

A New Novel By An Anonymous Writer

HOME

Considerable discussion as to the authorship of this story has been indulged in since its first publication in serial form in the Century Magazine. Little light has been thrown upon the matter save the statement of the publishers that the author is a member of the American consular service.

The people we meet in this book are conventional characters, such as we readily recognize. Some of them possess splendid characteristics; the frailties and shortcomings of others are pronounced. The falling of the Waynes was women, or the Lansings, wine; and Alan Wayne and Gerry Lansing, living up to the family traditions, supply the motive of this splendid story. Alan's failure at college calls down upon him the reproaches of J. Y. Wayne, who reminds him that the name has always been held in high regard, and that Red Hill will welcome him back at any time he will make himself worthy.

ISOLATION HOSPITAL

FOR SMALLPOX IS NEEDED BY THE CITY

To Seek Co-operation With County—Decide on Playground in the Vicinity of Frontenac School

The City Property Committee yesterday afternoon decided to ask the City Council to turn the land between Cowdy and St. Catharine streets, close to Frontenac school, into a playground. Ald. Harrison, the chairman, drew attention to the danger existing from the unfenced quarries in that vicinity. The city solicitor had told him that the city would be responsible for accidents, and he had drawn the attention of the chairman of the Board of Works to the matter, advising that the board should force the quarry owners to fence their property along the streets.

The chairman drew the attention of the committee to the fact that the city must acquire a smallpox hospital, in view of the militia department refusing to allow Fort Henry to be used any longer for isolation purposes. It was decided to confer with the county of Frontenac authorities and see if a joint hospital could be arranged for close to the city.

The executor of the estate of the late Joseph Gorrie wrote the committee asking for authority to transfer the leasing of the hay market held by the late Mr. Gorrie, to Michael O'Leary, for the remaining three months of the unexpired term. The committee agreed to the request if the city solicitor is satisfied.

A motion was passed providing that an old by-law still on the books of the city, and stating that no rebates shall be given for the rent of the city hall, should be carried out. For some years rebates have been constantly given, and the committee feels that the practice should cease.

Ald. Harrison stated that his view was that the charitable and other public institutions receiving rebates got grants from the city, and if they could not make ends meet they could secure increases. The renting of the hall should, he thought, be conducted in a business like way, just as the civic utilities are.

Ald. Gillespie remarked that he was interested in a charitable ball which was being held in the city hall on Friday night, and hoped the promoters would be in time to get the usual rebate of rent. Ald. Harrison assured him that he would likely be in time.

Ald. White wanted to know what charitable event was being held, and Ald. Gillespie said it was to buy uniforms for the school cadet corps. Ald. White said he could not view that as a charitable affair.

Those in attendance at the meeting were: Aids. Harrison (chairman), McCann, Gillespie and White.

TRIED TO STEAL PURSE

From Collegiate Girl As She Was on Her Way Home

To be held up by some unknown man who was in need of money was the experience of three girls who are in attendance at Kingston Collegiate institute, on Wednesday afternoon, shortly after four o'clock, on Earl street, near the corner of Clergy. When the girls were coming down Earl street they noticed a man near the corner of Clergy. As they were passing him, he deliberately stepped in front of them and caused them to stop. Noticing that one of the girls was carrying her purse on a silver chain, which was around her neck, but as it would be a difficult proposition to relieve her of it he decided to try some underhand means.

He asked the girls to listen for a minute, and while he had their attentions, he grabbed the purse and tried to release it from the young lady's neck. When repulsed he ran away. Two of the young ladies, when seen by a Whig representative, stated that they could identify the man if they saw him again.

THE LATE JOSEPH ROBINSON

Formerly of Camden East, Who Died in Regina on Tuesday.

A telegram received on Wednesday by Mrs. Henry Leitch, who is stopping at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Connor, Princess street, conveyed the sad news of the death of Joseph Robinson, formerly of Camden East, which occurred in Regina on Tuesday. The deceased had been confined to the hospital in Regina for the past three weeks, ill of typhoid fever.

The late Mr. Robinson was well known in the city. About six years ago he moved from Camden East to Regina. His two sons, Leonard and Webb, who have spent the winter months in the east, were called to his bedside last week.

He is survived by his wife, three sons and one daughter—Leonard, Joseph and Webb, of Regina, and Mrs. Peat, of Moose Jaw. Three brothers also survive. The remains are being brought to Camden East for burial.

THE ANTI-BELL FIRE MAN

Causes a Protest from a Reader of the Whig.

Kingston, April 22.—(To the editor): I should like a few lines in your valuable paper against the above heading, which appeared in your Monday issue. It is a pity that such things should be so badly proclaimed without some one coming to the front and challenging the same.

That our country's teaching on the above subject is not dead yet; at the same time one wonders what are the different pulpits doing with regard to this solemn question. I do not wish controversy, (1 Timothy 3-16), but to speak as the scripture saith, these are days when men will not endure sound doctrine but after their own lusts will they heap to themselves teachers having itching ears.

The speaker no doubt has correctly stated the number of times "hell," "hades," or "gehenna" appear, but doing this does not in any way explain the true interpretation, for as I read my book with thousands more.

Death in the scripture has one meaning and that is separation from God, (Daniel XI, 1-2). "And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life and some to shame and everlasting contempt." Also Mark 44, 46 and 48, are verses which should silence all gainsaying. It is a very pleasing doctrine this non-eternal punishment. What are men saying to-day? "Let us eat, drink and be merry, for to-morrow we die." It is quite true that within the day (God reckoning 1000 years) Adam did die but how was he to get back simply by promise. The seed of the woman.

Man when created was in the image and likeness of God, and he became a living soul. And so when Christ came the second Adam, He likewise partook of the same nature (apart from sin) that He might destroy Him that had the power of death this is the devil. Now in death of Christ we see the triple part of man displayed. His body was put in the grave. His soul went to hell, and his spirit he commended to God, (Psalms, xvi: 10; Matt. xxvii: 50; Luke, xlii: 46). I point these facts out that your readers and also the hearers of false doctrine may look into their bibles and search if these things are so.—O. F.

USED BAD LANGUAGE

And Had to Pay Fine in Police Court.

For using profane language on the street Edward Little was fined $5 and costs in the police court on Thursday morning.

"I did swear," said Little, when arraigned before the magistrate. "And without any justification?" queried the court.

To this the accused made no reply. The magistrate thereupon imposed the fine.

A police constable summoned Little for using the bad language on Barric street.

Two drunks were in the line-up. One was fined $3 and costs or one month and the other was given a chance. The following dialogue occurred when the one who was given a chance stood up:

"What are you employed at?" asked the court.

"I am a farmer."

"How did you come to get here?"

"Because I drank too much, I guess."

"It is your first time here so I guess I will let you go this time. The disgrace of being here will be enough to warn you not to get into such a state again."

NO FURTHER CONCESSIONS

The Leonard Military Offer to Queen's to Stand

It is reported that Major R. W. Leonard will not make any further concessions in regard to his military training offer to Queen's university. He insists upon the board being composed of six members, three military and three academic. Queen's had been holding out for a majority of academic members on the board. It is said that Major Leonard wants to have some control of the scheme for two or three years, in order to get it on a good basis. At the meeting of the university trustees on the 29th it is expected that the Leonard offer will be accepted. Two or three of the professors of the university recently became so hot over the military proposition that they actually threatened to resign if it was accepted in its present form.

EARLY MORNING FIRE

Department Was Called to Home of P. F. Haffner.

The firemen were called out at four o'clock on Thursday morning to the home of P. F. Haffner, grocer, at the corner of Johnson and Frontenac streets, where a fire had started in the kitchen, between the ceiling and the flooring. The fire was extinguished with the five-gallon extinguisher, and the loss will not be very heavy. Defective wiring is blamed for the blaze.

Muskat Season Soon be Over

Kingston's large fur house is now purchasing daily thousands of muskrat skins, wolves, foxes, raccoons, fishers, etc. Said Mr. McKay: "The trapper is now reaping his harvest of hard-earned dollars. The season is rapidly approaching its close. Local trappers are daily marketing this season's catch. After May 1st, it is impossible to get any more of the animals of any kind. The bulk of our raw furs are purchased by our traveling buyers, who call on the trappers in the out-lying districts."

"We also have numerous shippers, who send us their consignments from all sections of Canada. What do we do with them all? Well, we select the finest of them all for our exclusive manufacturing trade, exporting the balance, and the overflow to the annual European fur sales.

"Yes, our house has been buying raw furs over for sixty continuous years."

ARCHDEACON OF HALIFAX

Addressed Historical Society on Bishop Charles Inglis

The last meeting for this season of the Kingston Historical society was held in the new Arts building, Queen's university, on Wednesday evening, and this time the audience was favored by a splendid paper, read by Rev. W. J. Armitage, D.D., archdeacon of Halifax. The topic on which the speaker addressed the audience was "Charles Inglis, First Church of England Bishop in North America."

Archdeacon Armitage is a forceful lecturer and during the entire period occupied by his reading the good-sized audience paid close attention to the many interesting facts which he had set down.

The speaker said that Charles Inglis was a widely-read scholar and left Ireland after the disestablishment of the English church there, coming to America and producing many radical changes in religious principles. The hardships met with were many, in some cases his life being threatened but only saved by the grace of God that he might continue to advance those worthy principles which to a wonderful extent were the means of producing the present high standard of religious worship in different parts of the United States. References are to be found to Bishop Inglis in the writings of George Adam Smith and Oliver Goldsmith, along with a score of others, who all had the highest praise to offer him. He was a great ecclesiastical statesman, far sighted, who looked beneath the surface of things and delved to their very heart. His principles of patriotism were fixed and of the truest nature.

At the trying period about 1776, when everything was in turmoil and strife, fires raging, etc., Bishop Inglis bore through bravely. Although war and strife continued throughout his latter days he emerged from it all glorious.

At the close a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Archdeacon Armitage by Archdeacon Carey, seconded by W. R. Sills, M.A.
