LOVE AND MARRIAGE SWAM AFTER CASPIAN

ADDRESS AT Y.W.C.A. BY MRS. CARR-HARRIS.

Who Showed That in Wedded Life the Husband is the Centre of Reference as Christ is in the Christian Life.

There was a good attendance at the vesper meeting on the tennis lawn of the Y.W.C.A. on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. R. Carr-Harris spoke on "Love and Marriage."

She said it was not her purpose to speak of love in its various phases, its meaning, its promise, what it should be for its fullest realization, nor was it to advise those present on the subject of marriage inasmuch as she did not wish to be another voice discarded, but to use the subject as an illustration of the Christian life.

True wedded life begins with love and an engagement. In precisely the same way does the Christian life begin. Love for the world's greatest lover leads to an engagement to walk life's pathway in fellowship and of self surrender.

There has been much discussion as to whether the word "obey" should be omitted from the marriage ceremony. While circumstances often justify the wisdom of the omission, there can be no ideal union without entire subjection to the head and there cannot be two heads to one flesh.

In the life of faith there is no room for discussion as to whether our Lord should dominate us. It is obligating that we allow Him to sway us that we yield to His will in all things great and small. Before marriage we do as we will. Self is our centre of reference but when we enter the higher sphere of wedded life all this is changed. The husband becomes the centre of reference. We begin to do as he likes. We arrange all matters social and domestic to please him. So is it in the Christian life. He should rule because of what He is. The king of all things, the greatest of lovers, the hero of all ages. It would be infrigid to deny Him. His rightful place as our Lord or to be trespasser on His wishes. Christ should dominate our bodies. Hands, feet, lips should move at the impulse of His love. He should dominate tune. We cannot estimate the possibilities wrapped up in moments. He should exercise lordship over our money and thus multiply our opportunities, influence and truthfulness, over our thoughts, over our will.

Mrs. Carr-Harris closed with an earnest appeal to all to yield themselves to the mastering and lordship of Christ.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the mission and Devotional Committee under the leadership of Miss Florence King.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD

Attended Service in Cooke's Church, Sunday Morning.

The Woodmen of the World attended divine service at Cooke's Presbyterian church on Sunday morning. Some fifty strong, headed by the Salvation Army band, marched to this church and were addressed by Rev. J. W. MacIntosh, who preached a forceful sermon to them. He took his text from Romans xi-13: "For I speak to you Gentiles, inasmuch as I am the apostle of the Gentiles, I magnify mine office." The preacher laid stress upon the obligations which a society must perform if it is to flourish and maintain a true Christian bearing. The speaker had in his possession a copy of the rules and regulations which govern the Woodmen of the World society, which he read and showed that although the society had many good points of interest it still showed discrimination. For instance one regulation pertained to a line being drawn whereby it made it impossible for a colored man to be a member.

Mr. MacIntosh claimed that funeral services when conducted by fraternal societies were never so impressive as when performed by the clergy of the church. He closed by saying that if the Woodmen discharged their obligations they would lead them to an exalted place and cause them to be able to exercise more worth obligations.

DR. HAIG LOST CASE.

Patient at Campbellford Gets Verdict of $1,200.

Chief Justice Falconbridge gave judgment at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, confirming the award of $1,200 damages given by a jury to Charles H. Cassan, of Campbellford, against Dr. Andrew Haig, of the same town, for alleged negligence in his treatment of the plaintiff. From the records it appeared that in June of last year the plaintiff consulted the defendant for eye trouble. After examining the man's optic Dr. Haig injected something, presumably cocaine, into it. Instead of effecting a cure or relieving the pain, it was intensified. In fact the plaintiff alleged that he was temporarily deprived of his sight and the eye was permanently injured. The defence was that no mistake had been made, the treatment given being the usual one in such cases, and that the symptoms complained of were due to the progress of the malady, which might have been remedied by further treatment.

The chief justice said he concurred in the verdict of the jury, and in his opinion there was no doubt but what the defendant made a serious mistake. The plaintiff was entitled to damage and the amount awarded by the jury was very moderate considering the nature of the injuries caused.

Dr. Haig is a former superintendent of the Kingston general hospital.
