GREAT LAKES CITIES

TYPHOID CENTRES, SAYS INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION.

They Pollute the Lakes—The Pollution Could Be Avoided By the Treatment of Sewage. The avoidable pollution of the waters of the great lakes system takes place in contravention to the treaty of January 11, 1909, between Great Britain, acting for Canada, and the United States, in the commission of the progress report issued Saturday of the international commission appointed to investigate the pollution of the boundary waters. Sewage from the larger lake cities is held to be mainly responsible, though vessels (are) blamed, too. The population situated upon the boundary waters is placed at seven million. The following sections of the boundary waters are specifically reported as avoidably polluted.

All Rainy River, from Rainy Lake to Lake of the Woods. St. Mary's River, both above and below the Sault.

St. Clair River, extending across entire stream, polluted by Fort Huron and Sarnia.

Lake St. Clair, contaminated by the sewage from vessels.

Detroit River for its entire length polluted by sewage from Detroit, Windsor, Walkerville, Sandwich, Wyandotte, Trenton and Amherstburg.

Lake Erie, at west end, Niagara River, polluted by sewage from Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Ont., and Niagara Falls, N.Y., Tonawanda, Bridgeburg, Lewiston, Chippewa Creek, Youngstown, and Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Lake Ontario. St. Lawrence River, polluted by sewage from Brockville, Gananoque, Kingston and Prescott, Ontario and Clayton Cape Vincent, and Ogdensburg, N.Y., besides by vessels.

High Bacterial Count. By far the largest part of this population is centred in the growing cities on both sides of the line situated on the rivers connecting the Great Lakes system between the United States and Canada. As shown by the report of the sanitary experts herewith submitted, the use of these waters for the purpose of sewage disposal has at many places, and at all the large centres of population above referred to, especially those situated on the connecting rivers, resulted in gross pollution of these waters, and in some places it extends from shore to shore, reaching as high as 34,000 B. Coll per 100 c.c. In addition to the pollution thus occasioned, twenty-six thousand vessels passed through the Detroit River alone in 1912. It is estimated that these and other vessels navigating the Great Lakes and their connecting rivers carried during the season of navigation that year, a population of not less than fifteen million. The sewage of these vessels is discharged and disposed of indiscriminately along their sailing route, and in the harbours where they land, contributing very materially to the pollution found to exist, and complained of by the peoples in both countries.

Buffalo Chief Offender. Buffalo city is the chief source of contamination for the Niagara River, but conditions at Detroit furnish a still more difficult problem.

The commission points out that the Lake cities are favored in every way over cities of the same size in Europe. Yet in Europe, a typhoid death rate of 5 per 100,000 is the average in the latter cities, while on the Great Lakes system, where sewage is poured into a water supply, by nature the meanest in the world, the typhoid death rate in the last three years has registered over 300 at Ashland, Wis., 109 in Marquette, Mich., 196 in Port Huron, Mich., 194 at Niagara Falls, 190 in Erie, Penn., 179 in Port Arthur, 330 in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., 134 in Sarnia, 235 in Windsor, and 57 in Walkerville, 63 in Brockville.

The remedy suggested, is that all sewage should be treated before entering the lakes and rivers, and that vessels be regulated more strictly as to their sewage disposal arrangements.

A SUDDEN DEATH. Canada's Census Taker Began as a Journalist.

Ottawa, July 28.—Archibald Blue, chief officer of census and statistics for Canada, died rather suddenly at his residence on Sunday morning. He had been ill for about two years, and his condition had been serious for the last three weeks, though death was not expected. He was a native of Oxford, Ont., and in his seventy-fourth year.

Mainly owing to the fact that he was in charge of the last two censuses of Canada, the late Mr. Blue was known throughout Canada. Originally a school teacher, he entered journalism on the staff of the St. Thomas Journal (1867 to 1879), when he became an editorial writer on the Toronto Globe, and in 1880 went over to the Toronto World. In 1882 he organized and became secretary of the Ontario bureau of industries and was appointed provincial deputy minister of agriculture in 1884. He afterwards acted as secretary of the commission of enquiry into the mineral resources of the province, and organized the bureau of mines, remaining at its head for nine years, until he came to Ottawa in 1900 as chief census commissioner for Canada. On Oct. 1st, 1905, he was appointed chief officer of census and statistics.

He was a Baptist. He was twice married, and his widow, who was Amelia Brabant, of Toronto, survives him, with three children: Capt. W. A. Blue, Ottawa; Walter, inspecting engineer, and Wilson, managing editor of the Vancouver News-Advertiser.

At Hull, Que., half a million dollars worth of lumber was destroyed by fire. The city was in peril. "Woodbury soap" at Gibson's.

EDMONTON HAS MASS MEETING.

Demands the Resignation of Mayor McNamara.

Edmonton, July 28.—A stormy mass meeting of citizens demanded the immediate resignation of Mayor McNamara. A passage of the resolution stated that recent investigations before Justice Scott had revealed the fact that the mayor had been "either wholly remiss in the administration of the city's affairs, or incompetent to administer the same."

The meeting was presided over by Rev. Dr. McEwen, ex-moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly, and was largely attended. A resolution, moved by ex-Mayor McDougall, asked that the police be put in control of a commission. This was carried almost without opposition.

Mayor McNamara was not present at the meeting, having declined to attend, as he said it was not called in the regular way, by a petition of citizens, addressed to him.

KING GUSTAV V. OF SWEDEN.

And His Royal Consort, Queen Victoria.

UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD, N.Y.

King Gustav, the fearless sovereign of the most educated common folks in Europe and the despair of his cabinet, has just been sustained at the national election. Arouned by Russian aggression, thousands of Swedes made a demonstration in favor of military and naval armament reforms, a patriotic demonstration because it meant greater taxation. He is a son of Oscar II, and one of the Bernadotte dynasty. He is fifty-six years old, has an irreproachable character, which is refreshing in European court circles, and has joined heartily in the movement for greater national defense. His declarations along this line, without consultation with his cabinet, evoked resentment from them and he has had cabinet troubles ever since. Dr. Knut Hammarstrom has just formed a new cabinet in sympathy with the king. Gustav once disguised himself as a stevedore and spent hours carrying coal from a lighter, so as to directly ascertain the views of his common people.

The queen is fond of Stockholm and of the Swedish people, unlike her daughter-in-law, Maria Pavlovna, who recently deserted Prince Wilhelm, the queen's second son, because life at the Swedish court was unequalled compared with the dazzling brilliancy of Petersburg, where Wilhelm married her. The queen is four years younger than the king and is devoted to him. They have had three children, the others being Prince Adolf, who married the Duke of Connaught's daughter, and Prince Eric. When the king was suffering his original serious attack of ulceration of the stomach and its more recent recurrence, the queen insisted on staying at his bedside, along with other members of the royal family. Her husband believes in woman suffrage and has presented a suffrage bill to the parliament, to give women the franchise for parliamentary elections. Incidentally, Sweden has recently expelled Mormon missionaries.

To Banish Wrinkles and Freshen Up Quickly

After a strenuous day outdoors, when winds, heat and exhaustion have combined to take away one's freshness and caused the skin to wrinkle and sag—or after a tedious or fretful day follows—one often has urgent need for some quick rejuvenator. Maybe there's a large party on for the evening, or some other social event. How in the world can one make herself presentable, looking as she does? It's quite easy.

Just get an ounce of powdered saccharine and a half pint of water. In the nearest drug store, mix the two and bathe the face in the solution for two or three minutes. Then look into your mirror and behold the wonderful transformation. Wrinkles have vanished, loose, tired muscles have been rested and "rimed up," marks of fatigue have flown, and you look so much brighter and younger you can hardly believe your eyes. No-one need hesitate to try this, the witch hazel and salicylate being so perfectly harmless.

ORRIN DEAN VICTIM

OF DROWNING ACCIDENT AT BARDOLPH, SUNDAY.

Deceased Was Twenty-four Years of Age—Lived With His Sister, Mrs. H. Miller, Division Street.

A particularly sad drowning occurred on Sunday afternoon, about 5 o'clock, in front of Bardolph, near Huff's landing, a short distance from Napanee. Orrin Dean was the victim. He has been living since he came to the city, two years ago, from Toronto, with his sister, Mrs. Harold Miller, 212 Division street. He came originally from Hillsdale, near Barrie. He was 24 years old on the third of May.

Dean and his brother-in-law, Harold Miller, left at 7 o'clock Saturday night to spend the holiday with William Miller at Bardolph. Sunday afternoon about 4.40 o'clock, Dean, Harold Miller and the latter's cousin, Overton Miller, decided to go in for a swim. Both of the Millers were good swimmers and Dean was fairly good. They had been in about twenty minutes when Dean remarked to Harold Miller about the depth of the water where he was, a little further out than the other two. After passing this remark, he sank down in the water, presumably, to find the bottom, and the next Harold Miller saw was his two hands up. Miller noticing the strange expression on his face, grabbed the arms and tried to move him, but the body could not be moved. He then dove three times trying to see what was holding him under, but the third time the body fell over backwards out of sight.

Miller, then, was so exhausted that he had to go ashore. Overton Miller in the meantime had brought a boat out and had then gone for help. Grappling was started, first with Dean from a horse rick and later with grappling hooks obtained at the resort. Two other men had come in the meanwhile, one of them an expert diver, and gave them help, but it took an hour and a half to get the body. Dr. T. W. Simpson, of Napanee, had, meanwhile, been called to the scene. Death had been due, in his opinion, to either cramps, caused by rheumatism, to which the deceased was subject, or to the swallowing of a mouthful of water that choked him.

The survivors are his father, Stephen T. Dean, of Hillsdale, and five sisters, Mrs. H. Miller, of this city; Mrs. Willis Spring, of Elmvale; Miss Iona Dean, of Toronto; Miss Grace Dean and Thelma Dean of Hillsdale.

The body of Orrin Dean was conveyed to the city on the eight o'clock train. The funeral will be at eleven o'clock Wednesday morning from 212 Division street. Rev. G. I. Campbell will conduct the services and the funeral will be to Cataragui cemetery.

TO SEEK MEDIATION.

London, July 28.—Sir Edward Grey has invited the governments of Austria-Hungary, Serbia and Russia, to suspend operations pending the result of his proposed mediatory conference in London. His suggestion in regard to the conference is that the French, German, and British ambassadors in London should confer with him in the endeavor to find a means of solving the present difficulties.

The German government is favorable to mediation in principle as between Russia and Austria.

The Italian government informed Sir Edward Grey that it accepted his invitation to join in a mediation conference.
