ACCUSED OF FORGERY
ERNEST VILLARD WANTED BY POLICE IN ALBANY, N.Y.
Was Placed Under Arrest on Wednesday Afternoon—Charged That He Forged Cheque for $30.
At the request of the police in Albany, N.Y., Ernest Villard, a resident of this city for many years, was placed under arrest on Wednesday afternoon by Police Constable James Bateson, and is now at police headquarters, waiting the arrival of an officer from Albany to take him back.
The charge against Villard is that of forgery. While acting as general secretary-treasurer of the International Hod Carriers' and Building Laborers' Union it is alleged that he forged the name of Dominick D'Alessandro to a cheque for $30. The date given for the offence is March 2nd, 1910.
The local police have been looking for Villard since early in January. Word was received to place him under arrest, but he could not be found, and it is believed that he left the city. The detective department was instructed to keep its eyes open for the accused, with the result that Constable Bateson succeeded in locating him on Wednesday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock. The prisoner, who is employed as a builders' laborer, was working in a store on Princess street, which is being fitted out for George Massey. It is believed that he will go over to Albany without objection and face the charge. If not, it is understood that extradition papers will be taken out. T. J. Rigney is acting as counsel for Villard.

"Stop Thief."
Kleptomaniacs have been seized upon by Carlyle Moore as the subject matter for his farce, "Stop Thief" which Cohan and Harris will present at the Grand on Thursday, April 2nd with the original New York, Chicago and Boston company. In the play two people, who are obsessed with a morbid desire to take and hide things, are confused with a real crook who steals for "keeps." "Stop Thief" is said to abound in ridiculously humorous situations and bright chatter, punctuated every now and then with real thrills and a heart throb or two.

The Fate of Steamer Keystorm is Not Yet Known
Whether further efforts will be made this spring to raise the sunken steamer Keystorm, which lies in deep water near Chippewa Point, in the St. Lawrence river, is unknown at the present time. The Keystorm went down in the fall of 1912, after striking a submerged rock, while bound to Montreal with a cargo of coal. Already two attempts have been made by the underwriters to raise the boat, which rests on her side in about seventy-five feet of water. Last fall a Montreal wrecker undertook to reclaim the Keystorm, which is valued at $250,000, exclusive of her coal cargo, but the weather became so rough that little headway was made and operations were abandoned before the cold set in. The contractor at that time said he would return in the spring with his wrecking outfit.
