BISHOP OF KINGSTON

PREACHED IN CONVOCATION
SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Warned Students About Gambling Without Knowing Where We Are Going - Must be Complete Surrender to Inherit Heaven.

The concluding service of this season, in Convocation hall on Sunday afternoon, was conducted by Bishop Burwell, who preached from Corinthians ix:26: "Therefore so run not uncertainly; so fight not as one that beatech the air."

His lordship went on to say that one cannot fail to be impressed by the dominant conviction expressed in Paul's words and life. We sometimes find his theology difficult to follow or realistic but there is never any doubt as to its outcome, for he knew what to believe and trusted firmly in his beliefs. Speaking here of the war of the flesh and spirit he expresses his convictions and allows no room for doubt. Paul lived up to his convictions.

The remarkable words of the Latin poet, "I know I see the better thoughts and praise them but I follow the world", express the contrary position of one who had not the strength to follow his convictions.
This struggle which Paul portrays is characteristic of the sphere in which he lived where there was much uncertainty of conviction. One can imagine the dark despairing situation in which these words were uttered. The academies of the time were discussing futile culture and philosophies while men of the world were given up to self-indulgences, thus trying to make up the loss of the eternal by worldly enjoyment. The lowest classes were in a state of despair and darkness. Paul came with his convictions in his belief of the resurrection and was met with contempt by these speculating Greeks of culture, when he told them that their salvation depended on the crucifixion.
But to those untouched by the high culture, the despairing and hopeless, his message was life, not death.

What was the secret of Paul's success? We have been given no worked-out philosophy with any unique claim, no written biography, and possess only a few fragments of idealized letters and parables. Looking back we find only Paul's personality that accomplished so much. To us he is mystical, but we perceive the faith he had in his beliefs which were to be revealed to the world. He knew what the "I" in Christ meant and practiced it.

The text has a lesson for us to-day.
This is a time of deep interest in religion although Christianity is attacked on every side. Many of us are running without knowing where we are going, imitating faith but merely beating the air. In college we are taught to criticize, compare and analyze, which is quite proper, but there is danger of stopping at this. Our convictions are not produced by this means, which is a dead method while religion is living. Under this intellectual aspect religion draws away becoming more and more a mere matter of conduct and will.

We must all face the great question, "Shall we allow this unique personality which has perfect conviction of the truth to be lost to our world?" All must decide, and, if affirmative, we discover the secret of convictions. But some sacrifice must also be made. Paul in this text speaks from deep experience. The secret cannot be found without something like complete surrender.
There must be complete self-surrender if we desire to inherit heaven. It seems natural to hold oneself in a critical or narrow-minded stand against committing ourselves to any religion, but those who have mastered this spirit in the words of Paul are the men who will do God's work as citizens and Christians. They are the instruments by which God will bring about the coming of His kingdom.

Missionary Sermons Missionary day was observed in Brock street Methodist church on Sunday, and at the morning service Rev. G. I. Campbell dealt with the subject of foreign missions, while at the evening service, the pastor, Rev.
John Webster took as his subject, home missions. Both services were very inspiring.

Mr. Campbell declared that the evangelization of the world was one of the greatest problems that we now have to deal with. The church at home has many duties to perform, but God has intended us to convert the world, and this can only be done by sending out missionaries.

Bishop Mills at St. Paul's The Bishop of Ontario took the evening service at St. Paul's church on Sunday evening, and as his subject, took that passage of Scripture which deals with "the two men who went up to the temple to pray." The bishop emphasized the necessity of all living close to Jesus for their spiritual happiness and of placing their whole confidence in his finished work. His lordship was in fine form on Sunday evening and no doubt is feeling much better by the return of good health, which he again enjoys. The large congregation was deeply impressed with his sermon. The service was read by the vicar, Rev. W. F. Fitzgerald.

St. Luke's Sunday School A Whig reporter actually went to Sunday school yesterday. He dropped into St. Luke's to see what was going on, and found 139 pupils and twenty-three teachers and officers present. The superintendent is William Carroll, who takes a deep interest in the school work. St. Luke's young men's orchestra, comprising a dozen instruments, and under the leadership of A. Pardoe, led the school in the songs of praise and added vigor to the music. The orchestra accompaniment makes the scholars take a deeper interest in singing, which in some Sunday schools falls flat owing to lack of enthusiasm. This orchestra would be an asset to any school.

St. Luke's school has a total enrollment of 259. Miss Spencer looks after the little tots.

Queen Street Song Service
On Sunday evening Queen street Bloss flour.

Methodist church was crowded to the doors for the song service given by the choir. The pastor, Rev. G. I.
Campbell, occupied the pulpit. The following contributed to the musical programme: Mrs. George Joyner, Miss Frichard, Messrs. Pettigrew, Macdunnell and I. Sparks, Mrs. J. Evans, Miss Goldie Bartels, Allan Hattner, Miss Miller, William Eva, Mrs. M. L.
Wright. The anthems were well received, the quartettes good and the songs extremely fine. Rev. Mr.
Campbell spoke of the joy and delight there was in having music in our next and last; a man who sang in apparent defeat was a victor. The service was thoroughly enjoyed.

FIFTY-THREE QUEEN'S MEN

Assigned to Mission Fields of Presbyterian Church On the list of appointments to the home mission work of the Presbytery announced for the summer of 1914, there are about 450 names. Of these, some 53 are students of Queen's university. There are also a number of students who have made private arrangements. In the presbytery of Kingston, for example, there are three missions to be supplied by students whose names do not appear upon this list. This is also true of other presbyteries.

For the first time in many years the Presbyterian Home Mission Board found that it had more would-be missionaries at their disposal for work in Canada during the summer months than it was able to find fields for.
Some 500 applications were placed before the members for their consideration, and about 450 of the applicants were assigned to fields. There were many applications from students at universities in the old country, and also from theological seminaries in the United States. Canadian students of course, were placed before the outside applications were dealt with. In former years the board has experienced not a little difficulty in securing enough men to properly cover the summer fields.

Missionaries were assigned to the various presbyteries as follows: Lanark and Renfrew, J. McKillop; Brookville, J. F. Wedderburn; Kingston, L. A. Muttitt, W. E. Bannerman, A. B. Morrison, C. H. Ballard, H. B.
Campbell and C. G. Graham; Peterborough, G. Telford; Northern Ontario, W. J. McFadden, G. S. Macfarlane, W.
G. B. Fraser, R. J. Mackenzie, F. E.
MacLeod, W. J. Menab and L. R.
Cunningham; western fields, Thomas S.
Hutton, G. C. Mitchell, A. H. Irvine, Queen's University Missionary Association is supporting eight men on the field. These eight charges are assigned by the presbytery and the missionary committee at the university puts up the funds. The association at the University of Toronto is responsible for about fifty men.

LADIES' MUSICAL CLUB

Mrs. E. Torrance Was Elected President.

The annual business meeting of the Ladies' Musical club was held on Saturday afternoon in Convocation hall. The various reports showed that the year's work has been very satisfactory.

Saturday afternoon's programme was arranged by Misses A. Fairlie and J. Craig. Those who took part were Mrs. W. E. Macpherson, Miss Kathleen Ryan, Miss Laura Nicolle, Miss Ardelle Elder, Mrs. R. A. Mc-Lelland, Miss Hazel Maxie and Mrs.
A. R. B. Willhaussen.

At an executive meeting held after the programme, the vacancies on the committee were filled. Mrs. E. Torrance was elected president for the coming year to take the place of Miss Hazel Massie, who has resigned.

Major-General Cotton Retires

With the retirement of Major-General Cotton, at the end of the present month, the office of inspector-general of the Canadian militia, which he holds, will for the present at least go out of existence. According to a report from Ottawa, the department has decided not to make any appointment in General Cotton's place and his work of carrying out inspections will be done by the divisional commanders. The lapsing of the office will make a number of anticipated changes unnecessary. General Cotton was appointed inspector-general in December, 1912.

Must Honor Toast of King

London, March 22.-"Anybody sentimental to honor the toast of the king will be summarily ejected." These words appeared at the bottom of the toast list at the military banquet given in honor of Sir Ian Hamilton at Sydney on Friday, and were a sequel to the action of the labor major of Richmond, who some time ago refused to honor the royal toast.

"Be a live wire. No matter how small your business is it will be benefited by a small classified advt. in the Whig. The rates are reasonable.
(One week, $1; one month, $2. Get your name before the people.)" Mrs. William Duncan, formerly of Westport, died at Lethbridge, Alta.
The remains were brought east for burial.

MME. CAILLAUX, WHO KILLED M. CALMETTE.

This is a good picture of the wife of the French minister of finance, who, because of the editorial opposition of the Figaro to her husband, entered the office of the paper and shot dead M. Gaston Calmette, the editor. After the murder of the minister of finance resigned, and a reconstruction of the French Cabinet resulted. As the woman was led to the police station through a cheering crowd she shouted: "Now can people say any more that my husband and I led an unhappy married life."

THE HALLS OF QUEEN'S

QUESTION OF DANCE HOURS TO BE CONSIDERED.

Alma Mater Society to Discuss What "Say" the Senate Should Have in Connection With the Rink.

Although examinations are drawing near, quite a number of students were able to spare time for the Alma Mater meeting. The first business of importance was a communication from the senate notifying the society that their social function committee would meet the representatives of the Alma Mater on Friday, 27th, to discuss the extension of hours. The result of this meeting will be reported next Saturday night.

A supplementary report of the athletic committee was brought in by Mr. Dawson, which included the statement of $600, granted by the college authorities for the class in compulsory physical education. This gives rise to the question as to what say the senate should have in athletics, which again involves the question of the control of the rink. This question will be thoroughly threshed out next Saturday.

The editor of Queen's Journal brought in a report on behalf of the staff. This is the fourth year for this organ and the third year for the present semi-weekly form. The year's work so capably conducted by Mr.
Girdler and finished by Mr. McCrae has been very gratifying. The literary supplement proved a successful venture. Next year an attempt will be made to have a monthly edition. The work of the staff was highly commended by the editor, special mention being made of J. May, managing editor, and A. Bennett, business manager. The speaker suggested that on account of the time and work that the Journal required some effort should be made to have the college authorities exempt to a certain extent the ficers connected with it from parts of the college work. The staff for next year was elected and W. P. McCre, a well-known divinity student, will act as editor-in-chief.

The debate committee also brought in a report. Certain changes in the constitution were effected and arrangements were made to hold a large number of debates between the years in order to bring out more matterial. Next year a strong attempt will be made to induce all faculties to participate in debating.

The tennis club held its annual meeting Saturday night, at which Mr.
Baird gave the report in place of the secretary, A. Macdonald, who has returned to his home owing to sickness. The club was unsuccessful in obtaining the Intercollegiate championship, which went to McGill. The officers elected for next year are: Honorary president, J. K. Robertson, president, W. Dobson, vice-president, A. Macdonald, secretary-treasurer, J.
F. Ryan, committee, Messrs. Kirk council, Bates and Burwell.

King Wants Tall Servants

Because they were not six feet tall two men who applied for positions as servants at Buckingham palace were turned down last week.

They were former stewards of the marquis of Dufferin and Ava and the earl of Crewe, who regularly supply Buckingham palace and Marlborough house with servants, and through them was learned the new rule that all men engaged at the palace must be six feet or more. "Footmen, under butlers and all liveried men must be that height. We hire none but British servants and favor men who have served at embassies in other countries and can speak one or two languages," said one of the managers at the agency.

The servants at Buckingham palace get no better salaries than at other places. However, they receive a good allowance for liveries and street clothes, and after ten years, are pensioned if old enough, or sooner if some physical misfortune overtakes them.-New York Tribune.

There is not much hope for the man who has allowed that "tired feeling" to become chronic.

14th COMPANY SHOOTING

Color Sergt. J. A. Scott Made Highest Individual Score

The final shoot of the inter-company gallery rifle shooting competition of the 14th regiment was fired on Friday evening last. There was a large number of the marksmen present, particularly to see the tie shoot-off between Col. Sergts.
S. Fraser, of "C" company and J. A.
Scott, of "D" company, for first place in the highest individual score in the series. The tie shoot was an interesting one, as both men tied on the first five rounds fired, and then fired shot for shot until the tie was broken. It took nine extra shots each to decide the winner, Col.
Sgt. Scott winning by one point. Pte.
G. Carr-Harris was a close third, being one point behind the winner.
The results of the series is as follows:

"E" company, team, 842 points;
"D" company team, 659 points; "G" company team, 625 points; "A" company team, 575 points; "C" company team, 539 points; "B" company team, 398 points.
For highest individual score in series: Col. Sgt. J. A. Scott, "C" company, 108 points; Col. Sgt. S. Fraser
"E" company, 108 points; Pte. G. G.
M. Carr-Harris "H" company, 107 points.

Under One Flag

If civil war breaks out in Ulster, we shall have a situation unprecedented in human history. British troops, by order of the sovereign and parliament, will be required to fire upon one of the most loyal elements in the United Kingdom. Alike over the king's soldiers and the Ulster patriot will fly the Union Jack. What will be the effect in the outlying British dominions of such a spectacle at the heart of the empire?

He is a wise man who, when desir-

THE WHOLE BODY
NEEDS PURE BLOOD

It Means Healthy Nutrition—Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes it.

The bones, the muscles and all the organs of the body depend for their strength and tone and healthy action on pure blood.
If the blood is very impure, the bones become diseased; the muscles become enfeebled, the step loses its elasticity, and there is inability to perform the usual amount of labor.
The skin loses its clearness, and pimples, blotches and other eruptions appear.
Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood. It is positively unequalled in the treatment of scrofula and other humors, catarrh, rheumatism, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, that tired feeling and general debility. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a pure, safe and effective remedy. There is no other medicine like it. Be sure to get Hood's and get it today. All druggists.
