A DEAD FLY
May be as Dangerous as a Live One!

It is certainly more repulsive, and, if left, will breed a more disease than it is not sufficient to kill the fly. You must destroy the larva as well. These flies, if allowed to multiply, will spread disease and death. They are carrying the fly-swarmer and the unsanitary stink.
DR. WILSON'S FLY PASTE—the only really effective method of exterminating the death-dealing house-fly. They kill all dead flies left lying about.
Be careful to follow directions found in each packet.

The Daughter of David Kerr
Henry King Tootie
Illustrations by Ray Walters

"Don't you go, Turkey," she yelled.
"I'll tell you the truth," she turned to Gloria. "I want the boss had a daughter, did I?—it's a lie, Turkey.
She's not Dave Kerr's girl. He'd laugh to see a daughter of his in such a hell-hole. I'd watch her to see that, she paid the price," she glanced at Gloria maliciously, "if it had a daughter. An' yer perfectin' the man you love!" she mocked. "We'll see how the boss' daughter loves." Her laughter was terrible. The men could not think her the same woman they knew. Gloria started in alarm.
She felt the woman was mad, and did not know what she might do.
"What are you going to do?" she asked.
Now Ella was sneering at her. She knew how to choose knife-blades for words. In everything she said was the cunning and the cruelty of the woman. Gloria was suffering, she could see, but there was still another chord which would vibrate to misery.
Since time began jealousy has been a flaming sword in the hands of an unscrupulous antagonist who knows how to use it. To make Gloria think that she was defending a man untrue to her, was something. To make her believe that she had been defeated by the greater charm of Little Ella herself, was far more.
"Do you think I'd let you bid that man if he'd loved you? Never.
You don't know why he came here, but I do. He came to see me. He loves me."
She beat her breasts as she spoke to emphasize her words and her eyes sparkled with the challenge she had just hurled at the daughter of the boss. Gradually, bit by bit, the veneer of civilization had been chipped away.
Gloria no longer saw the girl that separated them. She knew only that by cozening words this other woman was trying to make her think she had been robbed of her own. Her weakness left her. Now when she summoned all her strength, she joyed to find it did not fail. As Little Ella proclaimed that the man they were hiding had come to see her, Gloria sprang to the side of the bed, and cried with all the indignation of an overwrought soul:
"You lie!"
"That's what you say, but down in your heart you know it's the truth.
It ain't the first time he's been here.
Oh, he's told me about you, the boss' daughter; but it's me he loves." The men were forgotten in this duel so elemental that it could have had the stone-age for its setting. On one side, hate as bitter as the grave; on the other, love and faith stronger than death itself.
"Every word you utter is a lie," Gloria blazed. "If you loved him you wouldn't have called these out-throats."
"Why don't you tell 'em yer the boss' daughter now?" taunted the other.
"Look here, Ella," Ryan broke in,
"we're tired o' standin' here like fools.
Quit yer gassin' an' make good."
"You'll git yours all right. She's not Dave Kerr's daughter. Don't you let her bluff you. I know where she hid 'im. I'll tell you where he is."
Gloria turned upon the men.
"I've told you the truth, and I've warned you. Don't you come a step closer." Then she threatened the woman. "If you dare to speak a—" Little Ella was not to be intimidated.
"When she dragged him in," she began, "she looked the door, an' then she—"
Gloria was standing at no great distance from the bed when Little Ella anger, and don't you dare defy the daughter of David Kerr!" She took a step forward menacingly, as if she had strength to inflict the same chastisement they had seen administered to the woman. They did not stay to argue with her. Leaving Little Ella to her fate, they made a hasty retreat.

No sooner were they out of the room than Gloria put into execution what she had designed when they departed the first time. Rushing to the door she closed it hastily and pushed the washstand in front of it, wedging it under the knob. This done, she ran back and dragged Wright from his hiding place. There was no thought of the woman whose head hung over the side of the bed in such ghastly fashion.
Gloria lifted his head and dashed water upon his face. She watched him closely, and as she saw that it had no effect upon him, a sudden fear seized her and her cheeks were flushed. With trembling fingers she tore at his shirt and felt for the beat of his heart. She could feel its faint pulsation. He lived.
With a wild cry she flung herself forward in a deep swoon upon the body of the unconscious man.

CHAPTER XXI.
The one person who could have told how Joe Wright had come to visit Mike Noonan's lodging house was David Kerr. He had sprung the trap himself, never dreaming that his own daughter would be caught in it. When the fight on the Interurban Railway had first started, at command of the boss, Jack Durken, a ward-heeler, apparently had gone over to the opposite. The man had found employment in the circulation department of the News, and soon afterward the information reached Wright that one of his own employees was a former henchman

The Thought of Physical Injury Did Not Occur to Him.
of the notorious first ward leader, Mike Noonan. Durken was loud in his denunciations of David Kerr and his followers, and appeared willing to betray whatever he knew of the methods of the gang.
The editor found him a fountain of information regarding the shady polycies of Belmont. In reality Durken told only what David Kerr ordered him to tell. Wishing to establish Wright's confidence in the man, Kerr had him disclose many things of slight importance that were absolutely authentic.
(To be continued.)
To Become an Architect.
Edmonton, Alta., June 5.—Alice C.
Mabiot, a girl of French-Canadian extraction, who successfully passed the examinations in architecture at the University of Alberta, yesterday, has become an active member of the Alberta Association of Architects. She is said to be the only woman architect in the dominion of Canada.
To Boost Oxford County.
Woodstock, June 5.—Oxford county council decided to invite the co-operation of Woodstock and Ingersoll in an advertising campaign of the advantages of Oxford county. It is likely that the three municipalities will combine in the proposal.

MINISTER SEEKING DIVORCE Wife Objected to Love Vibrations of Her Husband.

New York, June 5.—Discord in the love vibrations of the Rev. Frank W.
Sears and his wife, Mrs. Julia Ses-ton Sears, both New Thought leaders here, and Concord in Sears' vibrations with Miss Pauline Langdon, "prettiest girl in the New Thought church," were set forth here before Supreme court Justice Giegerich and a jury in Mrs. Sears' suit for divorce.
Statements that Sears and Miss Langdon "cuddled" on the street, that they often visited New York hotels by night, that they took a trip to Europe together, were to be explained by Miss Langdon when she took the stand in Sears' defence.
"Misleading angle" from her New Thought church also testified for Mrs.
Sears were affidavits from hosts from the Harmony Club, a rival association, of which Sears is pastor. Of the latter Mrs. Harry S. Collins, who said she had plenty of leisure time, swore she and other members of Sears' club paid for the pastor's visits to Europe.
"Who paid for Miss Langdon's trip?" asked Edward Biscox, Mrs.
Sears' counsel.
"I don't know," was the reply. "I suppose she paid for it herself." John P. Rilly, proprietor of the Hotel Maryland, where Miss Langdon lived, said he never saw wrong in Sears' frequent visits to Miss Langdon's rooms. He admitted that Sears might have called at other times for lengthy stays when he was out.
"My wife makes me take her to the theatre occasionally," he said. "That's my only diversion. My wife is the boss."
ALLY OF INTEMPERANCE
Anglican Clergyman Makes Remarkable Declaration.
Winnipeg, June 5.—At the sitting of the Anglican synod, when the question of temperance was under discussion, Rev. J. J. Roy made the remarkable declaration that the Anglican church as a whole was not sympathetic to temperance reform. "But it is a tendency in our church to stand by the liquor interests," Mr. Roy said. He said that the people were inclined to favor the "banish the bar" proposal as a whole, but that at the synod my temperance reform proposal was defeated every time it was introduced.
Other speakers followed along the same line.
The afternoon session of the synod was marked by a warm discussion on a motion introduced by Rev. G. H.
Broughall, asking for investigation of the matter of drunkenness in the province of Manitoba and urging the synod to do something to try to get amendments to the present law regarding inebriety. Hon. G. R. Cold-well interrupted the speaker, and asked "Why single out drunkenness? Are there no other evils to investigate?"
"This looks like a very sinister thing to me," said Mr. Coldwell. "You are touching a very delicate question. Because of the position I occupy, I should not say much, but this is a question upon which I should advise the synod to go gently." Rev. G. H. Broughall condemned the present system of punishing drunkenness. He also declared that as much drunkenness was due to disease and insanity, provision should be made for compulsory treatment in hospitals or asylums.

CHURCH WAS CAUTIOUS.
Assembly Message Silent on Political Situation.
London, June 5.—A deputation of the Scottish Free church to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church of Ireland presented a very cautious greeting to the Maynard Garden party reception held at Belfast, their official message conveying the assurance of sympathy, while giving no decision on the political question.
Dr. Ross, 9th member of the deputation, expressed himself as doubtful as to whether, despite the allegations of Protestants would not offer, if the Catholic church had increased opportunities giving scope to the peculiar genius of her ecclesiastical system. Unless an amending bill obviated this danger, they were confronted with the risk of an appalling national disaster.
Sir Edward Carson was present at the reception.

ATTACKED BELFAST EDITORS.
Militant Suffragettes Resented Articles Condemning Campaign Belfast, Ireland, June 5.—Militant suffragettes committed serious assaults on the managing editors of two of the leading newspapers of Belfast, which had expressed criticism of the militant campaign.
Two well-dressed women, one of them a giantess, went to the Belfast Telegraph office and were ushered into the editor's room. Without speaking a word the giantess walked straight up to Mr. Stewart, the managing editor, and with her clenched fist knocked him out of his chair. At the same time her campanion hurled a smudge bottle at his hand.
The irate women then proceeded to the News Letter office and made a similar attack on Mr. Anderson, managing editor of that newspaper, with the result that he has since been confined to bed and is under surgical treatment.

WOUNDED BY DEAD HAND.
Tourist Taking Revolver From Substle Was Shot.
Bern, Switzerland, June 5.—A remarkable accident occurred yesterday near Wild Egg. Some tourists were walking upon the body of a man who had evidently committed suicide by shooting himself. The right hand still clutched tightly a revolver. One of the tourists attempted to remove the weapon, and while he was releasing the dead man's fingers from the trigger, the revolver went off. The bullet pierced the tourist's chest, and he is so badly wounded that a fatal result is feared.
