles below Alexandria Bay, N.Y. It has been found impossible to pull her off, and the owners and crew are figuring upon the best plan to be adopted to release her.

A SCOTCH ENTERTAINMENT.

With Rev. W. A. Cameron, of Toronto, as Lecturer. An enjoyable time was spent at Convocation Hall, Queen's University, on Friday evening, where a real good old Scotch entertainment was held, at which Rev. W. A. Cameron, of Bloor Street Baptist church, Toronto, gave a thrilling and edifying address upon "A Pilgrimage to the Land of Burns." In addition to this two very pretty solos were given by Miss M. Breathwaite and Mrs. E. Turner. The former sang "Loch Lomond," and the latter "Ye Banks and Braes of Bonnie Doone." Then to put a real Scotch effect to the whole evening's entertainment, James W. Fraser played a selection upon the bagpipes.

Prof. D. Buchanan, who acted as chairman, gave a short witty address, at the conclusion of which he introduced the speaker of the evening, Rev. W. A. Cameron. Just before the latter commenced his address the chairman called upon the audience to sing a verse of "Annie Laurie," which was heartily rendered by the good sized crowd. The address of Mr. Cameron was full of wit, humor and description. It was greatly enjoyed. H. A. Carscallen has been engaged by the Newtown band as leader and instructor.
