GETS HEAVY DAMAGES

Dr. F. G. Sparling Awarded $27,

MAY USE OIL TO KEEP DOWN Saskatoon, Sask., May 19 .- There court, presided over by Chief Justice Haultain, to-day, when the jury nounced a verdict in favor of 'Dr G. Sparling, awarding damages to the extent of $27,850, in the action brought by him against the C.N.R. for injuries sustained by him when a train of the defendant company jumped the track while passing out of Saskatoon, and plunged through the Canadian Northern railway bridge onto the ice-clad bed of the river. Damages were claimed to the amlosses arising directly, and the judge decided that the doctor was entitled for the general damage done to him by the injuries and physical disability he had suffered, and the business loss occasioned by the pervous breakdown the accident had caused. The case throughout the entire proceedings has seen followed by a crowded court with intense excitement, and many legal skirmishes concerning points of law featured the proceedings.

Dr. Sparling was 'a former Kingstonian, the son of the late Rev. W. Sparling, D.D., pastor of Sydenham street Methodist church.

It Does Matter

By William H. Hamby, residents of the village are in hopes There are many people with good that the council will take action this characters but pretty poor reputations. They are careless about their good name. They are in the habit "A good heavy rain would do a lot of good," said a resident of Ports-

"Oh, well, so long as I know I am all righ, it does not matter." But it does matter. Every person ought to be anxious to not only be right, but to have the world know lie is right. We owe that much to our influence. We owe that much As Minister of the Presbyterian to our families, to the good people with whom we are associated. "People are always misjudging any way. They will find out after awhile that I am not doing wrong,"

Yes, but what of your influence while you are being tound out? You put yourself in questionable positions, even when your motives are good, and it may take the people a good while to discover that you are not guilty. There are a dozen things one may do conscientiously, in a way or at a time that will appear, to a casual observer, as though he were doing wrong.

True, time will tell, but the world has not time to come around and take a person's affidavit that his intentions were good; it has not even time to give him a chance to explain The Cobourg Star says: The sad his motives.
