ALDERMEN WAX WARM

OVER AMENDMENTS TO STREET SIGN BY-LAW

Ald. Graham, Hoag, Hughes and Nickle Kept Things Humming—Some Personalities Were Indulged In.

The City Council on Monday evening occupied the best part of two hours in debating and deciding upon two small matters—the remitting of $18 income tax, and a change in the street sign by-law—and thereby justified its right to exist.

Entertainment was furnished for the spectators by Ald. Graham, Hoag, Hughes and Nickle, the former taking the leading comedian's role.

It was with regard to the sign by-law that Ald. Graham waxed warm, but his emphatic remarks failed to move any of the other council members to side with him.

Another Victoria ward representative fired the first shot at the amended by-law recommended by the Board of Works.

"I regret very much that I have such a cold," remarked Ald. Newman, as he rose to advocate allowing street signs to extend over the street line four feet instead of three feet six inches, as recommended.

"It's a good job, Harry," remarked one alderman, amid laughter. However, Ald. Newman continued to express his regret that he was not in good voice, as he declared that he had intended to expatiate upon the sign question which was of such importance to the merchants.

Some aldermen took counsel among themselves, and whispered that it would be necessary to have a dictionary if they were to follow the words of culture and obscurity that threatened to tumble from the lips of the junior representative of the university ward.

The recommendation of the Board of Works read as follows: That the word "awnings" be struck out of the general list and that a new clause be added to the effect that awnings made of canvas, duck or other awning materials be allowed to be erected and shall not be lower than seven feet from the sidewalk; that authority be given the city engineer and chief of the fire department to issue permits for the erection of signs, as named in the list in the by-law, and in the case of dispute between the applicant and city engineer or the chief of the fire department that the matter be decided by the city council, and that applicants shall furnish a personal bond of indemnity against loss or damage which might be sustained by reason of hanging or swinging signs, for the penal sum of $500, and that signs be allowed to extend over the street line three feet six inches.

Ald. Nickle wanted the matter of dispute left entirely with the city engineer and the fire chief and taken away from the council. If they were capable of issuing permits, they should be given full authority.

Ald. Linton said he and the other members would be glad to strike out the dispute reference to the city council. This aroused Ald. Graham who declared that he was afraid to transact the people's business, for which they were elected. "There might as well be only seven aldermen instead of twenty-one, if you are going to relegate the business to officials."

The dispute reference to council was struck out of the Board of Works report leaving the matter entirely to the city engineer and the fire chief. When the by-law came up for discussion, with Ald. McCann in the chair, Ald. Graham was again heard from.

"The council is getting to be a body that doesn't amount to a row of pins," he declared, when the elimination of the council from having a deciding voice was ordered. "But I don't wonder," he continued. "Only at the last council meeting we had members get up and talk against a certain thing and then vote for that very thing before they left the council chamber. Some aldermen here are afraid of shouldering responsibility, and are just like mummies."

Ald. Hoag took this reference to heart, intimating that it appeared that Ald. Graham aimed it at him. "I want to say," declared Ald. Hoag, "that no matter how much this council board has been pulled more than Ald. Graham. As for being mummies, no one is any more one than he is. None that I know are afraid of taking responsibility. I'm not afraid of what I do, and never have been and never will."

Ald. Nickle, after listening to the discussion on this question I am more than ever convinced that we should leave the matter to the engineer and the fire chief. It seems little apples for a city council to take up so much time wrangling about a three by six sign. If more was left to the officials and less to council members, would be better civic government."

"Hear, hear," declared Ald. Harrison. Ald. Graham admitted that he had alluded to Ald. Hoag when he referred to aldermen talking against a thing and then voting for it.

"Ald. Hoag," he said, "at the last meeting of council talked strongly against appointing four extra firemen. Before the meeting closed Ald. Hoag said, 'Oh, let it go,' and voted for the appointment. See!"

There were fireworks when Ald. Hughes arose and asked Ald. Graham to tell council what was meant by the word "ambiguous." Ald. Graham had quoted Ald. Hoag as saying that a certain matter was ambiguous. Ald. Hughes wanted to "hear" Ald. Graham's explanation, but the latter pitched into the Cataraqui ward representative and remarked that he knew what "ambiguous" meant all right, but he had no intention of getting up and explaining the word. He and Ald. Hughes had some by-play, each paying the other his compliments, and declaring how much the other did not know.

After all, the amended sign by-law passed as recommended by the Board of Works.

COMING TO KINGSTON

Martin Harvey in "The Only Way." Here's This Week.

The Only Way, which Martin Harvey will present on Saturday, February 7th, afternoon and evening at the Grand under the auspices of the British Canadian Theatre Organization, is a dramatization of Chas. Dickens' "The Tale of Two Cities." This is beyond question the most successful stage version of any of Dickens' works that have been produced. Indeed it is known that the great novelist himself had contemplated giving the story of Sidney Carton's sacrifice to the guillotine.

"The Only Way," is a play with a history which is in itself a romance of real life. The idea of enacting the drama of Carton's great renunciation had been a cherished ambition of Martin Harvey from the days when he was still doing inconspicuous work for Sir Henry Irving. The young actor got Freeman Wills to make a version of the book on the lines he had designed, and for years he worked as a labour of love on the play project. At last an opportunity for the production arrived. The time for preparation was the shortest, but the play was more than ready in the brain of the actor. Every detail had been foreseen and worked out in the mind of the actor. The only thing which had not been provided was the title. It was a flash of sheer inspiration on the part of Mrs. Martin Harvey which discovered the name of which the play has since become known throughout the English-speaking world. And "The Only Way" brought fame and success to the new manager in a single night. The play was more than a dozen years ago, and it is still breaking records. On Friday evening, February 6th, Mr. Harvey will present "The Breed of the Freshmans."

RAILROAD MAN HAD TO LAY OFF

UNIT HE TOOK GIN PILLS

Buffalo, N. Y. "I have been a Pullman conductor on the C. P. R. and Michigan Central for the last three years.

About four years ago, I was laid up with intense pain in the groin, a very sore back, and suffered most severely when I tried to urinate.

I treated with my family physician for two months for Gravel in the Bladder but did not receive any benefit.

About that time, I met another railroad man who had been similarly affected and who had been cured by GIN PILLS, after having been given up by a prominent physician who treated him for Diabetes. He is now running on the road and is perfectly cured. He strongly advised me to try GIN PILLS which did—with the results that the pains left me entirely."

TRYING EXPERIENCE

Had His Feet Frozen — In Bad Condition.

August Ritza, Renfrew, is hovering between life and death, as a result of a trying experience while out for a day's sport. He went to Norway Lake to fish. After some time his feet became wet and he started for a relative's and became lost. He tried to start a fire with two matches he had. One match broke and the head flew into the snow; the other was blown out with the wind. Then he tried to wrap his socks dry, and finally decided to save himself he must stay near some object and spend the night walking. He tramped a pathway around a stump and paced about it during the long vigil. In the morning he sighted a house in the distance, reached it, and had his frozen feet treated with snow and water. Now his feet are black and swollen almost to bursting, and as he is sixty-three years of age the strain is likely to be very trying, although he possesses a vigorous constitution. He says that had he given way to a strong desire to sit down a moment or two during the night's tramp around the stump he would never have risen alive.

THE UNION IS GROWING

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOURERS IN KINGSTON

Bethel Won the Cup For the Membership Efficiency Campaign — Dr. E. J. Lake Elected President.

The local union of Christian Endeavor continues to grow both in numbers and enthusiasm. This was shown by the reports presented by the different secretaries at the annual meeting of the union held in the First Baptist church on Monday evening.

Robert Treener, society organizer, presented a very encouraging report for the membership and efficiency campaign, which was brought to a close on February 1st. His report showed that during the three months which this campaign has been running forty-nine members had been added to the roll. Of this number, twenty-six were ladies as compared to twenty-three men; 1,760 points was the total number secured by the different societies. Of that number 460 were for increased membership, while 1,300 points were for the efficiency tests. One hundred and five members of the union took part in the efficiency tests; sixteen joined the tenth legion; thirty-six the quiet hour, and fifty-four the pocket testament league.

The Bethel Congregational Society was the winner of the cup for the society getting the largest number of points. The cup was the gift of Mr. Treener. The Bethel society secured 610 points and Sydenham Street Methodist was second, with 365 points. The members of the winning society are deserving of great credit for the showing. Before the meeting was adjourned Rev. Lefroy Rice presented the cup to the president of the Bethel society, Miss Florence Clyde, the president, responded in a few words.

At the meeting on Monday evening, Dr. E. J. Lake acted as chairman in the absence of Rev. R. E. Jones, the president, who has left the city.

S. Lilly, the secretary of the union, presented a very interesting report of the work done during the past year.

The report of the treasurer showed that about $10 remained in the treasury.

Robert Treener's report showed that 3992 were initiated as members of the union. A year ago 332 were on lists, 79 were added during the year and 19 were removed from the roll.

The Union Street Baptist society was again awarded the banner for the largest attendance at the three monthly consecration meetings and at rally last evening.

The officers elected for this ensuing year are as follows: Honorary presidents, Revs. C. A. Lowe and J. W. McIntosh, (Cooke's); president, Dr. E. J. Lake; 1st vice-president,
