The Price of Love

By ARNOLD BENNETT. An entirely new kind of "who-stole-the-money" story, told at lightning speed. In the first pages the reader is brought face to face with an extraordinary situation. The interest which the six characters find in all the details of life is intense—Bennett's own contagious interest. Youthful love, youthful intolerance, youthful oblivion of all but self and the moment, are embodied in the heroine. So feminine is she in her strength and ignorance, in her insight into her husband's weakness, and in her love which must spend itself whether the object is worthy or not.

COLD WAVE HIT CITY

OVERCOATS WERE IN DEMAND ON FRIDAY NIGHT.

Old Probs Evidently Slipped a Cog—Cold Weather Followed the Heavy Shower of Rain.

"Gee, but isn't it cold!" How often did you hear this expression on Friday night? Surely the weather man must have slipped a cog. Such weather as Old Probs handed out after that beautiful shower of rain was certainly enough to dampen the spirits of the most enthusiastic baseball fan. Panama hats were discarded and straw "hats" and all kinds had to take a back seat. Overcoats were donned again and they did not go and Princess street looked rather deserted all evening, and the cool weather was to blame. The calendar put it down for June 19th, but it was more like a night in the late fall.

Stoves and furnaces given a rest from their winter's labor were again brought into service, and made work overtime.

A local hockey fan by way of a joke called the Whig office and wanted to know if it was cold enough for hockey. Another joker suggested skating. Lawn bowlers and baseball teams took a night off. It was too cold to enjoy the sport. Everybody was talking about the cold weather.

WHY WOMEN FIGHT BAR.

The most effective speech in this campaign has come from Alderman Mabee, one of the liberal-temperance candidates in the Toronto, the district in which George Gooderham is one of the conservative candidates.

"Last night at a meeting," said the alderman, "a speaker told me a boy taking a drunken father home, and after getting the father successfully past the doors of three barrooms he failed at the fourth, and that little boy cursed the barroom. That boy was me. I made a vow at the time that if God ever gave me the chance, which I know He will, and He has, I would do all in my power to fight the evil. Is there anything to compare with the feelings of a woman and her children who have prepared themselves for a holiday to find that the father is drunk and the whole thing spoilt?"

What is the hydro-electric bill and the Workmen's Compensation act compared to the feelings of that woman and those children who are disgraced by a drunken father?"

A LABOR DEPUTATION

Waited Upon Board of Works About Future Contracts.

A committee from the Trades and Labor Council waited upon the Board of Works, on Friday afternoon, to ask that in future contracts let by the Board of Works, a clause be inserted providing that workmen residents of the city be given the preference and that overtime be paid at the rate of time and a half. Their request will be followed out.

The chief spokesman declared that the conditions still existing with regard to the Princess street road paving contract were a disgrace. Foreigners were taken on, while Kingston workmen were not given work. "The contractors are violating every promise they made to the Board of Works. There are only a few local men that hold jobs. Kingston men were engaged at the start, but they're not there now. It's easy to work a man off a job when you don't want him. That's what's being done on Princess street."

Ald. Fair said that the labor council should present the board with a list of the men who had grievances so that each case could be investigated.

One of the labor representatives said he had given the mayor a list of thirty names. "The conditions are disgraceful," he said. "We are not asking favors; we are simply asking justice. If the Board of Works should do something about this Princess street contract."

Ald. Sutherland wanted to know if the city was entitled to see the contractors' pay list. Ald. Litton said it was not.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

A Citizen Points Out Some Things Kingston Needs.

Writing to the Whig, a citizen comments the good work done by the chairman of the Board of Works, Ald. Litton, and adds: "I would suggest as a business man of buying up-to-date machinery and burying the tin pail or watering can, such as was used last year. Buy it even we have to put out debarment. No business gets ahead without getting in debt. So it should be in cities. Look at Toronto.

"Pave the streets; and the people will take out their savings and build houses, and the city will thus get results in taxes and we will soon have a modern city."

The Case Was Adjourned

The case of M. Switzer against the Dominion Construction company for alleged decrease of the value of his farm and being deprived of the use of his crossing over the C.P.R., Godfrey's last pit siding, was adjourned Friday by Judge Lavell until June 30th unless the plaintiff is notified that the crossing has been completed, at an earlier date.

The News From Outside

The Port Arthur Chronicle remarks: A dispatch from Kingston reports a layman stalling out of church because the clergyman commended Mr. Rowell's stand on temperance. It is likely that if the clergyman had praised the government the same man would have doubted his collection.
