

Come Early?
FOR FIRST CHOICE OF COM-ING SEASON'S NEWEST SUIT-INGS.
NOW ON HAND
BEST VALUE IN CITY.
Ashby the Tailor
76 Brock St. Phone 1513

DR. DeVAN'S FRENCH PILLS—A pain-relieving pill for women. $5 a box or three for $15. Sold at all drug stores, or mailed to any address on receipt of price. THE SCOTT'S BOTTLE
CO., ST. CATHARINES, ONTARIO.

PHOSPHORUS FOR MEN. Restored
Vitality for Nerve and Brain; increases "zesty activity" in blood—will build you up. $4 a box, or two for $5. At drug stores, or by mail on receipt of price. THE SCOTT'S BOTTLE CO., ST. CATHARINES, ONTARIO.

15c.
Best's Short Stop
Cures All Coughs Always and Costs But 15
Cents
Over 5,000 Bottles
sold in Kingston in 3 years.
BEST'S
The Satisfactory Drug Store.

KRYPTOK
Without Lines
in the Lens

It used to be true that bifocal glasses were troublesome, and
"old" looking, and trying to the eyes. It is NOT true of KRYPTOKS—the new bifocals that look and wear like plain glasses, but give perfect near-and-far vision.

Fitted by
NEELEY Jr. - Optometrist
We Grind the Lenses.
3 Hours Above the Opera House

JENKIN'S
BARGAIN
Prices
ALL THIS WEEK

- Boys' all wool hockey caps 19c
 - Boys' all wool 50c hock- by caps 35c
 - Boys' all wool 50c knit caps 35c
 - Boys' all wool 25c knit caps 15c
 - Boys' Sweaters, all col- ors 38c
 - Boys' Knit Coats, 50c, 65c and 85c
 - Boys' all wool stock- ings 25c
 - Boys' Fleece Under- wear 25c
 - Boys' Wool Scarfs. 25c
 - Boys' Silk Finish Scarfs 25c
 - Boys' Overcoats $2.45 to $6.45
- Boys' Goods at prices to meet the boys' needs, at

E. P. JENKINS' CLOTHING CO.

Told In Twilight

The Skating Club meeting was held on Monday evening and although the ice was not in a very good condition a large number of the members were present. Among them being professor and Mrs. P. O. Willhoft, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hill Macnee, Captain and Mrs. Perreau, Mrs. E. P. Torrance, Mrs. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hammond, Captain and Mrs. Maurice Plummer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ryan, Mrs. E. L. Fortt, Colonel and Mrs. Holloway, Mr. Ogilvie, Mr. and Mrs. Waddell, Miss Mollie Cartwright, Miss Mabel Gidderlove, Miss Mabel and Miss Marjorie Brownfield, Miss Loretta Swift, Miss Irene Swift, Miss Nan Paterson, Miss Phyllis and Miss Charlie Shortt, Miss Mildred Jones, Miss Helen Duff, Miss Sibbald Hamilton, Miss Margaret Fraser, Miss Marie and Miss Kathleen Carruthers, Miss Eva and Miss Mabel Richardson, Miss Eva and Miss Ruth Martin, Miss Florrie Stewart, Miss Lillian Mundell, Miss Kathleen Ryan, Miss Edith Goodwin, Miss Christine and Miss Sylvia Cochrane, Miss Marian Leslie, Miss Isabelle Waldron, Miss Phyllis Knight, Miss Madge Dawson, Miss Doris Kent, Miss Mamie Anglin, Miss Kalmus, Boston; Miss Harriet Steele, Brockville; Miss Mamie Garrett, Miss Mary Strange, Miss Rose Rogers, Miss Helen Campbell and Messrs. Dalton, Percy Lyman, Leonard Birkett, Harrison, Rex Calvin, Gordon, Smith, Winthrop Sears, Frank Ryan, Ross Livingston, Dick Elmer, Jack Hanford, Harrison, Ferguson, Guttman, M. B. Baker, Tiffany Macklem, Captain Hammond, Anderson, John Aird, W. Kent Macnee, Ellwood, McGill and Herbert Stacey.

There was rather a small meeting of badminton on Saturday afternoon. Few of those noticed were: Mrs. J. P. Gidderlove, Mrs. Walter Macnee, Mrs. R. E. Kent, Mrs. Dawson, Mrs. J. Strange, Mrs. J. C. Strange, Mrs. Leggett, (Montreal); Mrs. Douglas Young, Professor and Mrs. P. O. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Pense, Major and Mrs. G. Hunter Gilchrist, Captain and Mrs. Maurice Plummer, Mr. and Mrs. George O. Wagner, Miss Marie Carruthers, Miss Mabel Brownfield, Miss Phyllis Shortt, Miss Aileen Rogers, Miss Dorothy Carruthers, Miss Charlie Shortt, Miss Marjorie Brownfield, Miss Lillian Kirkpatrick, Miss Minnie Gordon, Miss Grace Hemming, Miss Madge Dawson, Major Hammond, Captain Melden, Messrs. E. V. Leslie, McTear, O. T. Maclean and Carruthers.

Mrs. Oliver Chown and Miss Olive Chown, University avenue, entertained at a delightful tea on Monday afternoon for their visitor, Miss Christie Wilson. The guest of honor or received with her hostesses in the drawing room, which was bright and pretty with many lovely daffodils. Red tulips were arranged in the library and the tea table in the dining room was most artistically centred with a basket of pink tulips, and softly lighted by pink unshaded candles in silver candlesticks. Mrs. T. F. Harrison cut the ices, and Miss Daisy Chown poured coffee, and the girls assisting them were Miss Ida Smith, Miss Grace McLellan, Miss Millie Henderson and Miss Myra Dyde.

The following ladies on Alice street have agreed to receive only on the first and third Friday of the month during each season: Mrs. A. P. Knight, Mrs. K. M. Saunders, Mrs. J. Matheson and Mrs. George King. Mrs. Matheson, however, as formerly announced, will not receive again this season.

As usual, Mrs. Browett, Bagot street, will be "At Home" on St. Valentine's day, Feb. 14th, to all old friends. No formal invitations issued in city.

Mrs. W. E. Macpherson, 390 Alfred street, will receive on Thursday of this week, and afterwards on the second Thursday in each month.

Mrs. Cyrus W. Lane, 85 Gore street, will receive on the first and third Fridays of the month for the rest of the season.

The Swastika Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. W. J. Litton, Frontenac street, on Tuesday evening.

Miss Lillian Lambert, Clergy street.

A CHILD'S LAXATIVE IS "SYRUP OF FIGS"

They Love to Take It and it Doesn't Harm the Tender Little Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or, if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless fruit laxative. Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs" which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled.

GRAND POULTRY SHOW

IS NOW IN PROGRESS AT THE ARMOURIES

Judges Have a Big Task—Lectures by a Government Representative—Local Merchants Have Exhibits of Poultry Necessaries

All Tuesday afternoon and evening the laborious task proceeded of judging the pigeons and poultry exhibited at the Central Ontario Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock association held in the armouries, Col. Barker, of Toronto, is judge of the pigeons, and all those who were present at the time took much interest in his accurate rendering of decisions. Col. Barker is one of the best judges of pigeons who can be found in Canada. He himself has a large collection of these birds in Toronto, and makes a careful study of them.

Speaking to a Whig reporter Col. Barker stated that the quality of birds which have been placed on exhibition at this poultry meet are some of the best which could possibly be secured. He also stated that competition ran close among the different varieties, especially in the "maggie" line. The competition was also quite keen with the African owls carriers and pouters.

W. H. Reid, of Kingston, is judge of the poultry and before he is finished with them he will have one of the largest undertakings he ever tackled, as there are no fewer than 1,100 entries in this line. With respect to the pigeons it might be said that there are some on exhibition which have been imported from Belfast, Ireland, New York, Guelph, Toronto, Ottawa, and several other places.

One of the features of this show is the introduction of beautiful ribbons, which have been furnished by some of the leading poultry stock breeders in Canada and the United States. At the top of these ribbons is a metal mould of the species of fowl, and they run in different colors, according to the class of fowl. In the case of the Wyandottes these medals have black, white, and the buff colored medals attached to ribbons.

Wednesday was a busy and even more interesting day than Tuesday and good sized crowd attended in the afternoon, when they were well pleased to hear and see Miss Mary Yates, of Port Credit, who is the government expert, deliver an interesting lecture upon "Killing, Plucking and Shaping Poultry for Market." Miss Yates went into full details and clearly explained all the points in connection with this interesting subject. Taking a hen, she killed it and then proceeded with her course of instruction. On Wednesday evening she is going to deliver a lecture on "Poultry for Townspeople on a Small City Lot." This also promises to be equally as interesting.

In addition to the display of poultry and pigeons, Col. Barker and W. A. Mitchell have stands and upon them are exhibited all the requisites which are needed along this line. Mr. Corbett has a display of powders, etc., while Mr. Mitchell has a full line of incubators and the different qualities of mesh needed to feed the chicks from the time they are hatched until they are full grown fowls. There is one of the incubators in use and in it came out of the shell. There are also other interesting features to be seen.

Mrs. George Wagner, Barrie street, is entertaining at supper this evening in honor of her guest, Miss Virginia Smith, of Rochester, N. Y.

A driving party is being arranged for Saturday afternoon, to go to Wolfe Island.

Mrs. Brown, Bagot street, receives every Wednesday in February.

Mrs. Charles Abbott and her baby are expected from Stratford this week to visit Miss Macaulay, King street.

Mrs. James Kirk, and Mrs. Rankin, of Brooklyn, are the guests of Mrs. Charles Livingston, Barrie street.

Miss Christie Wilson, Burlington, who has been the guest of Mrs. T. F. Harrison, is now visiting Mrs. Oliver Chown, University avenue.

Mrs. Grant, of Perth, is the guest of Mrs. D. M. Frazer, Union street, west.

Miss Jean Caldwell, the guest of Mrs. J. G. Elliott, Barrie street, returned on Saturday to her home in Belleville.

Mrs. J. C. Smith, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. John T. Gurd, in Westmount, came home on Monday.

Miss Helen Kirkpatrick who has just returned from a trip to the Pacific coast, arrived to-day to spend a few days with Miss Macaulay, King street, before leaving for Enk-

Miss Lucy Scott who has been the guest of Miss Flora Abernethy, Albert street, for the last ten days, has returned to her home in Nanapan.

Miss Maizie Dwyer, Barrie street, has gone to New York to spend a couple of months.

An enjoyable bridge of two tables was given by Mrs. John Waddell, Earl street, yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. C. W. Drury, of Montreal, who is Mrs. Panot's guest, was the donor of the tea.

The prizes were won by Mrs. T. D. R. Hemming and Mrs. F. Strange. At the tea hour a few more of Mrs. Drury's friends came in and the polished tea table was made exceedingly merry with pink tulips, narcissus and fern on a handsome ebony lace centre-piece.

Miss Virginia Smith, of Rochester is the guest of Mrs. George O. Wagner, Barrie street.

Miss Isabelle Waldron and Miss Helen Campbell will go to Gananoque on Friday for the "Spinster's Ball," and will be the guests of Miss Flora Reid.

Mr. Arthur Ryerson has returned to Toronto after spending a few days in town.

Miss Ruth Pratt of Perth Amboy, N. Y., is the guest of Mrs. C. F. Warwick, Aberdeen street.

Mrs. S. P. Dayborn has returned home from St. Catharines.

Mr. G. Huntley Gordon of Dundas, spent the week-end with the Principal and Miss Minnie Gordon.

Rev. Dean Starr is spending some time in New York.

Miss A. E. Marry and Miss Muir have returned to Ottawa after spending a day or two with Mrs. John Macgillivray, Albert street.

Dr. Margaret Macpherson has returned to Toronto after spending a few days with Mrs. J. H. T. Coleman, Roselawn.

Miss Mildred Macmorine will come to town on Thursday from Toronto or ten days and will be the guest of Mrs. Alexander Macphail, Clergy street.

Miss Edith Framed, West street, left to-day for Lowell, Mass., to visit her sister, Miss Elizabeth Fraser for a couple of weeks.

Miss Mattie Robertson who has been spending a few days with Miss Etta Henderson returned to Peterborough on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wilmot of Ottawa, arrived to-day for a short visit with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Macdonald, Johnson street.

Miss Gertrude Macpherson is the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. E. Macpherson.

Mrs. C. W. Drury, of Montreal, who has been Mrs. Henri Paide's guest, Earl street, will go to visit Mrs. R. E. Kent, King street, on Friday.

Mrs. Richard Newlands, of Chicago, is visiting with Mrs. Elizabeth Newlands, York street.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Howard of Sherbrooke, P. O., who were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lambert, Clergy street, for a couple of days last week, left for Toronto on Sunday, and on their return next Thursday, Mrs. Howard will spend a few days with Mrs. Lambert.

Miss Macaulay, King street, will receive in future on the first and second Fridays in the month.

The youngsters are planning a surprise party for Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burley, of Bath, announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence, to Mr. Carl Buck, the marriage to take place this month.

Attended Library Contest

Dulcemaine, Feb. 2.—Farmers are busy hauling wood. R. Franning has moved to Lansdowne and J. Ferguson has taken possession of W. Sitter's place. Allan Earle lost a valuable horse last week. Miss Letia Landon spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents at Melcombe. Miss L. Patience spent the past week at Leawood. Mr. and Mrs. J. Lappa, San Bay, and Leo Dundon, Brewer's Mills, were guests at Mrs. William Patience's on Sunday last. Miss L. Sitter continues about the same. Some of the young people from this vicinity attended the Friday concert at Mallorytown on Friday last.

"English Health Salt," at Gibson's.

Storage rates by the Hamburg-American line have been cut to $25 per ton for all classes of vessels, a reduction of more than $4 a ton.

Be sure and see the 1,500 poultry and pigeons exhibits at armouries. Once tried always used, White Rose flour.

QUEEN'S UNYIELDING STAND

Against the Types of Dancing Some Desire.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt and other recent rink-tums." She is fond of violets, fastidious to her furs, likes roses, carnations, orchids and lilies just as any other woman does. She and King George have been laying aside social "cares to observe" the thirtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's death.

Queen Mary's unyielding stand against the trotting, hugging, dipping types of dancing in vogue in England, American and continental society is well understood in London.

Wherever she and the king have appeared these new varieties of the dancing fever have had to be left entirely out of the programme. In this, the British monarchs are aligned with the German emperor, who forbade the army and navy from dancing the tango and similar dances while in uniforms or from making calls where such dancing was in progress. The present queen had somewhat a precedent for this attitude in views expressed by another Queen Mary, Mary II, back in the sixteenth century, who, while a good dancer in those old days, gave up her favorite diversion because she found herself too fond of it. But the sixteen hundred folks hadn't developed the tango, the bunnyhug and the dip. Queen Mary is one of the most sensibly conservative of the European royalties. She is against the "dashed skirt