Then, take education. What the house to say of a punitive sys- work for our convict classes. children of fifteen and sixteen are penitentiary is a punitive institution, that the judges send men there ou may in an odd case, but is not the thing worth trying when you have twenty or thirty boys to consider? And has society no duty to these children? I have known a boy fifteen, in knickerbockers brought to Kingston handcuffed to a man who had been guilty most helnous and revolting crime. That child was sent to the penitentiary for stealing a workman's tools You may say that that is a matter for judges to decide. That is not the case; for these questions do before the judges. The question of the punishment to be meted out to these children often comes before the local magistrate. It is not always the character of the crime that determines whether the children shall go to penitentiary or not but it is often the discretion of the magistrate as to the term: two years and over you go to the pen tentiary; less than two years and that if the administration of justice s to be left to magistrates who do not appreciate the distinction lary, then this country has a duty that a boy of fifteen or sixteen years that they are educated so that when their terms have expired they will better fitted to resume their oc- less be submits.

You have no right or liberty to take it upon your-'selves to cease publishing your pa-"pers at your pleasure or convenience." Think of it! The Daily Newspaper exists by the mandate of the people. It alone among all publications may not continue or cease at its pleasure, for it holds its charter from the people whose servant it is

Then think of this:-

Have those other servants people-the merchants who supply them with their daily necessities any right to be silent with respect to the news they have for those who depend on them? Has not the public a right to demand that the news of the stores shall be published along with other news of value and interest? We put it up to the people of this community and to the merchants of this city that the store news of this community is necessary news and should appear regularly in the public press at all seasons of the year. Think of this, you merchants of this city.
