Don't Swat That Fly

Swatting flies is unsanitary and dangerous because it always leaves the disease germs to be distributed through the house when dry. WILSON'S FLY PADS kill both flies and disease germs, and they kill them all. Just think of it! One ten-cent packet of WILSON'S FLY PADS has actually killed a bushel of flies. No other fly killer gives results at all approaching this. All druggists and grocers sell WILSON'S FLY PADS.

The Daughter of David Kerr

One of the charges continuously brought against the machine was that it was colonizing floaters in lodging houses in the low, thickly-populated river wards. Durken even admitted it when Wright asked about it, and several days later suggested a tour of inspection. The blood of the star reporter warmed in the editor's veins. The idea was tantalizing. It was one of those stories a good man would sacrifice half a year's salary to handle.

Without saying anything to anyone the owner of the News thought of the expedition for several days. The more he thought of it, the more it appealed to him. The more it appealed to him the less was the likelihood of his considering the axiom that in battle it is a general's duty not to get hurt. In fact, the thought of physical injury did not occur to him. He was a stranger to Belmont, no one knew him, and in the daytime there was no danger.

When Wright finally decided to investigate personally it was only a few days before the election. He determined that he would wander down into the first ward two days before the votes were cast to gather material for his story. The next afternoon, just on the eve of the election, his final attack on the machine would be an expose of ring methods of handling vagabond voters imported for the occasion.

This programme was being carried out as originally planned, notwithstanding the break with Gloria the previous day, when Wright was induced to go through Noonan's "hotel." Here, deserted by Durken, who had been his guide, he had fallen into the hands of Turkey Ryan and Buck Kelly. Although dazed by the unexpectedness of the attack, he had nevertheless managed to give a good account of himself. The cramped attic quarters in which they had fought had been in his favor. The two bruisers had been surprised by what a scientific boxer could do in a rough-and-tumble fight. To the momentary indecision resulting from his good defense Wright owed his escape from the room in which he had been trapped.

a personal matter. The day previous Gloria had denounced him and cried aloud for vengeance. He recognized that had Gloria not been mixed up in the affair the result might have been the same, but the personal element was what made him hold his peace.

The news that the day had been carried for good government was only a temporary incident. There were a few moments of exhilaration when his real feelings were submerged in the general rejoicing that David Kerr had been given a more severe set-back than he had ever before received. Then came the ebb of the tide, leaving him on the desolate shore of disheartening uncertainty. The past was a nightmare and the future a blank.

It would be impossible for him to avoid Gloria altogether. He was frank enough to acknowledge to himself that he would undoubtedly seek those places where there would be some certainty of his meeting her. To be in the same town with her meant that he could not give her up. Yet he knew that any overtures he might make would be worse than useless. He felt that her prejudice was such that there could never be matrimony in unholiness without which matrimony is unholy.

Having made up his mind, Wright went to bed, but not to sleep. The few remaining hours of darkness he rolled and tossed. It was not the bruises he had received in the fight at Noonan's that kept him awake, annoying as they were. It was always the one, thought—Gloria, Gloria, Gloria.

When the packing was about completed the little girl remembered that she had brought a doll with her. In searching for it in a pile of clothing beside Wright's trunk she felt something hard. To satisfy her curiosity she drew it forth, to discover, instead of her doll, that it was a framed picture of a young woman. It was a picture of Gloria which had appeared in a weekly society paper.

Ask Your Doctor

You may cough tomorrow! Better be prepared for it when it comes. Ask your doctor about keeping Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house. Then when the hard cold or cough first appears you have a doctor's medicine at hand. Your doctor's approval of its use will certainly set all doubt at rest.

with him. He had finally placed it under a pile of clothing beside his steamer trunk. "It's extremely good of you to find that picture," the man remarked with the gravity he sometimes assumed in treating Patty as one of equal years and "understanding." "I doubt if I should have found it."

"I was hunting for my dolly, and looked under a pile of things and found the pretty picture lady," she gazed at the picture of Gloria admiringly. "Really, Patty, you astonish me! Your perspicacity is exceeded only by your perseverance. I don't think I should ever have found that picture. Just leave it on the table there, and don't—if you love me—lose your dolly any more, please; at least not until all my things are securely packed."

Patty was just on the point of asking the name of the young woman who had so taken her fancy, when the door-bell rang. With the announcement that no one was at home and she had to answer the bell, she scampered off. Wright picked up the picture and gazed at it intently. He was sacrificing all for her. Was the sacrifice worth while? The question would have been an idle one. He loved her, had never loved anyone else and never would love anyone else. No sacrifice was too great which would mean any increased happiness for her. The sound of some one being brought to his rooms by Patty caused him to put the picture hastily face downward on the table. The door opened to admit Dr. Hayes.

"Good afternoon, Mr. Wright," he exclaimed cordially as he came forward with hand outstretched. "I hope you'll let an opponent drop in to congratulate you on winning the election."

"That Surely Was a Raw Frame-Up They Handed You."

has done nothing but read the riot act to me for the last two days."

"I imagine Mrs. Hayes is a purist in politics."

"Well, I can't blame her," the doctor admitted. "She's been poking around down in the river wards, and that surely was a raw frame-up they handed you. She got onto it, and she's dead sore."

"Well, I'll be darned!" "Don't; there's no occasion for it now—you're out of politics. The first thing I knew was when I heard Dr. Norton say, 'He's coming to, all right.'"

Soon Hayes picked up his hat to go. He stood for an instant, as if inviting Wright to speak. As he did not do so, the visitor asked, thinking of Gloria the while:
