GANANOQUE IS UNABLE

TO TAKE UP THE COVERED RINK PROPOSITION.

The New Post Office Opens on Monday — Catholic Literary and Athletic Club to Have Two Baseball Teams.

Gananoque, May 16.—The Catholic Literary and Athletic Club will be very much in evidence this season along baseball lines, having organized this week, with these officers: President, M. McParland; manager, Frank Corrigan; assistant managers, W. C. McCarty and Frank Willis; secretary, Robert O'Brien. The club proposes putting a senior team in the field as well as a junior team, which will probably be entered in the Community Baseball League.

A session of the adult committee of the Community Movement met, last evening, to hear an explanation of the principal features of the covered rinks tendered for by A. A. Byers, of Montreal, formerly of the Byers & Anglin company, and Mr. Gilmour, of Preston. The tenders were for buildings of value of from $14,000 to $15,000. The town, however, does not at present see its way clear to put up that amount, and desire to keep the figure at or near the $10,000 mark.

The schooner Horace Taber arrived yesterday, with a cargo of coal.

Capt. D. J. Kenney's ferry launch Yenneck opened up the season on the Gananoque-Kingston route yesterday.

Postmaster J. T. Green has given notice that on Saturday, May 16th, the mail delivery from the old post office will be discontinued, and on Monday morning the new office will formally open for the general distribution of mail matter.

Mrs. R. E. Cook, of Ottawa, has been summoned to town by the serious illness of her mother-in-law, Mrs. S. C. Cook, John street. Frank Seymour, Water street, was taken to the Hotel Dieu, Kingston, yesterday, for a serious operation.

W. J. Nuttall, Charles street, reported as seriously ill some time ago, is still in serious condition. His sister, Mrs. W. H. Bradley, of Maple Ridge, Mich., is at his bedside, as are also his son, J. B. Nuttall, of Michigan, and daughter, Mrs. Alma Green, of Killbuck, Man.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Cole, King street, left this week for visit, Miss Laura A. Matthews, Grenville, Que. Saskatchewan, with their son, F. G. M. Cole, Mrs. William Bulloch, Sr., and her daughter, Mrs. Lena Hoekstra, who have been spending the past winter in Chicago, have returned to the summer at their home here.

The Early Fly.

The early fly is here; you see him buzzing near; so take your stand with club in hand, and snare him in the ear. The early flies are worst of all the breed accused; for they'll give rise to countless flies which cannot be dispersed. One active April fly, unless you make it die, will bring a slew, your meat to chew, and spoil the milk and pie. So, like the Maid of Arc, arise in helm and sark, and swat the flies between the eyes, from daylight until dark. Thus serve your native land; a swatter in your hand, and then your name in Hall of fame, on sculptured stone will stand. There is no better plan to help your fellow man; a peril dies with dying flies, so swat them while you can. Just so you kill the brutes, the method little boots; one takes an axe and breaks their backs, one takes his gun and shoots. I know one earnest gink who drowns his flies in ink; some fellows boil their flies in oil—a first-rate scheme. I think. But any plan will do, just so you kill a few, each passing day, so slay and slay, with purpose high and true.

Kaffirs in Trousers

The Afghan who adopts Western clothes seems often to be content with the coat and not to worry about the trousers. It is otherwise, according to Dudley Kidd in "The Essential Kaffir," with the young man returning to his kraal from Johannesburg. Old trousers particularly appeal to his imagination, and the more patches the better, especially if they differ widely from the main pattern, while loud checks are tremendously popular. The Kaffir boy's way with a waistcoat is also described by Mr. Kidd. First, he tries to put his head through one of the arm-holes, but finally finding that impossible even with the help of pushing from the rear by his little brother, he uses the waistcoat as trousers thrusting his legs through the holes and buttoning it up behind. A piece of grass string as braces completes the outfit.—London Chronicle.

Every year is leap year to the young widow who is wise to the game. Noah Whitmarsh, Westport, is dead.
