

MUST BE AGITATION TO SECURE RELIEF

The Liberals Are Keeping Up The Fight.

TO LOWER THE COST OF LIVING WHICH IS TOO HIGH IN CANADA.

Vote on Laurier's Amendment to be Taken on Tuesday—The Redistribution Bill the Only Contentious Measure in Sight.

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—The first week of parliament ended as it began last Monday, with the demands from the liberal side for the government action to relieve business depression and to reduce the cost of living. Throughout the week the opposition reiterated this demand, and just as steadily the government had indicated that there shall be no relief granted if that relief requires any interference with the tariff. It has become clear that if the people will keep up their hopes for better times and will keep down agitation, the government can be depended upon to keep up the tariff. More specific declarations from both sides are looked for this week.

The party whips have arranged for a vote on Sir Wilfrid Laurier's amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne and it will be taken on Tuesday.

With no naval bill or tariff legislation, the redistribution bill is really the only measure which can be regarded as potentially contentious. The degree to which it may be opposed will, of course, depend upon what the opposition think of it. The terms of the bill will be an eminently fair readjustment of federal representation in the light of the last census.

BISHOP OF KINGSTON

PREACHED ON AUTHORITY IN RELIGION ON SUNDAY NIGHT

We Are Living in Age When Authority of All Kinds is Questioned, More Especially in Matters of Religion.

Preaching in St. George's cathedral Sunday evening from the words "I am a man under authority" (Matt. VIII, 9.) the Bishop of Kingston said in part that this soldier arrived at the faith which won the marked admiration of our Lord, through his conception of authority which his experience in the Roman army gave him. "It seemed strange to the modern mind for we lived in an age when authority of all kinds was questioned, more especially in matters of religion. Yet there could be no doubt that the desire for some final authority was inherent in human nature. At the Reformation, when large masses of Christians rejected the idea of the authority of an infallible church, they only put in its place the new idea of an infallible Bible. Now that views upon this question are so difficultly reassessed it is not surprising that the question of authority is being asked again."

Some sought to evade the question by endeavouring to abolish all doctrine and dogma as of no importance provided the Christian life was lived. A very popular recent novel had set out the theory. But the fallacy underlying this idea, lay in the fact that such a life was only possible in an environment produced by centuries of clear and definite dogmatic and doctrinal teaching of Christianity. To those who had no knowledge of the gospel beforehand, as in the case of the heathen, the Gospel of the Christian life must be preached as based upon doctrine; it must be shown to have divine sanction, if it is to convince. In the same way, if a man believes the church to be a divine organization, directed by God's Holy Spirit, he owns its authority over his spiritual life. If it is purely human, he will only accept it in so far as it seems to help him. Even in Christian conduct we cannot really get away from authority.

The famous 25th chapter of St. Matthew which has done so much to influence Christian ideas of duty, to their fellow-men depends for its authority precisely upon the meaning which we attach to the words "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these My brethren." If we believe the speaker to have been the Son of God, then we recognize that we have here a divine rule of life. But if He were only a man, then much of the power of the appeal is lost. We cannot get away from the venture of faith, try how we may. In the last resort we are driven back to authority.

But if we accept this authority we find that in fact we have won freedom. The man who throws off the restraints of morality ends by becoming a bond-slave to his vices. The man who seeks popularity becomes a slave to public opinion. The real slave of human freedom is seen in the crucified Christ who was obedient unto death. The man under the authority of Christ has the highest freedom, in that he knows that nothing can compel him to be untrue to his faith. And it is by faith of this kind that the life-giving and healing powers of the Christ are realized.

Had No Desire to be Governor of the Canal Zone.

New York, Jan. 26.—If Col. G. W. Goethals should be offered the position of governor of the canal zone by President Wilson he will not accept. This is the interpretation Mayor John Purroy Mitchell placed on Col. Goethals' present attitude toward the police commissionership of this city, which has been tendered him.

"If language means anything," said the mayor, "Col. Goethals will become police commissioner of New York city, provided two conditions which he imposes are fulfilled. I expect these conditions to be realized."

GOLD BRAID EMPLOYEES LOAD AUTOS WITH COAL

London Coal Strike Forces Students, Chauffeurs, and Soldiers to Work in Coalyards.

London, Jan. 26.—The fact that 10,000 coal carriers are on strike in London was brought home to the citizens on Saturday by a severe cold wave. The men left work last Tuesday, demanding an increase of two cents a ton for loading coal, so as to bring their pay up to 20 cents a ton.

Private luxurious automobiles, taxicabs, landaus, carts and barrows and perambulators were drawn up in dozens at the various coal yards where their owners themselves loaded them with coal with which to replenish their cellars.

About 100 medical students dressed in white smocks, loaded and carted many tons of coal to the various hospitals while hotel employees in gold braided uniforms, chauffeurs, fatigue parties from several of the guards' regiments, tradesmen, and even women were among those working in the coal yards.

The strike is not expected to be a prolonged one, as some of the employers have already yielded.

NO POMP OR DISPLAY

THERE WERE FEW UNIFORMS TO BE SEEN

Many of the Empire's Greatest Notables Were Present—Only Twenty Carriages Were on Line—The Floral Tributes Filled Ten Automobiles—Full Anglican Ritual Service.

London, Jan. 26.—With a ceremony remarkable for its simplicity, the funeral services of the late Lord Strathcona were held to-day in Westminster Abbey, before the body was removed to Highgate for burial. There was a notable lack of pomp and display, but many of the empire's greatest notables attended. The cortege consisted of an open hearse and only twenty carriages. It was not a military funeral and there were few uniforms.

Among those present were representatives of King George and Queen Mary and Queen Mother Alexandra. Prince Albert of Connaught, Premier Asquith, Ambassador Page of the United States, and various representatives of the Canadian government were present.

The full Anglican ritual and choral music was used at the service in the Abbey, which was very impressive. The floral tributes filled ten automobiles and were taken from the Abbey to Highgate by another route.

THE WATERWAY PLAN

OCEAN STEAMERS TO TRAVEL FROM MONTREAL TO DULUTH

Washington Conference Resulted in Decision to Ask Canada's Co-operation in Project That May Cost Three Hundred Millions.

Washington, Jan. 26.—A project for the joint construction by the governments of the United States and Canada of a deep waterway for ocean going steamers from Montreal to Duluth, Minn., has been inaugurated through the international joint commission which has jurisdiction over the boundary waters of the two countries.

The discussion instituted through the international joint commission are the result of a recent conference in Washington in which Secretary Bryan, Chairman James A. Tawney, of the American section of the international commission, and Senator Charles E. Townsend, of Michigan, participated.

The project for an ocean waterway from the head of navigation on the Lake Superior to the Atlantic has been agitated for many years. It was considered seriously at the time when President Taft entered into reciprocity negotiations with Canada.

Several routes have been proposed for the waterway, the cost of which is estimated from $100,000,000 to $300,000,000, but the one most favored in the United States provides for the utilization of all the lakes and the St. Lawrence river.

This route it is contended, would not result in any material lowering of the waters of the great lakes while it is said a considerable change in the lake levels would result if any of the other proposed routes were decided upon.

Senator Townsend of Michigan is one of the most ardent advocates of the project. He said recently: "It does not require an economist nor an expert traffic man to show the economy which would result to the stupendous industry of the middle west of the United States and Canada if the burdens of shipment were removed and cargoes could be loaded at lake ports and unloaded at the ultimate destination."

Such a waterway would produce the result which has always followed, and will also follow, from the creation of water transportation, namely, it will cause a reduction of rail rates and an improvement of rail facilities from all points on even remotely competitive lines.

Senator Townsend recognizes three obstacles to the realization of this project. The railroads will oppose it, the international complications will have to be met, and the cost necessarily will be so great as to make its realization difficult.

The senator believes that if the question were properly handled the government of Canada undoubtedly could be persuaded to join in the scheme, the burden of cost to be shared on the basis of proportionate benefits accruing to each country.

Until the governments have actually agreed on the project, Senator Townsend believes it would be wise for the United States to plan every harbor improvement on the great lakes, with a view to the ultimate construction of a 35-foot channel from Duluth to Montreal.

WATERWAY PROPOSAL MAY SOON TAKE SHAPE

The High Cost of Living Commission To Visit Several Ontario Cities

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—That the proposal for an international waterway from Duluth to the Atlantic originated primarily with a number of influential Western Ontarians who called themselves the Great Waterways Union, is the opinion of C. A. Magrath, chairman of the Canadian section of the joint international commission. "The question has been under consideration for some time," said Mr. Magrath this morning.

"The fact that W. J. Bryan is believed the move would indicate that it may take very definite shape. Of course, the question is one which will have to be submitted to the government of Canada," concluded Mr. Magrath.

The commission which is enquiring into the high cost of living will visit several Ontario cities where inquiries will be held. At these points, particular inquiry will be made into packing, storage and marketing of fruit and dairy products.

NEW INTEREST ADDED BY RETURN OF FOSTER

Who Has Been Out Of Commons For a Year

THE MONDAY DEBATE

LARGELY IN HANDS OF FRENCH-CANADIANS

Both Sides to Hold Caucuses on Tuesday Morning—Liberals to Discuss the Moving of Other Amendments.

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—With the return of George E. Foster, minister of trade and commerce, who arrived in Ottawa this morning, new interest will be added to the debate in the House of Commons. Mr. Foster has been attending conferences of the imperial trade commission in London.

It is now over a year since Mr. Foster has been seen on the front benches of the commons. The last time he spoke in the house was when he delivered his eloquent speech on the naval bill just before the Christmas recess of 1912. Now, however, economic issues, including the tariff and high cost of living will be features of the debate during the present session. On such subjects the government has no more effective debater than Mr. Foster, and the government needs his assistance. So he has returned.

Interviewed this morning, he stated that the conference of the imperial trade commission, which he has just been attending, was devoted largely to the consideration of preliminary arrangements for the carrying out of its proposed investigation into ocean freight rates. Next July, the commission will hold a session in Canada when the matter will be gone into from the Canadian side.

To Caucus on Tuesday.

It is expected that the debate on the address in the commons to-day will be largely in the hands of French Canadian members. The liberal, the member for Montreal, last off, and will be followed by a French Canadian conservative. On Tuesday morning both parties will hold their first caucus of the session.

At the liberal caucus the advisability of moving other amendments after that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been voted on will be discussed. This vote will be taken Tuesday evening. Some of the western liberals are inclined to free wheat should be brought in by private members. As an amendment to the address, Laurier has been voted on with confidence motion in the government and western conservative members for that reason would have a fairly good excuse for not voting for the proposal.

LATE G. W. MAXWELL

AN ELDER OF CHALMERS PASSED TO HIS REST.

The Deceased Was With the Law Firm of Kirkpatrick and Rogers For the Past Thirty-eight Years.

"A loyal and dutiful elder and clerk of the session for the past twenty years, were the words of Rev. Dr. Macgregor after announcing to his congregation at the Sunday morning service the death of George Watson Maxwell. The Chalmers minister stated that he would make further reference to the departed next Sunday.

In the death of Mr. Maxwell, on Sunday morning, at three o'clock, at his late residence, 56 Rideau street, one of Kingston's most worthy citizens has departed. Though reserved by nature, deceased was of a kind and genial disposition and the soul of faithfulness at an work he took in hand. The most sincere expressions of sympathy are being tendered to his widow and daughter.

The deceased, who had been failing for some time, was finally carried away at the age of about seventy years, by an illness of pneumonia. He died as peacefully as he had lived.

Mr. Maxwell was born in Jersey, one of the Channel Islands, where his parents, of Dunfriesshire, Scotland, had lived for a period. He received his early education in France, and during his youth travelled quite extensively on the continent. Canada attracted him, to which he came, and lived in Kingston for over forty years. He married Miss F. E. Burke, of this city, thirty-eight years ago. Miss Daisy Maxwell, an adopted daughter, of the teaching staff of the public schools, also survives, with one sister in Bournemouth, England.

In his earlier years, the late Mr. Maxwell was engaged in the banking business, and for thirty-four years of his residence in Kingston was with the law firm of Kirkpatrick & Rogers. The deceased was an office-bearer of St. Andrew's Society. Fraternally, he was affiliated with Kingston lodge, No. 59, I.O.O.F., being a past grand. By his death, Chalmers congregation has lost one of the most reverent and faithful worshippers and one of its most active and loyal office-bearers it has ever had.

NOT WITHIN A MILE

Will the Suffragettes be Allowed Near the King.

London, Jan. 26.—On February 10th, shortly before the opening of the commons, five thousand women of England will march to Buckingham Palace to demand from King George their right to vote. This was the arrangements made at a stormy meeting of the women's social and political union this morning. Volunteers were also accepted for a systematic campaign to create a disturbance in theatres, restaurants and other public places during the commons' session. Scotland yard detectives who attended the meeting said the suffragettes would not be permitted to approach within a mile of King George with their petition.

BUSINESS IS GOOD IN AMERICA

Less Trade Depression Than in Any Other Country.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 26.—Assailing the new "prophets of evil who for political purposes preach natural pain," Secretary of Commerce Redfield told the Chamber of Commerce here that there is less trade depression in America than abroad.

The secretary admitted that the Balkan war and the currency and tariff legislation gave a proper cause for business hesitation. The tariff he said, has been very helpful, the currency debate is over, and the result is good; and, finally, the "destroyer" is not to "raise in the land."
