NO TRUTH IN STORY

THAT EMPRESS' STEERING GEAR WAS OUT OF ORDER.

Capt. Kendall Denied Quartermaster Golway's Story—Lord Mersey Jumps on the Storstad's Lawyer.

Quebec, June 19.—A sensation was sprung in the Empress of Ireland enquiry investigation, yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Haight, counsel for the Storstad, informed the court that the Empress would not steer and that three hours before the collision at Father Point she almost ran down the Alden in the river. The chief engineer of the Empress, Mr. Sampson, had just said that there had been no complaints of her steering when Mr. Haight launched his bomb. It was a thriller and soon Lord Mersey was at the point.

The story Mr. Haight gave the court implied that the C.P.R. officials had made an attempt to get the quartermaster, who was at the wheel of the Empress between ten and twelve o'clock the night previous to the accident, out of the country, as he declared that for five minutes the night before she was lost, she almost ran down the Alden in that time.

Mr. Haight said that he was a quartermaster of the Empress and wanted to see me. I asked him if he was a witness, and he said he was not. I hesitated a little, and then told him to come up to the hotel. I sent for my partner in the case and we heard the story. He said that, on the night previous to the accident, he had been at the wheel, and that the ship had refused to answer her wheel for five minutes, and that she had almost run down another ship. He said that the C.P.R. wanted to send him home to England on the C.P.R. ship Montreal. He showed a letter to the captain of the ship signed by Capt. Walsh, marine superintendent of the company, asking that he be signed on and taken home as he was a survivor of the Empress.

Mr. Haight said that the statements were so grave that he summoned Mr. Newcombe and Alexander Johnston, deputy minister of marine, and they heard the story. Then the man was subpoenaed to give his evidence.

Lord Mersey said: "Who is the man?" His name is Golway and he is at the Neptune Inn. "I advise that you get him out of that place at once," said Lord Mersey promptly.

Lord Mersey added that he thought Mr. Haight ought to be very careful in making such a charge against the C.P.R.

Mr. Haight said he regretted that he had to say that it looked as if the C.P.R. was trying to get Golway out of the country.

The man will be heard this afternoon and Mr. Haight said that he had served notice on the pilot of the Alden and two of that ship's officers to be on hand at the afternoon's hearing.

It was also suggested that a trimmer named Fournier, who had stated that the Empress was moving rapidly at the time of the accident, was missing, having left Quebec with a C.P.R. official.

Lord Mersey jumped on Mr. Haight for holding this information up his sleeve and immediately called Capt. Walsh, marine superintendent of the C.P.R., who denied that there was any desire to get rid of either man.

Capt. Kendall also denied that Golway's story was true as he did the stories that the Empress came up the river and steered badly.

Capt. Walsh, marine superintendent of the C.P.R., gave an emphatic denial, when called, to the story that his company had attempted to send Quartermaster Golway out of the country, so that he could not give damaging evidence at the inquiry.

TO MAKE MEXICO HEALTHY.
Surgeon-General of U. S. Army Responsible for Soldiers.

Dr. William Crawford Gorgas is surgeon-general of the United States army, and in that capacity is responsible for the health not only of the men of the army of invasion—if there is an army of invasion—but also for the health of the invaded.

That is a job that is thoroughly to Gorgas' liking. There never was such a thorough-going, enthusiastic sanitarian as he. He fairly shames his seniors with Colonel Goetzals for his successful digging of the Panama Canal. It could not have been dug without the perfect sanitation he achieved. That was sufficiently demonstrated by the French, who could dig all right, but died too rapidly while they were at the digging. Gorgas and Goetzals were fair counterbalances for each other. Therefore they quarrelled. It has been no secret for years that the two great men did not get along even a little bit on that canal work. Goetzals was all for efficiency and low costs. Gorgas was all for efficiency and high expense. The combination was perhaps a more successful one than an inspired genius could have planned.

TEMPERANCE LEGISLATION

The Toronto Globe deals effectively with the charge that the Ross government gave no effective temperance legislation.

Bearing in mind that the liberal party had already passed the Crooks act, under which the number of liquor licenses in the province has been reduced from 6,000 to less than 3,000, and the Local Option act, as well as enacted most of the license legislation now on the statute books, what follows will be illuminating:

The liberal policy was to revise the License act periodically, and during his "no amendments" period from 1898 to 1904, Mr. Hanna has deliberately ignored this fact. Had he gone back another year he would have been forced to admit that in 1897 alone more radical and progressive amendments to the license law had been passed than during the whole term of the Whitney government. Among them were the abolition of saloons as distinguished from hotel licenses; the reduction of the ratio of licenses to population from four for first 1,000 to three with one additional for each additional 600 instead of 400; all hotels in townships, villages and unorganized territory to close at ten o'clock and at eleven in cities and towns. Before 1897 there were no fixed hours for closing hotels in thirty-seven out of ninety-seven license districts in the province, and in these cases hotels were often open all night. The prohibition of sales of liquor to all persons under twenty-one. No license could be granted to premises within 300 yards of a church, school, university or other educational institution. Provision was made for preventing the issue of licenses in residential districts. Licenses were forfeited for three separate convictions on different days within two years, and the licensee disqualified from holding a license for three years.

The Whitney government has passed some legislation to amend and improve the License and Local Option legislation; but it also enacted the three-fifths handicap, which has prevented more than 1,200 licenses being cut out contrary to the will of a majority of the people.

Notes About Baseball—Toronto Playing Better.

Joe Jackson, the Cleveland slugger, will be out of the game probably a month. Dr. Castle, the Nap physician, ordered the player to bed saying he had water on the knee. Jackson had not played for four days.

The sale of Jack Dunn's Baltimore International league team to Richmond is practically settled. Dunn admits an offer, and has referred the deal to the National Commission. It is said his best players will be sold to the big leagues, and all in readiness to extend the International circuit to the Virginia capital.

Georges Carpentier, the heavy-weight champion pugilist of Europe, has been asked to act as referee of the Johnson-Moran fight, which is to be held in Paris on June 21. Numerous others, Americans and Frenchmen, have been proposed as referee of the Johnson-Moran fight, acceptable to both sides. It is said that the French boxer will accept.

"Eddie" Collins, the great second baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, is reported to have been offered a $25,000 salary to jump to the Federals. Collins admits to having received an offer, but says he will stick to the Athletics until his contract expires before considering any offer to jump into a new league.

The British victory in the International polo contest, coming on top of the failure of the American efforts to make a showing in the Old Country, and Oxford's win in the relay race rather makes it look as if the United States is in for a bad year. The worst is still to come if all the reports are correct as to the speed of the Shamrock IV. It will be the crowning blow to our "American cousins' pride if Sir Thomas was to win the yacht race.

Toronto Globe.
The Leafs left home a week ago today and have since played nine games, seven of which they have won. They beat Montreal three out of four, and took four games in five from Jersey City. The winning of seven games in nine on the road, even against Montreal and Jersey City, is no mean achievement. Toronto is playing vastly superior ball on the road to that which they played at home. The team is hitting very hard, while the pitchers are commencing to show the form which was expected of them earlier in the season.

Not Business.
An old showman tells this one: "I was connected with a weird imitation of a circus, with side-show attachment, that used to do the fair of the Middle West. Among the curiosities we had a lovely cannibal, who, lightly clad, used to toy with a spear and glare at the audience in the most frightful manner. "One day there came to the tent where we displayed this feature a clergyman. After gazing a while at the man on the platform, he turned and asked an attendant. "Is this really a cannibal?" "Surest thing you know," said the attendant. "Do you know how he was captured? That great living curiosity was taken, sir, in the act of boiling an aged Methodist minister over a slow fire."

The clergyman was horrified. "Then convert him!" he cried. "Oh, my friend, why don't you convert him?" "The attendant made a gesture of disgust. "Convert him!" he repeated. "Do you think that the public would pay 10 cents a head to see a Christian?"

Procession Check.
Montreal Gazette.
Mr. George Wentworth Carr, a Philadelphia lawyer is to make a test in court of the right of the police to suspend traffic on the streets when a procession is being held. He was hurrying to the Brown street station to catch a train and attempted to cross an open space in a suffrage parade, with the result that he was arrested.

Popular support should be on his side. If the streets of a city are to be tied up because this or that organization wishes to show its strength, it should at least be possible for the police to make way for a citizen going about his legitimate business.

Heber have wings only for the departing trip.

Electric Charwoman.
Machinery has now invaded the field of the charwoman for an electric scrubbing machine has just come into use. It is a little push cart, supplied with electric power through a cable connected with a lamp socket. The operator simply pushes it over the marble floor and controls its operations by levers on the cart handle. A set of brushes revolve on the floor, while a little stream of water trickles down through them from a tank.

Powdered soap is fed to the water in easily-regulated amounts. As the cart is pushed ahead the dirty water is swept up to a pipe and a little pump sucks it up from the floor.

Flight of the House Fly.
At a meeting of the Cambridge Philosophical Society, Dr. E. Hindle described some experiments which he made with G. Merriman in order to determine the House Fly's range of flight. During the course of the experiments about twenty-five thousand flies were released under various conditions of weather and temperature. No less than fifty observing stations were arranged where the flies were caught in traps or on fly paper. In order to identify them they had been dusted with red or yellow chalk powder. The experiments showed that the flies winged their way either directly against the wind or obliquely to it. This phenomenon has also been observed in the case of other insects as well as birds. The greatest distance covered by a fly was 700 meters, and a large part of this lay over open ground. In densely crowded cities, Dr. Hindle does not believe that the fly travels more than 400 meters. In order to secure the widest distribution, fine weather and warmth are necessary. Flies which were released in the afternoon were not so widely distributed as those which were released in the morning.
