THE SPORT REVIEW

A CHANGE IN OTTAWA RUGBY MAY OCCUR.

Westminster to Be Dropped in Pacific Coast Hockey League—Comments on the Welsh-Ritchie Battle. The Brockville Rowing Club has concluded a very successful mid-summer regatta in which nine crews competed. The final narrowest race the four strokes by Addie Stoney and J. Curran, and after a good race the trophies were captured by the former, who has a length and a half to spare at the finish.

Bruce McFarland, who is just home from Vancouver, reports that there will be a four club professional hockey league in the west next winter, consisting of Victoria, Vancouver, Portland and Seattle. New Westminster will be dropped as it has always been a losing proposition. The rink in Portland has been built and work has begun on the arena in Seattle. The New Westminster team will be transferred to Seattle, and other western players used for the Portland team. Frank Patrick has received a hurry-up call to Montreal to install the artificial ice plant in the arena of that city.

"After Fred wins the world's championship we will return to Los Angeles, become American citizens and live here permanently," declared Mrs. Freddie Welsh, wife of the new lightweight champion, just before she left Los Angeles for London to see her husband defeat Willie Ritchie. Welsh owns a beautiful residence at Ocean Park and is also a heavy investor in local real estate, both city and country. Mrs. Welsh gave birth to a daughter the day her husband landed in London to begin training for the Ritchie fight. The Welshes are expected at Los Angeles within a month.

Packey McFarland announces that he will re-enter the ring and challenge Welsh, the new title-holder, for the championship. Packey holds one decision over Welsh, and thinks he can still beat the Welshman. "He has long been regarded as perhaps the cleverest boxer in the United States, but local sporting men are skeptical as to his ability to make weight as a legitimate lightweight and still be strong.

Ottawa Journal: A prominent rugby star of a few years back last night made a suggestion in regard to the local teams. He would have the Ottawa club break away from the Big Four and, with Ottawa College, the M.A.A.A. and the Montreal Shamrocks form an eastern league in which each club would play only two games away and four at home.

By this means the heavy travelling expenses entailed by membership in the Big Four could be done away with, and, in the probable event of the Argonauts and the Tigers also forming a four-club inter-city league a final could be played at the end of the season.

It is understood that this scheme has already been put under way, the Britannias and Ottawa College being the local teams. Guy Boyce, the moving spirit of the proposed Britannia team, will not be in town this fall, and his absence may make it difficult to round out a team from the Brit club and may mean that the Brits will not have a team on the field this year in any league.

DISMISSED ARMED GUARD.

Col. Denison Refused to Permit Breach of Camp Regulations. Montreal, July 10.—Col. Septimus Denison, commanding the 4th (Montreal) military division, is the central figure in an awkward military incident at Three Rivers camp.

Since the Montreal church parade of the 6th regiment orders have been issued emphasizing the regulation that the carrying of rifles at church parades is forbidden. As a compliment to Col. Denison, who is a Protestant, he was invited to attend mass at the 11th infantry brigade camp, and accepted. The regiment, which are entirely Roman Catholic, had formed a three-sided square with the altar at the open side. There was a large church parade, and, under Captain E. Bourassa, a full company of the 65th regiment was posted as a guard of honor, with fixed bayonets, and the officers with drawn swords before the altar, in order to present arms at a certain portion of the service.

The divisional commander was received inside the square by the brigade commander, and observed the guard presenting arms. "Dismiss the guard," he said quietly to the brigade commander, and remained where he was until the command was carried out.

EMPIRE MUST UNITE.

Premier Borden's Speech at Halifax Basis of Warning. London, July 10.—Borden's speech at Halifax is read in conjunction with Balfour's remarkable interpretation of Chamberlain's empire policy in the commons Monday.

The Manchester Courier uses Borden's speech as the text for a warning to the statesmen of the empire that they must get closer together to meet new world dangers. "Lord Salisbury's conception of the grouping of European powers, has been largely successful in preventing war, but shrewd statesmen like Borden are not blind to the dangerous side of such a system, the risk that England will be drawn in to a quarrel not her own. Canada will help pay the piper if also allowed to voice in calling the tune."

POLLUTION FROM PETAWAWA

Pembroke, July 10.—Pembroke's water is polluted and the town is threatened with an epidemic of typhoid fever. The contamination is generally believed to have come from sewage running into the Ottawa river from Petawawa military camp, where at one time this summer more than 8,000 men were in camp.

Went to the Dogs.

Bishop Turner, during the recent Methodist conference in Alaska, told a story about a missionary bishop among the Eskimos.

"This bishop," he said, "attended a synod, coming south by sledges and canoe, a six weeks' journey. He was welcomed joyously, but when he rose to speak, he said his church had gone to the dogs."

"Yes, my dear brothers," he went on, "I had a church, a real church, last year. I had to build it to satisfy the zeal of my Eskimo converts."

"And what a church I built! There is no wood in my diocese, and so we used wales' ribs for rafters, and a walrus hide for walls and roof. It was a good church; it held a congregation of 70."

AN INNOCENT OFFICER

WHO WENT TO PRISON TO SAVE HIS WIFE.

An Attempt is Now Being Made to Have the Decision in His Case Reversed.

London, July 10.—The story of a British army officer's determination to undergo penal servitude rather than defend himself at his wife's expense, although she was proved guilty, is told in a document sent to all members of parliament by Sir Herbert Raphael, M.P., who is trying to secure a rehearing of the case of Lieut. Cecil Aylmer Cameron, of the Royal Artillery, and his wife, who were both convicted in 1911 of fraudulently claiming $24,000 insurance on a pearl necklace which Mrs. Cameron said had been stolen from her, but which she never even possessed.

Lieut. Cameron refused to go into the witness-box at the trial to prove his non-complicity in the fraud for fear of making his wife's case worse. The result was that both were sentenced to three years' penal servitude. The husband served two years of his sentence, but the wife was released after a few weeks owing to a dangerous illness. Mrs. Cameron, fearing that she was about to die, made a complete confession exonerating her husband. She showed that she had duped him, and that up to the very last she had feared to confess her deception lest she should lose his love.

A petition, remarkable for the names of the signatories, has been addressed to his majesty asking for a rehearing of the case. It contains the confession and other evidence which Mr. Cameron knew, but refused to give at the trial. The Scottish secretary, Mr. McKinnon Wood, has persistently refused to advise his majesty to grant the petition, which was signed by Cameron of Lochiel, the head of the clan; five dukes, including the Duke of Norfolk, the premier peer of England; Lord Lansdowne and five other marquises; Lord Roberts, Lord Grey, Lord Cromer, and Lord Selborne; 126 generals; nine judges, two archbishops and 17 bishops; a long list of officers, peers, barristers, professors, doctors and others, numbering more than 4,000.

Lord Middleton and Lord Denbigh are going to bring the matter forward in the house of lords and Sir Herbert Raphael in the House of Commons.

BONES TURNED TO CHALK.

New Haven Patient Succumbs to Disease Which Puzzled Doctors.

New Haven, Conn., July 10.—A. Frank Wylie, owner of a prosperous grocery and glassware business and one of the leading residents of this city, failed in his fight of many years to conquer a strange disease that turned his bones to chalk, and he died last Sunday.

Physicians tried for years to solve the puzzle presented by Mr. Wylie's condition, but could not do so. The amputated one arm, a piece at a time, in efforts to check the disease, and proposed to amputate other limbs, but Mr. Wylie, losing hope of recovery, refused to permit them to do so.

Mr. Wylie was driving a horse one day when he slipped the lines on the animal's back to make him go faster. The jolt caused the bones of the forearm to snap, and that was the first he or the physicians knew that his bones were brittle.

These bones would not knit when set and as they were causing painful sores inside the arm the member was amputated just above the break. Later there was another operation, because the elbow could not articulate, the joints turning to chalk.

After this the progress of the disease was steady, causing all of Mr. Wylie's bones to become chalky and brittle. He had to be exceptionally careful as the least jolt, like stepping down suddenly from a street car, or being knocked against a door, was likely to snap one or more bones. He always was in danger of his bones breaking.

ABOUT 1,000,000 MINNOWS

To be Placed in the St. Lawrence River.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Sept. 10.—Superintendent Rhines, of the state bass hatchery, below this city, estimates that the output for the season will be 1,000,000 minnows at the minimum. In the two ponds in working order there are about 75,000 bass fry.

Much care is exercised to prevent the old fish from eating the minnows. As a precaution a shelf covered by shallow water has been arranged along the edge of the ponds. The older fish will not venture. Pond lilies, grass and leafy branches of maple are placed on the shelf for protection to the minnows.

The fish generated at the hatchery will be placed in the St. Lawrence river as Mr. Rhines says all other applications are filled.

Gloversville, N.Y., July 10.—Shortly after noon yesterday a rain of grasshoppers descended on the business section of this city and half an hour later it was impossible to walk in the main streets without stepping on them. They crawled into many of the stores.

Farmers in town declare that the grasshoppers are the thickest they can remember. They fear they will destroy the crops.

"LIFTING THE LID." Liberals Have Had Detectives at Work in Winnipeg. Winnipeg July 10.—Under the heading "Lifting the Lid on Hidden Politics," the Free Press asserts that a number of the ablest men in this continent have been in Winnipeg for several months. They were brought here by the executive committee of the liberal party. These detectives, it is asserted, have made daily reports, and all but one are still working here. One left yesterday it is stated, and some of his experiences are reported. Scientific methods were used "to the limit." The expert, it is alleged, became intimate with various members of the government "machine." In his record, the detective tells of an introduction to Premier Roblin. "One day Mr. Whyte was coming down to his office after there had been a labor trouble over which some men were rather bitter, when, on the Main street, he met one of the men who had been quite a while in the employ of the road. The man was passing with his head down when Mr. Whyte stopped and speaking to him by name, said: "John, what have I ever done to you that you should cut me on the street?" And the man replied: "Mr. Whyte, I was really ashamed to look you in the face after all your kindness to me." "Well," said Mr. Whyte, "never be ashamed to meet your friends, come and see me if you are in trouble." One can easily understand what an influence that interview would have.
