SINK HOLE TROUBLE INSURANCE MEN DINE

AT SUCKER LAKE CONTINUES ON THE C. P. R. LINE

A Forest of Timber and a Mountain of Stone Has Been Used in An Endeavor to Get a Solid Foundation.

The sink hole at Sucker Lake which is causing so much trouble and holding up the opening of the new lake shows the line of the Canadian Pacific, is a mystery to the engineers. It is only about two hundred feet across the shallow end of the small lake. A forest of timber and a mountain of stone and gravel have been used in the endeavor to fill the hole. On a number of occasions this hole has been filled in, but to the disappointment of the engineers, the cave in continues. The last time the gravel was up over the tracks and ready for the final trimming. The morning after the work had been completed the gravel had shifted about fifteen feet sideways, so that the pile could not be driven. These piles are like telephone poles, sharpened at the end. A point of steel put on each. At the top of each pile a steel cap is placed, so as to stand the hitting of the heavy hammer. Each pile is driven down as far as possible, the second or the third one is placed in the first. After close fitting of the piles in this way, a cribwork of timber is put on, and then the gravel.

The best engineers can only guess what will happen at these places. They keep on filling until they get results. Some people think there is either a slanting rock where the material is filling crowds of sideways, or an underground water course carrying it away. Others say there is a floor of marl or hard pan, which under the extra weight gives away.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"Ernie" Marks Company Continues to Please Large Audiences.

One of the largest audiences so far this season witnessed the presentation of the side-splitting comedy-drama, "Two Jolly Tramps," at the Grand Opera House, last evening. The leading roles were taken by "Ernie Marks," in the character of "Sandy Walker," and the other by H. Webb Chamberlain, in the character of "Stormy Jordan." The make-up and acting of the "Two Jolly Tramps" was very striking.

The specialties were novel in character. The singing of Lida Gardner, the two Browns, Gus Hogan and Frank Clayton were well received with vigorous applause.

To-night the bill will be an Irish comedy-drama, in four acts, entitled, "Where the Shamrock Grows," with Irish scenery, Irish songs and real Irish costumes.

Hall—Coulson Nuptials.
The marriage took place in this city on Tuesday, of Miss Anna Lorraine Hall, of Kingston, and Douglas Coulson, of Ottawa, formerly of Kingston. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Hall, Sixth street, by Rev. T. W. Savary officiating. The bride was dressed in white embroidered voile, and was attended by Miss Florence Woodrow. Thomas Hughes was the groomsmen. Mr. and Mrs. Coulson will reside in Ottawa.

M. T. French, of Pawtucket, R.I., came to Kingston on Thursday to spend a few days.

The Delicacy of Baby's Skin

Cold Air, Rough Winds, Strong Soaps Often Bring on Chronic Eczema.

More beautiful than the rose is baby's skin when in health, and so delicate that it is susceptible to anything which irritates. For this reason baby's skin troubles are many and frequently chronic itching eczema is developed.

Nothing can be better for baby's skin, when irritated, than Dr. Chase's Ointment, and when eczema is developed you can apply this preparation with the knowledge that its wonderful record as a healer of the skin is due to its success. It has proven in the cure of eczema.

The intense itching of eczema of the face and scalp is very hard for the little one to bear, and is a source of worry and anxiety to the mother. The itching parts are scratched, and nasty and colored scars are formed. Eczema naturally becomes chronic and spreads over the body. You can positively control eczema and cure it by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. What is better still is to use this ointment for all chafing and irritation of the skin and prevent eczema from setting started.

A. J. MEIKLEJOHN, OTTAWA, ONE OF THE SPEAKERS.

Urged a Course of Lectures on Life Insurance at Queen's—Mayor Elect Shaw One of the Guests.

Speaking before a number of the members of the local Life Underwriters' Association, after dinner in the British-American hotel, on Wednesday night, A. J. Meiklejohn, of Ottawa, urged that steps be taken regarding the matter of having a course of lectures on life insurance given at Queen's, brought before the university authorities. The high place that Queen's, of which Mr. Meiklejohn is a graduate, holds among universities of Canada and the continent, he referred to. He favored this project, and was willing, if it was the desire of the underwriters, to act on a committee appointed to bring the matter before the "powers that be." Mr. Meiklejohn is vice-president of the Dominion Underwriters' association. He intimated that in time the course of lectures could be included in the department of economics or mathematics. This had been successfully instituted in universities in the United States, and he spoke of one Canadian university where the matter is now receiving most favorable consideration. Mr. Meiklejohn felt that the various companies would be willing to send their best men to deliver the lectures. He spoke of the insurance business as essentially a business proposition, and he set a high premium on the value of young men students going out into all parts of the dominion familiar and sympathetic with the insurance business.

Thomas Mills, the president, who during his remarks stated that he believed the spirit predominating among the members of the association, was one "satisfied with the past, content with the present, and hopeful for the future," was chairman. Mayor-elect A. Shaw's acceptance of the life underwriters' invitation, marked his first function of a semi-public nature, since his election. D. J. Scott, of Toronto, provincial superintendent of the Manufacturers' Life was one of the guests. The local men present were S. Roughton, G. A. Bateman, F. W. Hewitson, J. K. Carroll, Raymond Walker, J. B. Cooke, H. Crumley, H. Sharpe, J. W. Corbett, G. H. Gillespie, L. E. Woodman and M. G. Johnston, Ald. D. Couper was also a guest.

With the exception of the death of the late E. J. Reed, of Queen's, the ranks of the local Life Underwriters Association have passed the year unbroken.

Mayor-elect Shaw spoke, confining himself to the subject of the insurance business, and for a "layman" proved himself to be pretty well posted on matters pertaining to it. He declared himself to be an advocate of young men taking out life insurance, investing in a proposition founded not on benevolence but strict business principles. Of those engaged to the insurance world Mr. Shaw spoke in high terms, and he set ideals before them.

Mr. Meiklejohn, in introduction, referred in a very complimentary manner to the mayor-elect. At some length he spoke of the objects and aims of the Life Underwriters Association—one of which he emphasized was to "assemble the men engaged in the business and consider matters of mutual interest, and to arrive at a business harmony between the different company representatives. For a man to knock one company he discounts his own in the eyes of the shrewd professional or business man he contended.

Mr. Meiklejohn held that as in every other line, a successful life insurance man must have a professional education, he must necessarily become an expert. He declared that the insurance man's calling was equal to any business or profession on earth. There are none, he volunteered, which, requiring such a small initial financial outlay, will bring better reward for persistency and energy.

The association had been responsible in guiding the public, the companies, and the agents and managers themselves. The association, the underlying principle of which is "fair play to everyone," prevents bad methods being employed. A higher type of men are being developed in the business to-day, for which the movement is largely responsible.

Mr. Meiklejohn spoke of which, the executive committee of the Dominion Association is accomplishing and of the relations between the Life Underwriters' Association and that of the life officers.

He concluded with a resume of methods by which the local association meeting can be made valuable.

Mr. Scott was also called upon. The striking feature of his remarks was his enthusiasm over the business to which he has devoted the past fifteen years of his life. He voiced his appreciation of Messrs. Meiklejohn and Shaw.

"Don't get weary in well doing," said he, and appealed that much may be put into the association movement.

G. A. Bateman was the mover of a vote of thanks to the speakers. G. A. Gillespie indulged in "passing jests" while real happy songs were rendered by Ald. Couper, Henry Crumley and S. Roughton.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER

MEETINGS WERE HELD IN THREE OF THE CHURCHES

On Wednesday Evening—The Gathering in Brock and Princess Street Methodist and Zion Churches.

Prof. J. L. Morrison, addressed a large audience in Brock street Methodist church, on Wednesday evening in connection with the week of prayer services. He dealt with the subject, "The Individual and the Nation," which at one time in various countries was dead and lacked fervor in any shape or form. For instance, he took England and Scotland. What was religion to those countries before such men as Knox, Calvin, and Wesley, who at different periods started revivals, and awakened the people to a sense of religion. Many had a very vague idea if there was any God at all.

Prof. Morrison stated that Canadians will have to be on watch and build our national religion, for we are getting citizens from almost every nation of the earth, who, if they are not taught in religious matters, we as Canadians will have much to answer for. A few years ago, the speaker said that we restricted the reading of scripture in the schools, but of late

Do Not Sell the Land. The council has been seeking to sell lots in the vicinity of Frontenac school. This is a bad policy, because the grounds are, at present, used by the school-board for recreation purposes, and if they are sold to other parties the upshot will be that the board will have to re-purchase them at a later date. The council should set aside the land for educational purposes; it would be money ahead in the transaction. The Board of Education will take up the matter at its next meeting.
