WESTBROOKE FARMERS

HEARD ADDRESSES ON TOPICS OF INTEREST.

Ontario Department of Agricultural Representatives Were the Speakers — The Small Attendance Was Regretted.

Afternoon and evening sessions of the Farmers' Institute were held in the hall at Westbrooke, on Tuesday. The lecturers were A. P. MacVaneil, B.S.A., of Picton, district representative for Prince Edward county, and G. B. Curran, B.S.A., of Napawan, the Lennox and Addington district representative.

In the afternoon District Representative MacVaneil spoke instructively on the growing of alfalfa and corn. Regarding the former, he explained something of its history and its general character, belonging as it does to the Legume family. He made reference to its fertilizing and feeding value, and spoke of the nature of the soil required for successful crops. He preferred the Ontario varietal seed, and advised that alfalfa should be cut when one-tenth in bloom.

During his somewhat extensive remarks on the raising of corn crops, and the acquiring of the proper seed, he had shelled corn in sacks. The first-dried, although a little more expensive, he favored. Even at $3 a bushel he did not consider it dear, when that quantity would seed several acres. For the best results he declared corn intended for seeding should be put in open crates on the ear, rather than in sacks. This gives the farmer an opportunity of making a selection with the individual ear. The results by doing this, he said fully warrant the effort put into the test, whether the corn has been purchased or is the farmer's own growth.

Mr. MacVaneil explained the best method of testing alfalfa seed, after procuring it, he believes in one of the telling factors in the successful raising of corn. This kind of a crop must be given every chance, for it is to play a greater part than ever in the feeding of stock. With reference to the sowing and growth of corn, he cited some time as well as the fertilizing of the land, with the proper constituents.

Mr. Curran followed with a talk on soil fertility. On the point that land in time runs out and is not fit for profitable crops he explained the proper treatment of it, and the rotation of crops. He cited one case where soil used for 100 years had yielded fifty-five bushels of barley to the acre. Mr. Curran gave a summary of the chemical aspect of the subject, the food element for the plant and the necessity of air, as well as having a medium of water. He included the matter of natural or artificial draining.

In the matter of the rotation of crops the following table was given showing the value, per ton, of fertility taken out of the soil by various products:

Timothy hay	$5.10
Red clover hay	$9.07
Oat straw	$3.95
Potatoes	$1.85
Mangels	$1.19
Wheat straw	$1.22
Oats	$7.43
Cows' milk	$2.09
Cheese	$17.21
Butter	$6
Eggs	$8.05
Live cattle	$11.78

Every farmer he said should adopt some system of rotation of crops to build up his soil. One method quoted was growing red clover, and putting back the fertilizer, thus in a few years bringing back the good soil.

Both subjects of the evening's programme, "Poultry" and "Underdrainage," were illustrated by lantern views, which added greatly to the impression made.

Mr. Curran spoke very profitably on poultry, and things relating to the "side-line," in many instances. He advocated the cotton front poultry houses, with straw lofts, and touched upon the feeds for winter egg production. For the best results in this respect he advocated Rhode Island Reds, White Wyandottes and Barred Rocks, in the order named. Regarding the proper food, he suggested for the best returns, the feeding of hard grain in the morning, cabbage or roots at noon, and a little hard grain about four o'clock. There should be a dry mash before the birds at three times in hoppers, and also a supply of oyster shells, grit and charcoal. At the demonstration poultry houses at Napawan he told of 14 Rhode Island pullets laying 215 eggs in December. These birds had been fed in the manner described.

drainage were not generally known. He endeavored to prove that these drains pay for themselves in two years' time. The scarcity of labor it was admitted had something to do with the slowness in their installation in many localities. The speaker advocated the utilizing of the machine for laying these, even in this county.

These institutes will continue during the week, held as they are under the auspices of the local county branch of the Department of Agriculture. On Wednesday the lectures and addresses were at Duffrin, Thursday at Sydenham, and on Friday Sunbury will be the location of the institute.

Anthony Rankin, M.P.P., who presided at Westbrooke, appealed for more interest being taken in these on the part of the farmers, for whose benefit they are being held. He declared that the department is only too willing and anxious to, in this manner or through queries sent to it, assist in solving any problem farmers are facing, or give any information required.

On Tuesday afternoon the attendance at Westbrooke was small. One of the speakers suggested that perhaps it would be wise to do a little more newspaper advertising in "grit" and "tory" journals alike.

C. Main, of Sydenham, the local district representative, was present.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE

The Erie Marks Company in "Sweet Clover."

Another large audience witnessed the Erie Marks Stock company's presentation of "Sweet Clover" at the Grand Opera House last evening. "Sweet Clover" is a rural drama of interest.

The principal role was taken by Miss Lynn, whose interpretation of the character of "Lois Holcomb," a country girl without any idea of fashionable society life, was a pretty piece of acting. Webb Chamberlain, as "Eldridge Grosvenor," the jealous husband, cleverly took his part. The different members of the company ably assisted in the unravelling of the plot.

In the specialties, the two Browns won appreciation, while Gus Hogan and Frank Clayton were applauded for their efforts. Miss Lida Gardner's two pretty songs, "The Nice Old Maid" and "Sister Mary," carried the audience by storm. She has a good voice.

Tonight the company presents a comedy, entitled "The Two Jolly Tramps."

EXPRESSES THANKS

For the Generous Support Extended To Him.

Kingston, Jan. 6.—(To the Editor): Please permit me to make a few remarks regarding yesterday's contest for school trustee in Cataract ward. I wish to say that I was not the candidate of any particular class of citizens and I had no intentions of representing or asking for special favors for anyone. Considering the fact that I did not make up my mind to stand until Wednesday morning, I canvassed but very few electors. I am delighted with the results, as they proved the broad-mindedness of my Gentile friends. I know a large number of leading citizens from the other wards creating property or having business connection in Cataract ward who came down to vote for school trustee, and quite a number worked hard for me and the results in Nos. 7 and 8 show their influence. I do not know how to express thanks to them, but hope they understand me.

To the citizens of the north east end of the ward, I would say I hope to get acquainted with them, and am sure to acquire some friends. Yours truly, ISAAC COHEN.
