Tips To Farmers
BY UNCLE JOSH

American Horse Market
This is the season, says the Breeder's Gazette, when demand for horses in Chicago is practically limited to farm trade, and that outlet is not as wide as a year ago at prices averaging about $25 per head lower. Geldings are selling on the account largely at $140 to $185 per head, with the majority under $170. The best farm mares are on a $160 to $200 basis with an occasional selected animal up to $225, but nothing weighing 1,400 pounds or over is available at that price. Most mares are selling at $100 per head above geldings, on a farm account. Maine is taking a better class of horses than formerly, paying $295 for an 1,800-pound gelding, and $283 for another, otherwise $265 has been the limit. A Wisconsin mineowner paid $350 for a Belgian mare, weighing about 1,800 pounds, but such stock is in the specialty class. City trade is in the worst shape in years. Chicago is buying few horses, and New York is rarely heard from, a condition attributable to dearth of construction work. Lack of snow in the northern woods keeps lumbermen out of the trade. Horses that are acting best under present conditions are qualified chunks weighing 1,450 to 1,550 pounds, retailing at $220 to $250 per head. The January output of farm horses was about 600 head less than a year ago.

Lime and Clover
"Lime, and lime without manure. Make both farm and farmer poor. But lime, manure and vigorous clover. Make the old farm rich all over."
The building-up use of lime is beneficial, says Hoard's Dairyman. There is a building-up use of lime because of the fact that very often more clover can be grown after the soil has been limed than was possible before this was done. The increased growth of clover made possible by the lime is the real soil builder. The best growth of clover is closely associated with the presence on the roots of little swellings, commonly called nodules or tubercles. These bacteria live on the roots of clover and take nitrogen from the air and furnish it to the clover. The clover is helpful to the bacteria, as it furnishes a home and partial sustenance for them; the bacteria are of aid to the clover as they in their turn supply food for this crop.
The presence of the bacteria is necessary for a normal growth of the legume. But in order to have the bacteria flourish to best advantage it is necessary to have the soil in proper condition. A soil deficient of lime is "sour" or "acid." In the presence of acid it is impossible for the bacteria to properly do their work of taking nitrogen from the air.

"Beecher's Farm Creed"
We believe that soil likes to eat as well as to grow, and ought, therefore, to be liberally fed.
We believe in large crops which leave the land better than they found it—making the farmer and the farm both glad at once.
We believe in going to the bottom of things and, therefore, in deep plowing and enough of it. All the best work is done with a subsoil plow.
We believe that every farm should own a good farmer.
We believe that the best fertilizer for any soil is a spirit of industry, enterprise, and intelligence. Without this, lime and gypsum, bones and green manure, marl and guano, will be of little use.
We believe in good fences, good barns, good farm houses, good stock, good orchards and children enough to gather the fruit.
We believe in a clean kitchen, a neat wife in it, a spinning wheel, a clean cupboard, a clean dairy, and a clean conscience.

Modern Farm a Factory
"The modern farm must be looked upon as a chemical factory where, by the most varied and perfect processes known to science, raw materials—useless in their existing form for human food—are turned into the most important of all products, that is, human food. In all other chemical factories whose produce is of far less importance to the human race than are the food products of the farm, it would be looked upon as almost criminal folly to put such a factory in charge of an uneducated man who knew nothing of the scientific nature of the processes the raw material went through and worked only by antiquated rough and ready rule of thumb. The farmer who nowadays is in the position of manager to a chemical factory, must be a highly trained scientist, whose training is supplemented by sound practical experience."—G. W. E. Russell.

Fattening Poultry
The best results in fattening poultry, is reported in a recent United States bulletin, were secured with the following three rations: No. 1, three parts of cornmeal, two parts of low-grade wheat flour, and one part of shorts; No. 2, three parts of cornmeal and two parts of low-grade wheat flour, and No. 3, five parts of corn meal, three parts of low-grade wheat flour, one part of shorts, and five per cent. of tallow. The same feeding value is secured in a ration of three parts of cornmeal and two parts of oat flour, but an increased cost of 37 cents per 100 pounds of gain. Four parts of cornmeal, two of low-grade wheat flour, and one of shorts gave very good results during the latter part of the feeding season, or in cold weather; that is, the proportion of cornmeal and low-grade wheat flour may be increased in cold weather.

TAKES OFF DANDRUFF
HAIR STOPS FALLING
Girls! Try This! Makes Hair Thick Glossy, Fluffy, Beautiful—No More Itching Scalp.
Within ten minutes after an application of Dandrin you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first, but really new hair growing all over the scalp.
A little Dandrin immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. It does not dry, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Dandrin and carefully draw it through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.
Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Dandrin from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty as soft as angels. "Dandruff" that is needed in the home to purchase food and clothing. ORRINE has saved thousands of drinking men. It is a home treatment and can be given secretly. Your money will be refunded if, after a trial, it has failed to benefit. Costs only $1.00 per bottle and get a free booklet and let us tell you of the good ORRINE is doing. G. W. An Appeal To Wives
You know the terrible affliction that comes to many homes from the result of a drinking husband or son. You know of the money wasted on the crystal balls which they carried with them in large quantities for trading purposes roused the cupidity of the wild Irishmen of those days. The bartering leads up to a dispute, and eventually the monarch is carried off to Carthage, and this famous city being the scene of the next act gives fine opportunities to the play.
The libretto was sent to Mr. Drysdale to compose the music, because the duke was attracted by the reputation he had gained as a musician and also because he was a descendant of the famous Sir Thomas Learmont, the Border poet, and was steeped in the ancient lore of those days on which the story of the opera was based.
The history of this opera itself, however, is a subject full enough of tragedy to form the basis of a story in itself, for Mr. Drysdale died on the completion of the music, and as is well known, Mr. Hammerstein's connection with opera in London was dramatically severed.
The Duke of Argyll seen nothing of his opera since, a fact that he takes with complacence, as it is in the safe hands of Miss Drysdale in Edinburgh, the sister of the composer, who now owns his effects, including the opera produced, and it appears Miss Drysdale is equally anxious and willing to negotiate with anyone in a position to produce the opera properly, and has unbounded faith in the excellence of her late brother's work.
It will be a pity if so much good work should go for nothing, especially as there is a constant cry of the paucity of English opera and of the want of national talent in this branch of art. Those who have heard the music are much impressed by its tunefulness as well as by its power and passion, and it may be taken that in this section of Britain's history the Duke of Argyll, known to all true Gaels as the MacCallan Mhor, is an authority who can be depended on to create the correct historical atmosphere.

DRINK MORE WATER
IF KIDNEYS BOTHER
EAT LESS MEAT AND TAKE SALTS FOR BACKACHE OR HEAD-ACHE TROUBLE
Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.
Eat less meat, drink lots of water, also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.
Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble. Agent, Geo. W. Mahood.

THE SMART SILHOUETTE ON THE PROMENADE.
This tailleur of green ducray, despite its simplicity of line is inconspicuously correct and chic. The coat has the fashionable cutaway front soot revers and enormous armholes that make the waistline look higher than it is. The skirt, gathered at the top, is draped inward at the foot and is no more than forty-five inches around over the buttoned tops of gray kid.

A DUKE'S OPERA.
His Grace of Argyll Has Had Bad Luck With His Show.
Several months ago, the Duke of Argyll, who is a former Governor-General of Canada, completed the libretto of a new opera founded on the life of an ancient Celtic king of Ireland, whose period was contemporary with the Carthage of Queen Dido. The music was to be composed by Learmont, Drysdale, of Edinburgh, and the opera produced by Oscar Hammerstein at the London Opera House.
Yieldings follow most people who wander in the fields of art or worship at the shrines of the Muse, and even a great nobleman who has not only won nearly all the orders and decorations of Christendom, but also a wife from the British royal house, is not exempt from the trial and disappointments that vex the artistic temperament.
The Duke of Argyll's opera—its title is "Fionn and Tara"—has not yet been produced, and, as he told a press representative at Kensington Palace the circumstances of the delay, it was clear that he felt none of the vexation of spirit which would depress and sadden less exalted workers in the world of art.
The duke long ago completed his share in the opera, which tells of an event in the life of a Celtic monarch and a Princess Grania, who flourished in Ireland about the time when the Phoenicians traded to those shores. Those early traders had discovered the secret of glass manufacture, and the crystal balls which they carried with them in large quantities for trading purposes roused the cupidity of the wild Irishmen of those days. The bartering leads up to a dispute, and eventually the monarch is carried off to Carthage, and this famous city being the scene of the next act gives fine opportunities to the play.
The libretto was sent to Mr. Drysdale to compose the music, because the duke was attracted by the reputation he had gained as a musician and also because he was a descendant of the famous Sir Thomas Learmont, the Border poet, and was steeped in the ancient lore of those days on which the story of the opera was based.
The history of this opera itself, however, is a subject full enough of tragedy to form the basis of a story in itself, for Mr. Drysdale died on the completion of the music, and as is well known, Mr. Hammerstein's connection with opera in London was dramatically severed.
The Duke of Argyll seen nothing of his opera since, a fact that he takes with complacence, as it is in the safe hands of Miss Drysdale in Edinburgh, the sister of the composer, who now owns his effects, including the opera produced, and it appears Miss Drysdale is equally anxious and willing to negotiate with anyone in a position to produce the opera properly, and has unbounded faith in the excellence of her late brother's work.

Church of Saints of Jewels.
The Roman Catholic residents of Ashby-de-la-Zouch will shortly enjoy the distinction of possessing a church built from the proceeds of the sale of the jewels of the first wife of the Duke of Norfolk. The foundation stone has just been laid by the Roman Catholic Bishop of Nottingham.
Some things are better left unsaid. Every breach of promise suit demonstrates that.

DOINGS IN STAGELAND
NOTES ON PLAYS, PLAYERS AND PLAYHOUSES

Margaret Anglin Advocates a Canadian Travelling Company—May Irwin Considering Dramatization of One of Dickens' Women Characters.
Margaret Anglin is advocating a traveling company exclusive for Canadian towns.
From the box office view point David Warfield's recent engagement in Chicago was one of the most successful ever played in that city.
There is to be a revival of "The Girl From Kay's," with Sam Bernard again appearing in the leading role. "Billy Black" is the title of a play in which H. B. Warner is soon to appear. Charles Bradley is the author of the piece.
Blanche Walsh is appearing in vaudeville in a one-act drama of Russian diplomatic life, "The Countess Madine," by Joseph A. Golden.
James K. Hackett has presented to the Players' Club in New York the trowel with which his father the late James H. Hackett, laid the cornerstone of the old Booth theatre.
Henry Miller has started rehearsals for "Daddy Long-Legs," which is to have its first presentation this month. The comedy is said to be as quaint as its title.
Henry Savage purposes to try "Along Came Ruth," a pretty sentimental play from the French stage, in New England within the next few weeks.
A new one-act play by Charles Bradley, entitled "Mimi," has been accepted for early production in London. Miss Annie Hughes, an English actress, will play the name part.
May Irwin is said to be considering a dramatization of one of Charles Dickens' stories, in which one of the humorous women will be adapted for the stage.
It is said a musical version of one of America's most widely read stories, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," has been completed by Arthur F. Pror, a well-known Chicago bandmaster.
Harrison Gray Fiske has signed contracts for the new play in which Mrs. Fiske will be seen next autumn. It is an eighteenth century costume comedy, by John Luther Long and Frank Staunton.
William A. Brady has entered the moving picture field as a film producer. Among his plays which will be seen in the "movies" are "Way Down East," "Bought and Paid For," "Tribly," "The Man of the Hour," "Little Women" and "The Pit."

Le Matin, one of the most influential newspapers in Paris, is advocating the establishment of a state moving picture theatre.
Miss Maude Adams is supported by a company of fifty players in the new four-act comedy, "The Legend of Lenora," by J. M. Barrie.
Hartley Manners, author of "Peg o' My Heart," has written a play called "Devil Montague," which will be produced by Frank Kemble Cooper.
Announcement is made that Charlotte Walker will be seen next season in a dramatization of Jack London's novel, "The Valley of the Moon."

ERUPTION ON HEAD
HAD TO CUT HAIR
Formed Pimples and Matter Spread. For Three Months Did Not Go to School. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Ten Days.
60 Rue Doreville, Ville Etienne, Montreal, Que.—"Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured my little girl, aged eleven, of itchy head. It formed a pimple and the matter simply broke and the matter spread and wherever the matter went another formed. She had large scabs on her head and at night she scratched until the blood came. I was obliged to cut her hair all around the eruption. For three months she did not go to school and I cared for her during this time without result.
"I was told to wash it and to make an ointment of —, but after washing it she was worse. One evening when reading the paper I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I wrote at once. After receiving the sample I immediately washed her head with the Cuticura Soap, then I put the Cuticura Ointment on. I did this twice a day, evening and morning. From the time I commenced using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment that night she did not scratch any more. It stopped the itching from the first evening. After buying some Cuticura Soap and another box of Cuticura Ointment, in ten days she was completely cured." (Signed) Mrs. Arthur Poirier, July 5, 1913.
Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. A single set is often sufficient. For a liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send postal to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A.

This Oven Test!
So that you may use less flour, we do what a home cook would do if she were in our place.
From every shipment of wheat delivered at our mills we take a ten pound sample. We grind this into flour. Bread is baked from the flour. We find that some samples make more bread and better bread than others. So we keep the shipment from which the more and better bread comes. The others we sell.
You save money by using flour that bears this name. And you get better bread.
"More Bread and Better Bread" and "Better Pastry Too"

The above picture of Miss Ruth, Director, of New York, is taken from life and is on the label and carton of every genuine bottle of Sagine hair tonic. It is a guarantee of quality and excellence and we urge our patrons to be sure to look for this label. Sagine is guaranteed to stop the hair from falling out, to cure dandruff in two weeks and to cure hair and beauty into coarse unattractive hair. Sagine brings out the natural beauties of the hair and makes it rich in color. Sagine is not a dye. It is not sticky or greasy and is daintily perfumed. Mr. W. W. Gibson is agent in Kingston, Ont., for Sagine. A large bottle at a moderate price awaits you there. Other stores don't have it.
