LIEUT.-COL. J. MASSIE CRIED LIKE A BABY

RETIRES FROM ACTUAL MILITARY LIFE ON THE 31ST WHEN HELD ON A CHARGE OF STEALING MONEY

He Received His Commission In 1881—The Colonel Has Rendered Many Years of Valuable Services.

Heut. Col. James Massie, who, on Wednesday, retires from active military life, has had a creditable record of considerably over thirty years' service, by far the larger portion of which has been as a veterinary officer with the permanent force. He retires at the same time as Lieut.-Col. W. B. Hall, of Toronto, the two being the senior veterinary officers of Canada. As yet there has been no successor appointed as principal medical officer of this division, which position Col. Massie has held for some years.

It was in May, 1881, that Col. Massie received his commission and started with the rank of lieutenant as veterinary officer of the 4th Hussars. Previous to that he had served in the 14th and 47th regiments. In 1887 he was transferred to the Royal Canadian artillery, but his permanent service dates back for five or six years prior to this, for he did duty here with the permanent force during that time. When he joined "B" battery was but an infant, and what is now from a mounted point of view. It was partially garrison artillery. There were but sixteen horses and two guns with the battery then, whereas at the present time the horses number about ninety in this battery alone.

Col. Massie has been second according to seniority since the Canada Army Veterinary corps was organized about two years ago, but has been P. M. O. of the district and now the third division, since that position was established. As is generally known Col. Massie was born in Kingston, and earlier in life followed the chemical and drug business. For a few years he resided at Smith's Falls. In 1895 he attended a four months' course of instruction at Aldershot, England, and before returning to Canada was for two weeks at the British war office. He saw active service in South Africa during the Boer war, going out with the artillery and mounted rifles with the second contingent.

While there he gathered wide experience, being attached to three columns, and senior veterinary officer of each. On special service he was at Kimberley for a period, and went as an inspecting officer up as far as Mafeking.

It is with an appreciation of years of valuable service that the militia department and his friends see Col. Massie retire, and express the hope that he will continue to enjoy years of health and happiness.

Evan Schilogan Detained By Police In Connection With Robbery At Bulgarians' Boarding House On Ontario Street.

The case of the theft of $70 from one of the Bulgarians, boarding in the old Brunswick hotel, on Ontario street, has not yet been disposed of, although there has been three police court sittings over it.

Michael Schro is the man who was robbed of the money, and when the theft was first reported, Evan Schilogan was placed under arrest. He denied the charge, and implicated another Bulgarian, Peter Perperup. The latter was arraigned in the police court on Tuesday morning, and pleaded "not guilty" and after the hearing, Magistrate Farrell dismissed the charges against him, but ordered that Schilogan be held.

Schilogan cried like a baby when he was put in the cells and continued crying for some time.

"I wish I could tell you," said Samuel Cole to the Magistrate, when he was asked as to where he secured the liquor. Samuel, who has been before the court many times, is on the "prohibited list" and he was questioned by the magistrate.

"I guess I was drunk all right," said Cole, "but I simply can't tell you where I got the liquor."

"I remember meeting a man on the street. This man asked me if I would save a man's life. I said that I would try, but that I was not a doctor. I gave this man ten cents to get me some beer."

At this stage the magistrate did not stop to listen to the rest of Cole's tale, but ordered that he be put away. He will be given another chance to disclose where he secured his liquor.

Another adjournment for a week was made in the case of the local merchant, who is charged with having a sign in front of his place of business which does not comply with the by-law.

AN ACTION FOR DAMAGES

Entered By Family of the Late Melville McKane.

An action has been entered in the high court by the family of the late Melville McKane against the Kingston Shipbuilding company. The deceased young man received burns at the yards of the company some months ago which resulted in his death in the general hospital. He had been working in one of the shops when his clothes took fire. When the accident occurred, he ran and jumped off the wharf in the water, which action saved him from a quick death.

Censured His Congregation.

On Sunday morning Rev. S. J. M. Compton took occasion to speak in the spirit of censure to his congregation in St. Andrew's church. He found fault with the members of his flock for the small attendance at service on Christmas day. He stated there were but a handful present. They seemed to find time to thank their friends for gifts but apparently not to come to church to thank God for the greatest gift to the world.

In the matter of a home you work for a landlord or yourself.

As a realtor you work exclusively for a landlord.

As a home buyer you work chiefly for yourself.

In buying a home upon the easy payment plan, your equity in it steadily increases until you are its sole owner.

That's better than paying endless tribute—the rent-payer's task.
