

ALDERMAN HARRISON IS THE CANDIDATE

"The liberal party cannot be accused of choosing one who has not been all his life a supporter of the policy which he will now support. It affords a golden opportunity for all in favor of this policy to rally around him and give him their loyal support. I am a temperance man, and I say this will be the last opportunity they will have of getting what they want. If some of the conservatives vote as they pray, the man whose name I have placed in nomination, is sure to be the next member for Kingston in the Ontario legislature." (Prolonged cheering and applause.)

At the close of Mr. Elliott's address, Dr. W. A. McCarthy arose and seconded the nomination of Mr. Harrison.

"He is one of the cleanest candidates ever placed before the people of Kingston," said the doctor, amidst loud applause. He appealed to the citizens to give him their warm support.

The nomination was then made a unanimous one, every man rising to his feet at the call of the chair to vote.

Ald. Harrison alone kept his seat, and he was smiling. It was an ovation any man might well be proud of.

After the applause had subsided, Col. Kent then tendered the nomination to Mr. Harrison, and in doing so said:

"You have been selected to carry the liberal banner to victory. Every liberal will be behind you in the fight, and I am confident you will be elected."

Candidate's Speech

The applause continued for several minutes, when Ald. Harrison arose to reply, and thank the gathering for the honor conferred upon him. He said he had been less than human, if he did not feel his position and say "yes" to the offer made to him. He thanked Ald. Elliott and the seconder of the motion, but regretted that Ald. Elliott had found it necessary to decline the nomination.

"I have been a liberal ever since I was a boy," said Ald. Harrison. "My father has been a liberal, and is one yet, and he is quite an old man. The other day I went out to see him and he said to me, 'Boy, if you run, you won't be defeated.' Gentlemen, in accepting this nomination I promise you that I will do everything that is within reason."

The candidate then started at once to discuss political issues by referring to the independent stand which had been taken by politicians on different questions. He referred to the independent stand taken by Messrs. McLean, Nickle and Bennett on the C. N. R. question, showing the split of independence in the conservative ranks. He referred to the fact that 9,000 conservatives had just recently petitioned Premier Whitney, and expressed their approval of Mr. Rowell's "abolish the bar" policy. Premier Whitney was too hard to bend in this matter. The premier had been "cornered" on other matters, as well. In Toronto today, the liberal party had forty-five per cent. on their side, while fifty-five per cent. was on the other side. This was a very narrow majority. While the opposition had seventy-five per cent. of the representation, a great part of it was by a very narrow majority, and it would not take a very large percentage of the independent vote to bring about a change.

Time for a Change

Speaking about local conditions, Ald. Harrison stated that he was more than delighted over the organization of the Young Liberal Club. The organization was filled with young blood and he felt sure that the "old guards" of the party would be "tickled to death" with the result of the local contest.

He declared that Mr. Rowell had the best platform. However, there were other good reasons why the present government should be turned out, and a more progressive government given the reins of office. The speaker had been reading up the reports of the government, and had been able to learn a great deal. Mr. Rowell had been calling for various investigations and examinations, but the premier simply stood in a corner with a club as if were, to beat him off. Here Ald. Harrison took occasion to make a personal reference to Mr. Rowell, stating that he had known him for many years through business transactions. "I do not know to-day, of a man in politics or out of politics that I would trust more implicitly with a piece of business or take his word than Mr. Rowell," added Ald. Harrison. "He is as true as steel."

The speaker declared that if the records were gone into, it would be found that the present government had been spending money too fast. It was altogether out of proportion, and one could not help but recognize the fact that a government with such a big majority did just about what they liked. He referred particularly to the new government house being built in Toronto. He had paid a visit to the building, which he regarded as altogether beyond the needs of the province. He had travelled abroad extensively, and would say that kings and queens lived in no finer building. The sum of $400,000 had been voted for it, while $100,000 would have been ample.

Although the cost had been estimated on a basis of $400,000, the government has come back with a request for $200,000 more. Then the total amount was raised to $252,000, and it was not completed yet, as it had not been furnished. It would surely cost over a million dollars. In addition to the cost, the location of the building, which overlooked the Don, had been criticized. The speaker referred to the whole proceeding as a reckless piece of expense. And in the face of all the hard times, the government had asked for more money to go on with the work.

Regarding the question of tax reform, the speaker warmly supported all Ex-Ald. Elliott had said on the question. He was a property owner himself, and was quite willing to stand for such legislation. Referring to the Workmen's Compensation act, the speaker said that the conservative party had taken all the credit for this piece of legislation, while Mr. Rowell had been the father of it. It was one of the planks of the liberal party. Mr. Rowell had advanced many other things of value to the people. He had advocated a labor bureau in order that labor should have a voice and receive fair play. He had also urged the development of New Ontario which would mean much for Kingston, in that it would mean that more goods would be shipped out of the city.

An Economic Question

Ald. Harrison, in dealing with the abolition of the bar, stated that it must be treated as a social and economic problem which must be faced. Anything that tended to weaken labor and would curtail the output of an industry, could not possibly be a benefit to a city or nation. Mr. Mowat, late of Kingston, had once said to the speaker "the party that takes up the temperance question will be a winner. In a few years the temperance wave will cover the entire continent. It was already taking hold, and the speaker regarded Mr. Mowat as a prophet.

"There is one thing we want to consider and that is that our party of to-day is in the re-making. We are not leaving the liberal principles but we are adding to them and making changes. The man who says he never makes a mistake never makes anything else. If we can develop and lift up the reform party we will be doing a great service for Ontario and Canada. (Cheers.)"

Touching on the labor question, Ald. Harrison said that his sympathy for labor came from experience, and not from reading books. He himself had to toil hard early and late and knew what it was to labor hard. In City Council he had voted for higher wages to the laboring man and had also moved to have the assessors inquire into high rents. He had also moved for the appointment of the Board of Conciliation in Kingston to deal with all labor troubles, as he realized that no person suffered more from a strike than the strikers themselves.

In his closing remarks, Ald. Harrison said he considered it a great honor to follow behind Mr. Rowell and his policy. From now on he would devote all his time to politics. The speaker was warmly applauded as he sat down.

Other Addresses

After Ald. Harrison's address the chairman called upon N. C. Polson, jr., president of the Young Liberal Club, and the latter spoke briefly. He congratulated the association on their selection of a candidate and assured Ald. Harrison of the warm support of the Young Liberal Club in the approaching election.

"This has come to be known as 'young men's day,'" he added, "and they will be lined up to elect Ald. Harrison by good majorities."

Dr. A. W. Richardson said that the liberal party had a good policy to present to the people, and reviewed some of the planks of it. Speaking about the abolition of the bar he said even the dominion government had taken a leaf out of Mr. Rowell's book, in having ruled that no drinking men be employed. The liberal policy had always been for the uplifting of the masses. Mr. Rowell had such a policy.

A. E. Weller, ex-president of the county of Frontenac Liberal Association, complimented the members on having nominated Ald. Harrison. He declared that the policy set forth by Mr. Rowell was the very best for the province and was sure to be successful.

J. G. Elliott said that in Ald. Harrison the association had a good man to fight for. He urged the members to put up a vigorous contest. In Mr. Rowell they had an able leader, and one whose policy was in the best interests of the people. With every one hard at work the city would again go into the liberal ranks on any date selected for an election.

When the speech-making concluded Ald. N. E. O'Connor moved a vote of confidence in Mr. Rowell's policy and also paid a warm tribute to the leader. This motion was seconded by Ald. W. J. B. White and carried amidst great enthusiasm.

The meeting was brought to a close with rousing cheers for Sir Wilfrid Laurier, "the grand old chief." Mr. Rowell, the candidate, and the king.

UP TO THE CHURCHES.

Exchange. The issue of the next election is up to the churches. Do they regard the present government as the friend of the temperance people or do they mean to quietly give expression to the mountain of sentiment that has gathered in liquor? Do they mean to be false to their principles and true to partisanship or do they mean to accomplish the greatest work for humanity that a province ever accomplished. Are their synods and conferences the real parliament of the nation or is the temperance element in the community a weak thing that fights only when the issue is not in sight?

LABOR INTERESTS.

How Hon. Mr. Hanna Blackened His Record. Peterboro Examiner. In the immediate vicinity of an election, the conservatives pose as great friends of the labor interests. But everybody hasn't the greatest faith in these professions. Allen Studdholme, the only labour member in the Ontario house, does not support the Whitney government. He is an honest conscientious man; not a partisan, but a thorough bred labour member. The sympathy with his ambitions for the amelioration of labour conditions of conservatives is not marked. Recently, while Mr. Studdholme was advocating in the house the eight-hour day, Sir James Whitney's conservative supporters walked out of the chamber. Friends of the Whitney government claim that that government has abolished the contract system of prison labour. The Ross government had made a beginning of abolishing this system. When the conservatives came into power Hon. Mr. Hanna thought the contract system was a fine thing and reversed the policy of the late government, and made the celebrated contract with Charlotte Taylor & company for the manufacture of woodenware, by which prison labour was let to this firm at the abnormally low price of 30 cents per day—with nothing to pay for rent, taxes, fuel, light, etc. It was the strong condemnation which this contract excited which led Mr. Hanna to investigate prison methods elsewhere and then, and not till then, did the present government inaugurate its present policy. Mr. Hanna, instead of gaining glory from his dealing with the prison contract labour system, has been blackened very much in the estimation of honest men through his prostitution of it to partisan purposes. It was Mr. Hanna who tapped the pockets of Mr. George Taylor, a prison contractor, for $500 for the conservative campaign fund, and it was the refusal of the government to permit investigation of the evident crookedness connected with this incident that has put the stain on Mr. Hanna's political character, which will never fade till thoroughly investigated—if it can do so—removes the stain.

To Cut Thousands of Ties.

The Twoed News says Messrs. W. Storings and J. Kissack have secured the contract for cutting 35,000 ties for the Rathbun company, of Deseronto. The big drive in on its way to this point. The logs intended for lumber will be loaded at Twoed and shipped by the B. of Q. railway to Deseronto but all the tie timber will be cut at this point.

Accepted in Toronto.

It was stated at the offices of the Canada Steamship Lines, Montreal, that word had been received from Toronto that the Toronto Stock Exchange had accepted the application for the listing of all the company's securities. They will be called on June 1st. The application for listing in Montreal is still under consideration.

Will be Here June 3rd.

Thomas Stewart, Deseronto, will have his horses, Jimmy Pointer and Jop in the Kingston races on June 3rd. They took first places in the recent races at Picton.

Ben Luffman, Deseronto, has sold his motor boat to Toronto parties for a tidy sum.

Three Sisters Cured of Weak, Watery Blood

A Splendid Example of the Great Blood-forming Qualities of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is in the red corpuscles of the blood that the nutritive qualities lie. If on analyzing the blood it is found to be deficient in red corpuscles the doctor will say you are anaemic, that your blood is weak and watery. But you can find out for yourself, for when the blood is weak you will be pale and your eyelids and lips will be bloodless in appearance.

Other symptoms of watery blood are indigestion, headache, feelings of weakness and fatigue and lack of energy and ambition.

There is nothing like Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to overcome this run-down condition. Here is a letter to tell you what this food-cure did in one family by curing three daughters.

Miss Edna Bancroft, Longwood, Toronto, writes on 22 1913:

was very much run down in health. The blood seemed to be weak and the nerves very much exhausted. Having heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and of its success in curing cases similar to mine, I began to use it, and was very greatly benefited by continuation of this treatment. Two of my sisters also used this medicine and found it to be a splendid means of building up the system.

We have also used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with good results. One of my nephews had pneumonia twice, and we always use this medicine for him, as we find that it breaks up a cold the quickest and best of any medicine we can get."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50. All dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.
