Long Hunger Strike
The longest hunger strike on record was carried on some years ago by a Frenchman, called Granie, who was arrested for murder in circumstances which led no doubt as to his guilt. He determined to starve himself to death in order to escape the guillotine, and from the day of his arrest refused to eat in spite of every effort on the part of the prison authorities, who first tempted him by placing the most dainty meals in his cell, and when that failed, attempted forcible feeding. Granie held out for sixty-three days, at the end of which time he died.—London Chronicle.
