Life of Napoleon I

By J. HOLLAND ROSE, Litt. D.

"Mr. Rose's 'Life of Napoleon' in short, is statesmanlike in conception, impartial in treatment, accurate in detail, and attractive in style. The best thing that has been written on Napoleon since Lanfrey left his tale half-told. The book is likely to become the authority for English readers on the greatest name in modern history."—Athenaeum.

THE WHIG FOUND IT

How a Valuable Cameo Brooch Was Located This Week

The Whig was the means of locating a very valuable cameo brooch this week. Last Sunday the article was lost. An advertisement was inserted in the Whig for several days. Hope of finding the brooch had almost been abandoned until Friday, when the finder made enquiries as to the address of the owner. It seems that the brooch was found by a little girl, who took it home to her mother. The family did not take a newspaper, but on Thursday received a parcel wrapped in an edition of the Whig. The mother read the paper, even to the advertisements, and came across the little item with regard to the lost brooch. Early next morning she made enquiries at the Whig office, and that is how the finder and the loser came together.

Death of A. A. Hagerman

The sudden death of A. A. Hagerman, of Odessa, has cast a gloom over the village and surrounding country. He contracted a cold, which developed into pneumonia. Everything that loving hands could do was done to stay the disease, but death came suddenly at 12:30 on Wednesday night, February 4th. The late Mr. Hagerman was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hagerman, Fellows. A wife and one child are left to mourn the loss of a kind husband and loving father. Also six brothers and two sisters, John, Lewis, William, Angus and Walter, of Fellows; Fred, of Bath; and Mrs. John Kenny and Mrs. Herb. Clark, of Odessa. The funeral was held at the Methodist church, Odessa, and was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Tucker, on Saturday, the 7th inst., where a large concourse of relatives and friends gathered to pay their last respects to the deceased. The late Mr. Hagerman was 36 years of age, and a member of the A. O. U. W. and Orange lodges.

LAID FIRST CEMENT WALKS
 Mr. Foley, of Ottawa, has put in Tender For Street Paving.
 Mr. Foley, of the firm of Foley & Gleason, contractors, Ottawa, has been spending a few days in the city. He is putting in a tender for the street paving to be done in Kingston.
 To Mr. Foley goes the honor of having laid the first cement walks in Kingston, over twenty years ago, when he was employed by the Canadian Granite company. At this time the walks laid here were guaranteed for twenty years, and as they are all in good shape it speaks well for the workmanship of Mr. Foley, who has many friends in this city, and who married a Kingston girl, Miss Annie Linegar. Tenders for the paving in Kingston closed on Saturday.

Strain.
 Defective eyes can, and do give clear vision, by straining. Glasses are needed, not to increase the distinctness of vision but to remove the strain which often causes headaches and other nervous troubles. To know how your eyes really are we would advise you to consult our optometrist, H. C. Brown, Oph.D., Rodger Optical Parlors, 347 King street.
