CHIEF AT KINGSTON
HE IS HAIR AND HEARTY AT NINETY-THREE

Col. S. B. Hance, Former Kingston Resident, is Enjoying Life on the Pacific Slope
Under date of April 11th, the Seattle (Wash.) Sun contained the following concerning Colonel S. B. Hance, a former chief of police at Kingston.
Ninety-three and a half years old, but so interested in the work of men and things of to-day that he goes down town every morning just for the love of feeling himself still in it, Colonel S. B. Hance, who lives with his niece, Mrs. H. F. Hogg, at 708 Belmont Place, sees no reason why he should spend his days in an armchair, thinking of the past.
He has a splendid past to think of when newspapers were in their infancy; he held his life in his hands on fourteen battlefields; he was for years in business; he knew Abraham Lincoln well and was honored by him; his memories are a wonderful panorama of American life; but the world is still "full of a number of things" worth seeing, he thinks.
His niece is relieved when she sees him safely home again, but she does not try to hinder him, for she knows he is happier thus.
S. B. Hance was born in Ithaca, N.Y., Dec. 19th, 1820. His grandfather lived to be ninety-seven. His sister, Mrs. Margaret Fursman, who lives with her son at the corner of Howell and Summit, is eighty-four years old.
Young Hance was apprenticed at sixteen to a printer, and worked on the Ithaca Journal until 1840, when he became agent for the Royal Mail line of steamers at Montreal. From that time on he was in business of one kind or another until the outbreak of the Civil War.
It was in his bookstore at Bloomington, Ill., in the middle fifties, that he saw so much of Lincoln that he is a perfect mine of Lincoln stories. "Lincoln used to spend a lot of time in the store, reading," he said yesterday, "I let him take any book in the store—and he was very careful—and he'd sit and read until I'd have to tell him it was time to shut up."
"Tell about Lincoln and the marked bill," prompted his grandniece.
"Well, that was the time Lincoln defied a banker who had been indicted for passing a bad five-dollar bill. The complaining witness was asked how he identified the bill.
"By the little piece torn off the corner," he said.
"And by the pinholes?" asked Lincoln, and the fellow said "Yes."
"These pinholes, one in each corner and one in the middle?" "Yes," answered the man.
"Lincoln turned to the court. "There are no pinholes in the bill," he said. His client was acquitted.
"Afterward I asked him: 'Now, you know that banker passed that bill; why did you defend him?'"
"Why, said Lincoln, 'that was a five dollar bill. If they had convicted him they'd have sent him to jail for at least two years. And what about his wife and children?'"
Colonel Hance entered the Union army when the war broke out, and was appointed by Lincoln assistant adjutant general with the rank of captain. He served two years and was promoted to major, with words of praise from General Paine for his bravery under fire. Then he resigned, his health broken by hardship. Later he was appointed consul at Kingston, Canada.
When he was able to travel again, Lincoln offered him the position of supervising special agent of the Treasury Department. Lincoln granted it in his own way: "Well, Hance," said he, rocking thoughtfully back and forth in his chair, "you know there are about a thousand applicants for those places—but I guess I can appoint you 'unbeknown to myself,' as the temperate Irishman said when he put some brandy in his lemonade."
Colonel Hance was consul at Kingston until 1875, when he retired from active business. He spent some years in Cape Vincent, New York, and New Haven, Connecticut, and came to Seattle about six years ago.

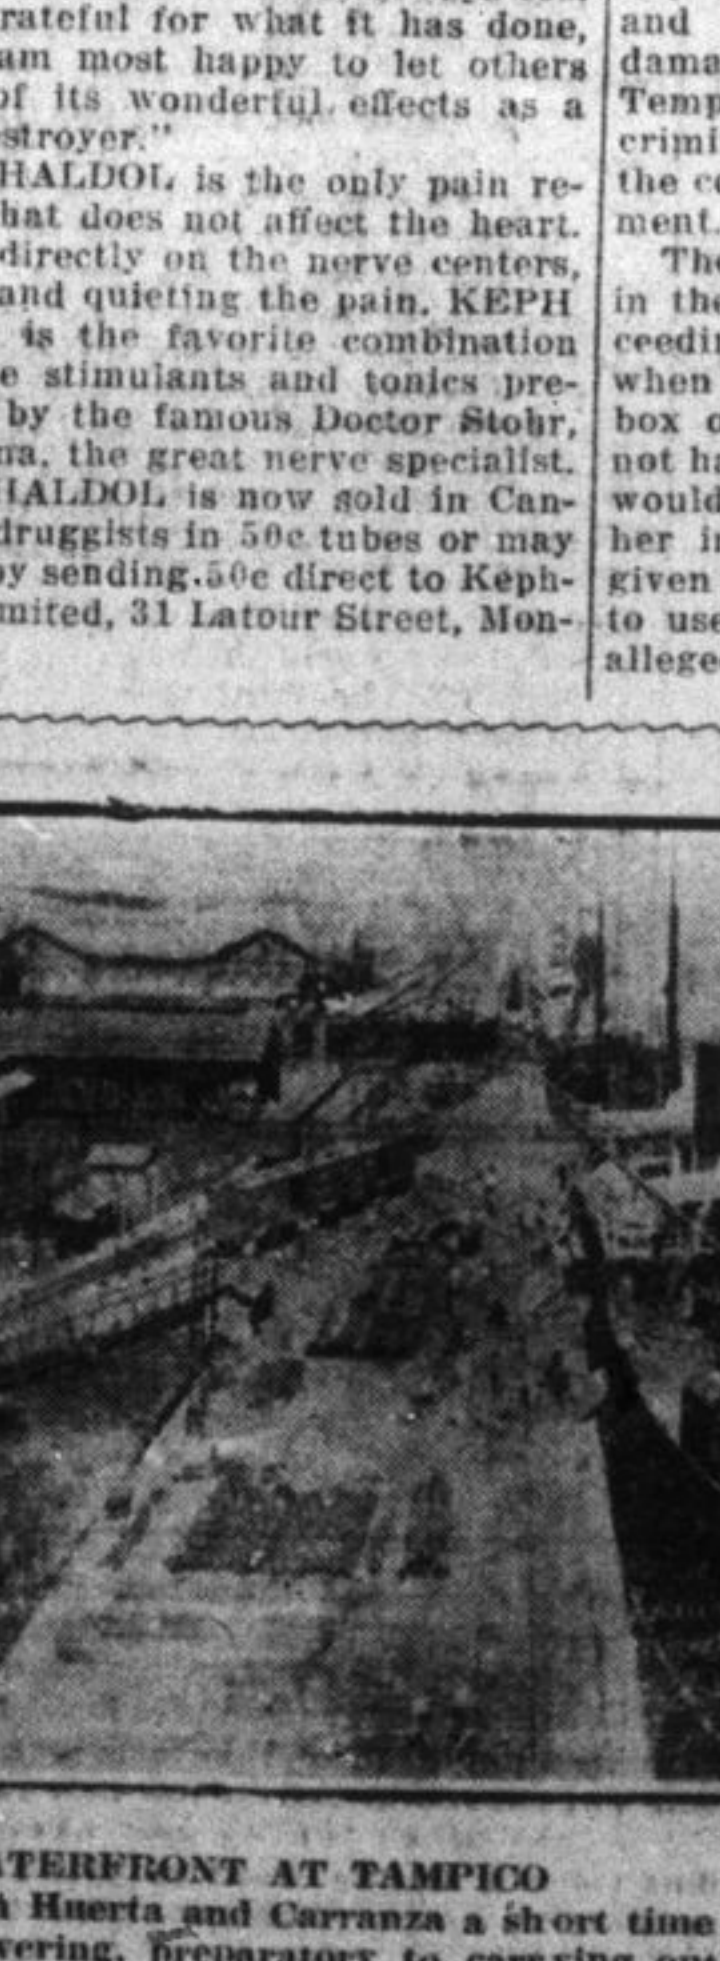

Canada Gets Black Sheep
London, April 24.—"I don't know what the people of Canada would say to that," remarked Justice Bray, at the Liverpool assizes, when a lenient sentence was suggested for a defaulting bank clerk because his friends were prepared to ship him to the Dominion. The prisoner got eight months.
Chicago equal suffragists want a city ordinance for a minimum scale for men and women in trade occupations.
Then the little fellow blurted out distressfully:

READY TO QUIZZE BECKER
Whitman Will Seek Facts About "Finnegan" if He Resists

New York, April 24.—District Attorney Whitman is preparing for a cross-examination in case ex-Lieut. Charles Becker takes the stand in his own behalf on his second trial for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, which is to begin on May 6th. Assistant District Attorney Groehl is preparing the skeleton of the examination, and it appears now that there will be many references to one "Finnegan." Mr. Whitman and his aids have been looking unsuccessfully for some time for Finnegan.
Becker was convicted on October 25th, 1912. Two days later, on Sunday, just before he was taken to the death house in Sing Sing, Becker became reuintent and told reporters about the fortune which he had deposited in fifteen or more savings banks. The district attorney had traced some $70,000 in Becker's accounts scattered all over the city.
"How did you save all that money on your $2,400 salary?" reporter asked Becker on that Sunday.
"A man named Finnegan left me $15,000 and $10,000 to my wife," replied Becker. "My wife kept it in a little tin box in a trunk and one day she presented it to me."
Before that the name of Finnegan never had been mentioned. Becker said that the man was John F. Finnegan, and that he had died on the night that he (Becker) was arrested. Finnegan left no will, according to Becker. If Becker now takes the stand he will be asked all about Finnegan.
Until Joseph A. Shay resigned as counsel for Becker, it was asserted repeatedly that Becker would take the stand. Since Martin T. Manton and W. Bourke Cockran were retained in the case, however, this report has not been repeated. The district attorney believes that Becker will not dare take the witness chair, but has deemed it wise to prepare for the unexpected.
Mr. Whitman admitted yesterday that he was ready for the case. The last gap had been closed on Monday afternoon, he said, when he had seen "Bridgie" Webber, one of the informers against Becker, in Webber's box factory in Passaic. Sam Schepps has been discredited and will not be called by the state.

TO CONNECT WITH C.P.R.
Work to Start on Gleggarry and Stormont Railway
Cornwall, April 24.—Work will be commenced on the construction of the Gleggarry and Stormont railway as soon as weather conditions permit. The promoters have let the contracts for several sections of the road, which is to connect Cornwall with the C.P.R. at St. Polycarpe, Que.
G. R. Phillips has been awarded a section of four miles, starting just north of the C.P.R. track below the Cornwall station, and extending as far as Glen Donald. The company propose building a section east of this on their own account. Messrs. McDonald and Grant have a section near Williamstown, and A. F. Mulhern the adjoining four miles east of Williamstown. A. G. McArthur has a section from the eastern terminus at St. Polycarpe and extending twelve miles west, connecting with Mr. Mulhern's contract. It is expected that the rails will be laid the entire length of the road by November 1st, and that trains will be running a month later.
Johnny hung his head and was silent. But the telltale of the class spoke up:
"Johnny," said the teacher, "rise, I tell you."

Kephaldol
"Is Absolutely Marvellous As a Pain Killer"
Mrs. Beatrice Cassey, of Swalecliff, England, knows what it means to be bed-ridden with pain. She also knows how easily the tortures of Rheumatism and Lumbago may be overcome. She says, "My experience with KEPHALDOL as a pain-killer is absolutely marvellous. I had a fearfully acute attack last year of Neuritis, Sciatica and Lumbago, and suffered in bed for many days. Finally, I heard of KEPHALDOL, which did wonders for me. I shall always feel most grateful for what it has done, and I am most happy to let others know of its wonderful effects as a pain destroyer."
KEPHALDOL is the only pain reliever that does not affect the heart. It acts directly on the nerve centers, easing and quieting the pain. KEPHALDOL is the favorite combination of nerve stimulants and tonics prescribed by the famous Doctor Scherz, of Vienna, the great nerve specialist.
KEPHALDOL is now sold in Canada by druggists in 50c tubes or may be had by sending 50c direct to Kephaldol Limited, 31 Latour Street, Montreal.

THE SPORT REVIEW
PETERBORO KIDS PREFER LA-CROSSE TO BASEBALL

McGraw, of the New York Giants, Became a Professional Baseball Player Just Twenty-five Years Ago.
Lurie, the French heavyweight boxer, has challenged Bombardier Wells, of England, to a twenty-round go.
The New York Evening World notes John McGraw as saying that the Reds are the only club that he fears in the western division of the National League.
Al Wagner, who was the real baseball star of the Wagner family long before he put his brother Hans on the track towards fame, years to come back.
Boston gets the credit for the largest baseball crowd on this season. The afternoon game between the Red Sox and the Athletics on Patriots' Day drew 26,841 spectators, although the contest was played in a drizzle.
Walter Pipp was let go to Rochester because he bats left handed. The Detroit Tigers have too many portable hitters as it is, but Rochester can stand one more, especially if he hits over 200.
George Robertson, vice-president of the Peterboro lacrosse club, is doing his part to create a new interest in the game in Peterboro. He has gathered together a number of youngsters, some of whom show signs of developing into good players. And, strange to say, they take to the game in preference to baseball.
Arrangements are under way for the formation of an intercity, N.Y., C.A. baseball league in Brantford, Galt, Stratford, Paris, London and Woodstock. I-all these get in, the scheme two districts will be formed and the winners will play off for the championship at the end of the season. The league is to be purely amateur.
Jeff Tesreau, the former Toronto pitcher, has been made the defendant in a breach of promise suit, filed by Miss Clara Young, of Perryville, Mo., who alleges that she expected to become Mrs. Tesreau until she learned that the Giants' big pitcher was married to some one else a day or two before he started on the world's tour with the White Sox and Giants.
Morrisburg, Ont., and Waddington, N.Y., united for years for baseball purposes and setting a standard in Eastern Ontario until the advent of the Ottawa club to separate. Morrisburg has now to separate. Morrisburg has joined the Eastern Ontario league and one rule of the league is that players must be bona fide residents of the town whose colors they wear.
Twenty-five years ago at this time John J. McGraw was just breaking in as a professional ball player. His contract was with the Olean, N.Y., team, and for six months of service he was paid $360. Now he is about to set out in October with a new record in copping four successive National League pennants, and incidentally he will receive $5,000 a month while turning the trick. He is forty-one years old.

The International baseball league, composed mainly of players from Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, and other American universities, has been formed in London, with teams representing London, Paris, Nice and Monte Carlo. A schedule of games will be agreed upon and played.
There were to be no more baseball stories written by star players, neither were the cut-ups to be permitted to do stunts on the coaching lines. But since that old federal league butted in all kinds of major league rules seem to have been forgotten.
BARRED OWING TO COLOR
Woman Wins Suit Against Rochester Theatre Owners
Albany, N.Y., April 24.—Susan M. Joyner, who claims to be half negro and half Indian, recovered $200 damages from the proprietors of the Temple theatre, Rochester, for discrimination against her color, and the court of appeals upheld the judgment. No opinion was written.
The woman bought a reserved seat in the orchestra circle and was proceeding down the aisle to occupy it when she was asked to stop at the box office. She was told she could not have the seat, but that her money would be returned or a seat given to her in the gallery. No reason was given for the refusal to permit her to use the seat she bought, and she alleged it was by reason of her race.
