GOT SOME MEDICINE

FROM DR. ROBINSON, TAMWORTH FOR HIS STOMACH

Mystery About Miss York's Disappearance Unsolved—Suicide is the Strong Theory.

Over the long distance telephone this afternoon it was stated that there were no further developments at Tamworth in the mysterious disappearance of Miss Blanche York, a detective has been there working on the case, but could find out nothing and has left. The district has been thoroughly searched and now the authorities are simply waiting for any new developments.

Three theories have been presented. These are that the girl has met with foul play at the hands of some unknown person, that she has done away with herself, or that she has been taken from the vicinity to some other place because of a position in which the young woman is alleged to have found herself.

Her last known appearance was at the office of Dr. Robinson in Tamworth, on the evening of July 8, between the hours of 8.15 and 9.45. Dr. Robinson is a young physician, who has been in Tamworth for six months. He declares that the young lady called on him for treatment for stomach trouble. He says that he examined her and gave her a bottle of medicine, and that she left the office some time after 9 o'clock. The medicine given to her, he says, contained some strychnine. The entire bottle, if taken at once, he says, would be sufficient to kill her. A possible clue as to the end of the mystery was given by the doctor, who states that next morning he found that a bottle containing about fifty carbonate of mercury tablets, of which one would be sufficient to cause death was missing from a shelf near where he had examined the young woman.

Dr. Robinson says that she was in his office at 8.15 and left after nine. He did not see her afterwards. (See also page 3.)

GOOD FELLOWS, ALL.

Dedicated to the Kingston Gun Club.

"Pull, bang, dead." No sweeter music ever pleased the sportsman's ear than this sing-song of the trap shoot. We're plumb glad that they are here, all these chaps who with the shot-gun practice the sailing clay—many men who seek their pleasure in the open light of day. Careless of wind or weather, reckless of the twelve-bore's kick, clear of eye and swift of judgment, on the trigger lightning quick, whether shooting in the morning or outside the cash they're found, still—they are, from crack to notice, a good bunch to have around.

Speaking to the larger issue of the city's upward climb, it's a mighty potent power they bring against a softened time when the shameless molycottles makes his boast that he is shy of the thunder of the smoke stick and would forego its laying by. Picked men, all, these come together to enjoy the manly fun which is theirs to whom the pleasure just to practice with a gun. Arms are still the badge of freedom, as they were since time began, and, as from the race's dawn, he who wields them, meet a man.

HAND JAMMED BY STONE

Accident to George Bewis on Collegiate Institute Extension.

On Wednesday afternoon George Bewis met with a painful accident while at work upon the masonry of the extension of the Collegiate Institute. He and other men were in the act of placing a large stone in position when it slipped and gave Mr. Bewis a heavy blow upon the hand. The flesh was pretty badly jammed and cut between the thumb and first finger. As a result Mr. Bewis fainted and a long time was required before he regained consciousness. It was then necessary for him to be taken to a doctor who dressed and stitched the wound.

Coming to Penitentiary. It is probable that Scarfo, of Port Arthur recently reprieved will be removed this week from the jail to one of the penitentiaries, Kingston very likely, as this is the prison to which many of the men having a life sentence to serve are taken.

Sent to Montreal. An old resident of the city told the Whig on Thursday that on July 16th, 1873, 119 convicts from Kingston penitentiary were shipped to St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary on the steamer Pierpoint, the Quebec prison having opened a short time before. At that time there were over 990 prisoners in the big prison at Portmouth.

Sunday School Picnic. Calvary Sunday school held its annual picnic on Wednesday afternoon. For a small school it had one of the largest turnouts of the season. Two hundred attended and had various sports, which were carried out satisfactorily. Owing to the intense heat, however, the baseball match was cancelled after a few innings had been played. The chief sport among the boys was swimming and this they participated in quite freely. John Davis and Ernest Watts had charge of the sports and credit is due them for the success achieved.

To Begin Next Week.

Unless something unusual happens the men employed by Foley & Gleason, road paving contractors, will commence the work of laying the asphalt top dressing on the pavement on Princess street about the first of next week.

The men employed on laying the sand stone bricks are rushing the work along the side of the rail on the north side of the street so that the asphalt gang can commence work.

From the present outlook the work will not be completed for Old Boys' Day, July 27th. It will take about three to four weeks to lay the sand stone.

The show promises to be a big feature of the programme for the old boys' celebration.

WILL DEPORT LAZY MEN.

Those Who Refuse to Work Will Be Sent Home.

"Any men who have been placed in positions by the immigration department and refuse to work this coming winter will be deported," was the statement of Immigration Officer George Hunter to the Whig on Thursday morning.

Col. Hunter stated that the churches and charitable institutions have carried a number of these people long enough and he had decided to make this move.

Although there is lots of work on the farm, a large number of men and women refuse to stay on them.

For some time past, the local immigration officer has tried to make all the immigrants who seek work on the farms of the county sign a contract with the farmers, so that they would not be out of work during the winter months. In some cases the people take the advice of the officer.
