Stomach Troubles FACED GIGANTIC TASK Due to Acidity

80 SAYS EMINENT SPECIALISE

So-called stomach troubles, such a indigestion, wind, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evi dence that fermentation is taking place in the food contents of the stemach, causing the formation of gas and acids. Wind distends the stomach, and causes that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the fermenting food. Such fermenta tion is unnatural and acid formation is not only unnatural, but may invol most serious consequences if not co rected. To stop or prevent fermentaach and to neutralize the acid, render it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, pr ably the best and most effective corrector of seld stomach known should be taken in a quarter of a glass of he or cold water immediately after eaing, or whenever wind or acidity is fel This stops the fermentation, and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments Fermentation, wind and acidity are dangenerous and unnecessary. Stop or pr vent them by the use of a proper an such as bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from any drug-gist and thus enable the stomach to do its work properly without being hin-dered by poisonous gas and dangerous acids.—M. # DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally that Nobody Can Tell.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulpirur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally try. and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this | magnitude! ### A Message To Thin, Weak, Scrawny Folks

An Easy Way to Gain 10 to 30 Lbs. of Solid, Healthy, Permanent Flesh Thin, nervous undeveloped men and women everywhere are heard to say, "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of good, nourishing food." The reason is just this: You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fatmaking elements 'of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste.

What is needed is a means gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood where they may reach the starved, shrunken, run-down tissues and build them up The thin person's body is like a dry sponge eager and hungry for the fatty materials of which it is being deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them from the food. The best way to overcome this sinful waste of flesh building elements and to stop the leakage of fats is to use Sargol, the recently discovered regenerative force that is recommended so highly by physicians here and abroad. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and notice how quickly your cheeks fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh are deposited over your body, covering each bony angle and projecting point. Your druggist has Sargol, or can get it from his wholesaler, and work, and when you meet the general who commands this huge parade of the English language, it is only natural to think first of Dr. Johnson who called the earliest roll-call of the words of our tongue-to compare the two men and their works. Dr. Johnson began his dictionary at the age labor would take. Dr. Johnson "had thing may happen. no doubt" that he could finish his task in three years, and when Dr Adams objected that the French Academy of forty persons took forty years to complete their dictionary, the doctor growled out: "Sir, thus it is. This is the proportion. Let me see; forty times forty, is 1,600. As three to 1,600, so is the proportion of an Englishman to a Frenchman.

To marshall more than 300,000 ancestry, often along the faintest paths of the past and beyond the regions of history, to show how change has left its mark upon them, to set forth their partnerships, to unmask them in their disguises, to discover what various meanings men in all times and places have ascribed them-in a word, to produce the "New English Dictionary," that the stupendous literary labor which with the publication of a further section of Sir James Murray's life's work, reaches the end of another of its concluding stages.

Dr. Johnson, during the seven years, poured out many other works; he received but little help; he was troubled with bad health. He made many mistakes; he put into his work expressions of his own likes, and hates, epigrammatic and mordant flashes from his own mind, such as: Patriotism .- Love of country; the Sir James Murray is the ideal dictionary maker; wide as the poles asunder is he from that curious mixture of characteristic which went to make Dr. Johnson. Like Dr. Johnson he has erred in one thing. He thought that his dictionary would be completed in twelve years, but he told me a little while ago, "I hope we shall finish it in four years' time -in 1917. In that year I shall be eighty, and shall celebrate my golden wedding. So we must have a triple feast. It was at a time when this veteran was working fifteen hours a day-"harder than I have ever worked in my life before!" - that I disturbed him in his little clearing-house of the English language. It is now nearly thirty years since the dictionary's "home"-the Scriptorium, it is called -a house of wood and corrugated iron, was erected at the rear of Sir James' suburban residence at Oxford

And thirty-four years of unremitting labor in this unique workshop as not dimmed the enthusiasm of he great dictionary maker. Sir James Murray was born 1837, in the little Border village of Denholm, five miles from Hawick the birthplace also of John Leyden, friend of Sir Walter Scott, an Orlentalist of great genius and a poet of more than ordinary rank. It was in the busy little manufacturing town of Hawick that the young man spent several years in scholastic work, and many of the oldest inhabitant remember him as their master. When he left Hawick in 1864, was to fill the position of foreign correspondent in the Oriental Bank, London. Six years later he became a master at Mill Hill School. Two years before this date the Dictionary was first projected as the result of the appeal of Dean Trench, author of number of learned papers on the Enghish language. Under the first editor Mr. Herbert Coleridge, a great nephew of the poet, and his successor, Dr. Furnivail, a vast amount of material was gathered together.
