To Open Paving Tenders.

The Board of Works was called to meet at three o'clock this afternoon to open tenders for the paving of Princess street between Clergy and Alfred streets. What type of pavement will be used is a question, owing to the fact that light rails are being used by the street railway company for its double-tracking, and there is a feeling that no kind of paving would hold in the track allowance. Who Wants This Cannon Ball?

Cape Vincent Eagle.

Charles Colton, of Pillar Point, N.Y., has a cannon ball that he wants to sell. He says he is not much on relics and if some one wants it worse than he, they can have it, on the condition that they pay him for it. Mr. Colton was working on a gravel bar on the shore of Sherman's Bay, near Pillar Point, one day recently, when he came upon the ball. It was partially buried in the sands, but it was plainly visible. Mr. Colton picked it up and carried it home, and after weighing it, found that it was an eight-pound ball. The only way Mr. Colton can account for the ball being on the shore is that it was fired during the battle at Sacket's Harbor in the war of 1812. The ball is in good condition except that the surface of it is eaten with the rust. Near the place where the ball was found, Mr. Colton says he has often found Indian relics. Only recently he found several Indian arrow heads and an Indian spear, an instrument which the savages used to skin the animals they caught.

A REMEDY NEEDED.

But Have the Conservatives Such a Leader?

Toronto World (Conservative).

Some observers perceive at least three parties contending for future power in the present cabinet. Two of them may be irreconcilable. To what extent the breaches may be healed, if there be any, or the headquarters staff consolidated, no one can quite say. The new element in the party, or at least the element showing its strength in the party, is the spoils element, and when this element becomes predominant, the symptoms are acute enough for the event to discern. Sir James Whitney never permitted that element to have any influence to speak of. This was an easy matter while there was no competition for leadership. As soon as the big office becomes a possible prize, the usual course is a general opening up of negotiations all round for the lesser prizes, a barter and sale condition which is creditable to nobody. Only the presence of a strong man with a strong policy and a strong following can furnish a remedy. Whether in the event of the retirement of Sir James the Ontario conservatives can produce such a leader is a matter of speculation.

It is to be regretted that for purely local and private reasons the conservative party has been gradually jockeyed into a position which the opposition has tried hard for years to bring about. The non-partisan character of the government's most successful policy has been its very strongest asset. For the sake of a local quarrel, however, the reactionary elements in the party have unwittingly done what the opposition had failed to do, and brought about a situation of which the logical outcome is a submergence of the whole non-partisan attitude of the government towards its leading activity.

A strong leadership may still avert the danger, but it is impossible to ignore it.

FIND NEW MOTOR FUEL.

English Automobile Users Try New Oil, Economin.

The Milwaukee Free Press.

A new fuel for automobile and other internal-combustion engines is announced in British papers under the name of Economin. This has for its base 80 per cent. of kerosene, the remainder being chemicals which form an emulsion. Then the mixture is distilled and gives a fuel which is cheaper than gasoline (in England at least) and which gives more power from the same motor. It is further claimed to be practically perfect combustion so that there is almost no carbon deposit in the cylinders, to be almost odorless and to make an easy starting motor. It can be used with the same carburetor adjustment as gasoline. The fuel is not yet on the market, but The American Machinist learns that a plant to turn out 20,000,000 gallons a year is under construction.
